San Rafael, County Hold Talks On Avoiding Tangle

By NELS JOHNSON

The possibility that the county will test San Rafael redevelopment plans in the courts appeared to diminish yesterday as supervisors and city councilmen met to iron out differences between the two groups and avoid litigation.

But Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste said the county would not rule out the possibility of a court battle and declared that "If we don't sue you . . we'll be in a very poor position to sue others" seeking to finance improvements through redevelopment.

Though no agreement was reached at the meeting, city and county officials set 10 a.m. Dec. 6 in city hall for another joint session aimed at avoiding litigation.

Baptiste asked the city to present specific projects along with a cost analysis at the meeting. "After we know what these are, the county can determine the suit possibility," he said.

The county threatened legal action last month if the city approved redevelopment plans for the downtown and eastern portions of the city; the council approved the plan last week and is expected to adopt the proposal at 8 p.m. Monday.

The county claims it and other taxing agencies will lose revenues because of a complicated financing system that allows redevelopment agencies to freeze assessed valuation and use tax revenues resulting from future increases for financing of improvements.

(The council, meanwhile, has offered to return to the San Rafael school system tax revenues resulting from increases in assessed valuation of up to 4 per cent within the redevelopment area. The board of education will consider a counter-proposal in a special meeting set for 7:30 p.m. today.)

Present at yesterday's joint session were Mayor C. Paul Bettini, Councilman Lawrence E. Mulryan, Redevelopment Agency Director and Asst. City Mgr. William J. Bielser, other agency staff, Baptiste, Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere, Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell and other county staff.

Baptiste began the session on a fiery note, declaring he felt "like a person who has been raped and asked to come afterward to discuss the issue." Baptiste pointed out that the

Novato Bypass Trouble Forecast

The Highway 101 bypass, which will speed the flow of traffic through Novato, has raised fears that it will create hazardous conditions north of the city.

Unless plans are changed, the Marin County airport and McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. will continue to lack feeder lanes for exit and entrance on the freeway.

The problem of getting on and off the highway has already reached such proportions that McGraw-Hill this week changed working hours for its 140 employees.

Chief administrator Edward B. MacGuire reported the firm has changed its 9-to-5 schedule to 8:30 to 4:30 to spare employees entering the highway at rush hours.

About 40 per cent of the employees live north and have to cross the southbound lanes and divider and try to get into the northbound lanes when heading homeward, he said.

When the bypass is completed in mid-1974, traffic stops in Novato will have been eliminated and there will be nothing to slow the Northbound flow," and going out directly onto the highway "will be a very bad situation," he said.

Macguire said a frontage road or an overpass was needed since "there's no way we're going to get a traffic light."

State and county spokesmen said the potential hazard is being considered and county airport manager Francis E. Torr said the matter was before the Marin County Aviation Commission last night.

"We're trying to advise the safest type of connection for the airport and McGraw-Hill," said Harold Taylor of the planning department of the State Division of Highways office in San Francisco.

Without the stop lights in Novato, there won't be gaps in the northbound traffic when the bypass is completed, he said. "Some place you have to end the freeway and that's where you have potential hazards."

Peter Lind, owner of Shipwreck Pete's restuarant, at the spot where the bypass will end, said "what we really need is an overpass."

Eventually, a frontage road will serve the restuarant, but current plans don't extend that frontage road to McGraw-Hill, north of the restuarant.

At present, Lind said, the entrance to his restuarant, in the midst of a construction area, "is really a hazard," and has caused a drop in business.

George Davison, principal engineer, Marin County Department of Public Works, said the county and state are concerned about the possibility of putting airport motorists "at the mercy of 70-mile-an hour traffic."

An interchange in the area is "five to 15 years away," he said. On the east side of the highway, there is potential for a frontage road to the airport, using in part the old Highway 101 roadway. This, however would be fairly costly since it would require almost a mile of new roadway to reach Airport Boulevard he said.

Davison said that when the bypass was planned about a decade ago the airport wasn't as busy, the McGraw-Hill plant wasn't in the area and industrial development, now proposed, wasn't foreseen for years.

Joseph W. Wright of the economic development committee of the Novato Chamber of Commerce, said land is available near the airport for development, but potential users won't act until something is done to provide access to the land.

There are plans for a 13-acre industrial park east of the highway and the Novato General Plan indicates industrial uses on both sides of the highway in that area, he said.

Wright suggested that the haul road, east of Highway 101, being used by Freeman-Sondgroth, co-contractor on the bypass, be used for a frontage road. Another hazard in the area are dump trucks entering the freeway directly from the Redwood Sanitary land fill roadway north of the airport, Wright said.

Using the haul road for a frontage road "would be better than trying to cross a freeway, but it wouldn't be permanent. There has to be an interchange, Wright said.

James W. Robertson, Marin County traffic engineer, said a frontage road to the airport would provide a temporary solution. Then, he said, an effort could be made to speed up the process to set a location for an interchange.

Wright also is pushing for the state to proceed with plans for extension of the Highway 101 freeway from the end of the bypass project to the Sonoma County line.

Meanwhile, growing fear of growing danger on the freeway is the order of the day north of Novato.

County Offers Little Aid On Northridge Purchase

By PAT PERRY

City Councilmen from Mill Valley, Corte Madera and Larkspur, who went to a meeting on an open-space plan for Northridge hoping to hear how much of the land the county's newly formed regional park district will buy, came away disappointed last night.

County officials made it abundantly clear that the county's regional park district, like God, will only help those who help themselves.

San Rafael, Tiburon, Mont Marin and Lucas Valley — communities which have gone ahead with their own open-space purchases through bond issues — were held up as shining examples.

"I would seriously suggest Mill Valley, Larkspur and Corte Madera consider a bond issue," said Supervisor Michael Wornum, himself a Mill Valley resident. The Marin County Board of Supervisors will act as directors of the regional park district, formed as the result of the passage of Measure A on the Nov. 7 ballot, he explained.

"A bond issue like San Rafael's and Tiburon's. When it comes to the crunch, priorities will be given by the county to help cities prepared to bond themselves," predicted Wornum, who presided over the informal meeting.

Mayors, councilmen and planning commissioners from the three central Marin cities had just taken their first look at a preliminary open space plan for Northridge, delineating 1,347 acres of ridgelands, hillsides and canyons to be preserved.

The $3,800 report, paid for by the Marin Conservation League and the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department, was prepared by landscape ar-

Hanoi Rejects Basic Changes In Draft For Viet Cease-Fire

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

North Vietnam today rejected any basic changes in the draft for cease-fire in Vietnam, but the United States said that peace was coming nevertheless.

All indications were that the private talks between presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho, a member of the ruling Politburo in Hanoi, would resume this weekend or early next week.

Xuan Thuy, the chief Hanoi negotiator in Paris, said Tho would fly to Paris tomorrow from Moscow, and White House sources said Kissinger would leave "soon," the exact time to be announced later.

The White House has continued to express optimism over the outcome of the Kissinger-Tho talks and U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter reflected that optimism at today's session of the regularly scheduled talks in Paris.

"Each of us is aware that the restoration of peace in Vietnam is approaching," Porter said. "The goal of a peaceful settlement (is) much nearer than we imagined only a few weeks ago."

He took note of a series of tirades by the Viet Cong delegation in Paris and Hanoi Radio and called on the Communists not to endanger peace by invective, exaggerated rhetoric, recriminations and unfounded charges of bad faith.

Thuy told the 167th session of the peace talks, "we resolutely reject all pretexts put forward by the United States and Saigon for modification of the substance of the agreement."

"There is no argument which militates in favor of a modification of the agreement," he said. "We demand that the United States sign the draft as it has been agreed as early as possible."

Despite Thuy's statements, South Vietnamese negotiator Nguyen Xuan Phong renewed Saigon's demands for changes in the nine-point agreement broadcast by Hanoi Radio— demands that have so far blocked signing the agreement.

Housing Authority In Financial Bind

The Marin County Housing Authority board decided last night that the authority will have to rent more public housing units to families with higher incomes than most of those now living in the projects in order to avert a financial crisis for the authority.

To qualify for public housing, a person must have an income of between zero and $10,000, depending on the size of the family ($10,000 for a family of eight or more), according to Wallace K. Shepherd, authority executive director.

Although no exact figures are available, Shepherd said the majority of those now living in Marin public housing have incomes toward the low end of the eligibility scale.

"We have a lot of people who are paying nothing or $10 or $15 a month rent," he said.

Because new federal regulations state that a person in public housing cannot pay more than 25 per cent of his income for rent, those with extremely low incomes are a financial drain on the authority, Shepherd said.

"In many cases people are paying less than it costs to maintain a unit," the executive director said. "So we need more people with higher incomes to balance everything out."

The board decided that it will rent to more people at the high income scale in order to obtain greater revenues.

Shepherd said the authority will try to attain a balance of incomes in the projects, with one-third at the low end of the income scale, one-third in the middle and one-third at the top.

He said the authority staff will have to determine the current range of incomes in its projects in order to decide which tenants applying for public housing will be selected to achieve the desired balance.

Two Southern U Students Killed In Administration Building Battle

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies and militant black students who had seized control of the Southern University administration building battled with guns and tear gas today. Two students were killed.

Officers swept onto the campus with leashed dogs at their sides to oust the blacks who had taken over the building during the morning. The students were ordered to leave.

Five minutes later, deputies moved into the crowd of students blocking the building entrance. A smoke grenade was thrown toward the officers.

Gunshots were fired, but Sheriff Al Amiss of East Baton Rouge Parish said his men did not fire their pistols, shotguns or rifles. He said the deputies fired only tear gas.

At the end of the 10-minute battle, two students lay dead.

"Two have been shot and there may be more if necessary," said Baton Rouge Mayor W. W. Dumas. "We've sent the dogs in to get them out of the building. We are going to take back over the administration building at any cost."

Sheriff Amiss said he assured the governor that his deputies were armed only with tear gas when they moved onto the campus.

"As far as I know, none of our men fired shotguns or their rifles," Amiss said. "All the weapons that we fired were tear gas. We threw tear gas canisters at them after they threw it at us."

Hypolite Landry, East Baton Rouge Parish coroner, confirmed that two persons were dead. He said they apparently had been shot.

"I ordered the students to move out," Amiss said. "There were 2,000 students there at the time. We gave the students five munites to move out. We moved toward the middle. They did a flanking maneuver to the right of the building. Next thing I knew, they threw tear gas canisters and fragmentation bombs."

The sheriff said the bombs looked like grenades.

"There is a price that you pay for appeasement," Mayor Dumas said after the battle. "And if you appease people, you can expect the worst."

Militant students at the mostly black college had boycotted classes for two weeks at both B2ton Rouge and New Orleans campus. Students sought the resignation of the school president and more student control over campus life.

Nixon, Kissinger Talk On Telephone

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon, working at his Camp David retreat, talked on the telephone for 25 minutes Thursday with Henry A. Kissinger, his foreign affairs adviser who is expected to leave momentarily for more Paris peace negotiations.

The White House has refused to say when Kissinger will meet in the French capital with Le Duc Tho, Hanoi's representative, but it was expected the two would meet again this weekend or early next week.

Brief Respite From Storms

A watery sun shone over Marin and Sonoma counties today bringing a brief respite from storms that have already dumped over four times the seasonal average of rainfall.

The latest storm brought 1.10 inches of rain to Mill Valley, and 1.05 to the Tamalpais Valley. San Rafael's total this season is already up to 18.11 inches.

There is little chance for the area to dry out, however. The forecast is for showers to decrease tonight, with a chance of rain again tomorrow evening as a new storm moves in from the Pacific.

Ross Hospital Leads Marin In Abortions

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The largest number of legal abortions performed last year in Marin County took place at Ross General Hospital, a state report released yesterday revealed.

In the first hospital-by-hospital breakdown of state abortion figures, it was reported that 487 such operations were performed in Marin County in 1971, with 260 of them at Ross General.

Statewide, the abortion totals increased last year to 116,749 as compared to 62,542 in 1970. The state's abortion laws were liberalized in 1967, allowing so-called "therapeutic" surgeries to end pregnancy.

The second highest number of abortions in Marin took place at Marin General Hospital, where 211 cases were reported. The hospital which has 245 beds, including an obstetrics ward,

Picket Line Vote

NEW YORK (UPI) —Members of the union representing actors, broadcasters and announcers last night voted to honor picket lines set up by striking technicians at facilities of the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS).

The vote by members of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA) to honor the picket lines of Local 1212 of the International Brotherhhood of Electrical Workers was 211-159.

AFTRA's own three-year contract with CBS expired last night. The union spokesman said contract negotiations were continuing.

End Of Exile

ROME (UPI) —One-time Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron today spent what supporters called his last day of his 17-year exile today. But in Buenos Aires a Peron spokesman said the 77-year-old former dictator might delay his return.

Peron was scheduled to leave by chartered Italian airliner late today, but a spokesman in the Argentine capital said he might not go to Buenos Aires as he planned—but might go instead to Uruguay or Paraguay.

The spokesman said Peron would go to one of the other countries unless the military government of Gen. Alejandro Lanusse relaxed its restrictions on the number of persons allowed to welcome Peron.

Heath In Ireland

BELFAST (UPI) —Prime Minister Edward Heath flew to Northern Ireland today for a two-day visit and was met by some of the tighest security measures ever put into effect at Belfast's Aldergrove airport.

Roads around the airport were saturated with troops and soldiers patroled with guard dogs to screen Heath from possible attacks.

Eagleton View

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Sen. Thomas Eagleton believes Sen. George McGovern probably would have lost the presidential race anyway, but he wouldn't have been as big a loser if he had kept Eagleton as his running mate.

"I firmly believe if I had stayed on the ticket, I would have been more of an asset than a liability," Eagleton told a meeting of newspaper editors Wednesday.

The Missouri Democrat said McGovern probably would have lost anyway, because "his views such as amnesty, pot, abortion and $1,000 welfare plan —some or all of these views— disturbed a great number of people."

Pilots May Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The leader of the commercial pilots union says another wildcat strike may be recommended next week in an attempt to force tighter security against airline hijackings.

Capt. J. J. O'Donnell, president of the 35,000-member Air Line Pilots Association said yesterday that both the government and the airlines are "dragging their feet" in the hope "the problem would go away."

O'Donnell said the ALPA board of directors at a meeting next week would probably vote to recommend a worldwide work stoppage. He said any walkout would be early next year.

Fare Bias Charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A consumer group backed by Ralph Nader accused the nation's airlines today of fare discrimination against children.

In a petition filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), the Aviation Consumer Action Project complained that the airlines charge a higher fare for a child traveling on a domestic flight than for a child traveling on an international flight.

According to the complaint, 10 major airlines "by concerted action" last month raised the domestic fare for children from 50 per cent to 66 and two-thirds per cent of the adult fare for the same trip.

But the complaint said the 50 per cent formula continues to apply for childrens' fares on international flights.

Search For Boggs

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —The Alaska Air Command vowed today the search for House Majority Leader Hale Boggs and three companions who disappeared one month ago will not be marked "closed" until their small plane is found.

Boggs, 58, unopposed for reelection in his Louisiana district, was campaigning with fellow Democratic Rep. Nick Begich, 40, Alaska's lone congressman, when they boarded the twin-engine Cessna 310 here Oct. 16.

With them were Russ Brown, 38, aide to Begich, and Don Jonz, 37, Fairbanks, a veteran bush pilot who had just written an article on how a pilot could overcome aircraft icing if he was smart enough.

Indian Protest

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Leaders of the American Indian protest group that occupied the Bureau of Indian Affairs earlier this month charge that the government has broken another agreement with them.

Hank Adams, spokesman for the Trail of Broken Treaties movement, said the White House has ordered talks promised by the government on Indian demands broken off until thousands of stolen documents are returned.

"This is a direct violation of the agreement under which we left the building," Adams said Wednesday.

"The protection and return of property could easily be lost," he said, if Indians around the country who have the documents are frightened into thinking they will be prosecuted."

Deaths Probed

SCRANTON, Pa. (UPI) — State police are investigating the "suspicious" deaths of 20 mentally retarded patients at two state-licensed homes operated by John J. Reilly, who two years ago was charged with murder in one of the deaths.

A special state legislative committee today called state officials and former employes of one of the homes to testify about the latest death—that of Louis Novak, 15, a mongoloid, last August. His death was described in a coronor's report as "forcible drowning."

Thirteen of the deaths occurred between May, 1959, and November, 1961, at a home which Reilly and his wife, Letitia, owned in Scranton, police said. It is now closed. The seven others were recorded since 1963 at a home in Hawley, Pa.

State Official's Wife Is Facing Burglary Count

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) —The wife of a state deputy attorney general, charged with burglarizing 13 residences, appeared in justice court Wednesday.

Sevva Marie Walker, 35, wife of Blueford Franklin (Frank) Walker who works in San Francisco, stood silently as her attorney, William H. McPherson, waived her arraignment and preliminary hearing.

Justice Wade N. Shiflett bound her over to Napa County superior court for an appearance Nov. 22. Mrs. Walker remains free on her own recognizance.

Permit Is Sought For PG&E Work

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Pacific Gas & Electric Co. has asked the California Public Utilities Commission for approval to build four gas turbine generator units at a cost of $25 million.

PG&E said Wednesday the four units would be built here and would maintain reliability of electric service to the peninsula.

U.N. First For Woman President

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Madame Jeanne Martin Cisse rapped a gavel lightly on the podium Wednesday—and made history.

The act officially signaled the first appearance in 27 years of a woman as president of the U.N. Security Council.

The subject under discussion when Madame Cisse, 46, called diplomats to order was Portugal's territories in Africa, where nationalists and guerrillas are seeking self-rule.

The subject is one Madame Cisse knows well. She is from Guinea, which borders on the territory of Portuguese Guinea.

Madame Cisse, a mother of six who became her country's ambassador to the United Nations three months ago, was not elected to the Security Council post. It came to her under the alphabetical rotation system used by the Council's 15 members in choosing presidents every month.

Madame Cisse, long active in many African women's causes, wore a traditional long-flowing robe with a matching headdress—both made of brownish-colored cloth with flower patterns.

Two other African states sit on the Security Council— Somalia and Sudan—and Madame Cisse has joined them in every African initiative on Rhodesia or the Middle East.

Guinea is controversial to many westerners because of its close relations with the Communist bloc and its independent stance in dealing with France, the chief influence in West Africa.

But in the corridors of the United Nations, these matters do not loom so large and Madame Cisse was accepted without any problem.

She has a long record of serving in national, continental and international bodies dealing with subjects as varied as law and the status of women. She once said she feels shy here because she speaks English haltingly.

But there was no doubt that she is a diplomat.

When someone asked her Wednesday if she thought women should run the Security Council permanently because men have made such a mess of world affairs, she said nothing.

A U.N. FIRST — Jean Martin Cisse, of Guinea, president of the U.N. Security Council for November, opens her first meeting at United Nations Headquarters in New York yesterday. The presidency is on a rotating basis and the new leader is the first woman ever to become Security Council president. (UPI Telephoto)

Ransom Puts Airline In Financial Jeopardy

NEW YORK (UPI) —Southern Airways has been placed in a very serious financial position because of the $2 million ransom it had to pay three hijackers who forced one of its planes to Havana, it was reported today.

Secor D. Browne, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, said in an interview with the New York Times that unless Cuba returned the ransom, the airline faced not only the loss potential profit but also an undermining of its financial future.

The airline, which serves 60 cities in 13 states, had expected to earn a profit this year for the first time in six years. It had earned $1.3 million the first nine months of the year, the Times said.

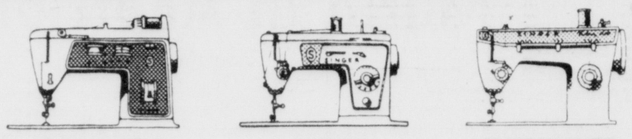

"The hijacker has his gun not only against the pilot's head, but trained on the whole air transport system and its economic well-being," Browne said.

The Times also said the U.S. State Department has urged Cuba to return the ransom.

But in the only other case in which a hijacker took money to Cuba, the Times said, Cuba refused to return it, saying it was impounded in exchange for Cuban assets frozen by the United States in its falling out with the Castro government. That case involved a man who robbed a San Juan bank of $290,000.

UNWANTED WATER — Youngsters and motorists navigate deep but at least unpolluted water at First and A streets in San Rafael. The minor flooding in Monday's storm resulted from overflow of Mahon Creek in the Albert Park area and from leaf-clogged drains, according to Norris M. Rawles, city public works director. Rawles said sanitary sewer work in the last year eliminated raw sewage from mingling with the storm runoff.

Cuba Hints Willingness To Reopen Hijack Talks

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The United States and Cuba appeared ready today to reopen previously-unsuccessful negotiations aimed at halting airline hijackings to the Communist island.

The head of the Air Line Pilots Assocation (ALPA) predicted Wednesday in Washington that pilots would hold a worldwide work stoppage early next year if security forces at airports have not been strengthened. Capt. J. J. O'Donnell accused both the government and the airlines of "dragging their feet" on the hijack issue.

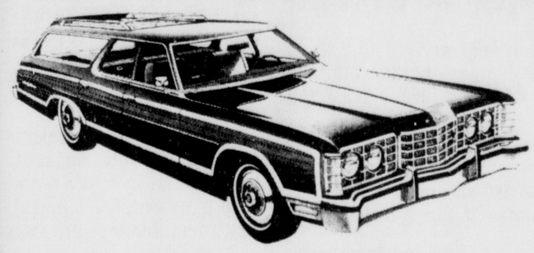

Havana Radio broadcast an offer Wednesday to work out a "broad agreement" with the United States for the return of hijackers seeking asylum in Cuba.

The government of Premier Fidel Castro, in its most positive statement yet on the issue, said it is "ready— seriously and without delay—to take steps" leading to a solution of the problem. The broadcast said the Cuban government "has absolutely no interest" in becoming a refuge for American criminals.

The offer, however, was conditioned on previously-stated demands that the United States return Cubans who flee the island in stolen planes and ships and that alleged sabotage and commando raids from U. S. territory cease.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray said the government intends to explore the "various straws in the wind" indicating Cuba now is ready to settle the hijacking issue.

Also in Washington, Edward E. Carlson, president of United Air Lines and head of the airlines' joint security committee, said the government must not reduce airport security guards as planned.

Stabbing On Carrier Is Reported

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — One of the sailors who staged a walkout from the crew of the aircraft carrier USS Constellation, but later returned, was stabbed with a can opener in a crewmen's quarters fight, the Navy disclosed Wednesday.

Airman Apprentice Arthur J. Spinks, 22, of Layton, Utah, was reported in good condition today at the San Diego Naval Hospital.

The stabbing had no connection with the personnel crisis on the carrier that has received so much attention and had no racial overtones since the two men involved were black, a spokesman said.

Airman Apprentice Larry Aaron, 19, St. Louis, Mo., was put in the ship's brig on suspicion of being the assailant, the Navy said.

Blind Workers In San Juan Strike

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) —Blind workers, demanding a wage increase from their present 80 cents an hour, picketed the government's Blind Industries Corp. Wednesday. Twenty of them, police said, were cited for blocking traffic.

The 32 blind workers at the plant went on strike several weeks ago demanding a contract and recognition of the Union of Cleaning Equipment and Materials of Puerto Rico as their bargaining agent.

Sewer Project Wins Praise During Storm

San Rafael citizens should expect flooding in the Albert Park, Woodland Avenue and Bret Harte areas whenever there is a storm such as Monday's downpour, City Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles warned yesterday.

But at least, the floodwaters will be "purer" than in previous years, the official said.

Rawles and Independent-Journal reporters checked most areas where raw sewage and other pollution erupted from sewers during the winter of 1970 and later. They found no evidence of the noxious material mingling with Monday's high water.

Rawles credited the $1.4 million sanitary sewer project now being done by the San Rafael Sanitation District with solving the pollution problem, if not the flooding.

He said the city's storm drains have been almost entirely separated from the sewage mains in the area between San Rafael High School and downtown San Rafael, and a larger pumping plant has been built to handle the sewage.

"There are no more popping manholes" at such corners as Second and Irwin streets, he said. For years, such outlets spewed raw sewage whenever heavy rains coincided with high tides and a southerly wind.

But Mahon Creek still overflows its banks as it did Monday, the storm drain inlets still clog with leaves, and the storm sewer mains themselves are too small to handle heavy runoff.

"We can't help it," Rawles explained. "The only thing that will handle it will be a major storm drain system." The city drew sets of plans during the middle 1950s and late 1960s for such a project, but residents turned down proposals to form assessment districts to finance the work, Rawles said.

He estimated the cost of adequate storm drainage for the city's older sections at $2.5 million.

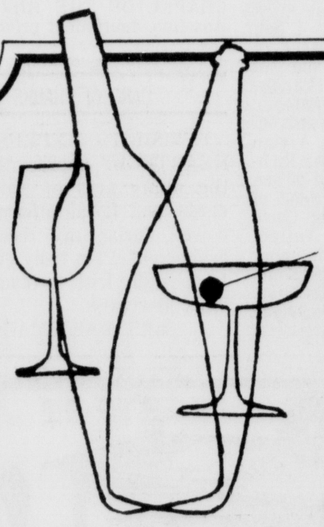

Though this winter thus far is the wettest in history, and nearly three inches of rain fell in San Rafael in the 24 hours ending at noon Monday, the high water that occurred was insignificant compared to three floods in the area in December 1969 and January 1970, a check of I-J accounts of the storm problems revealed.

The equipment was stolen from the car of James Gaffney of Santa Venetia while parked at 67 Edward Avenue, deputies said.

WINE OF THE MONTH

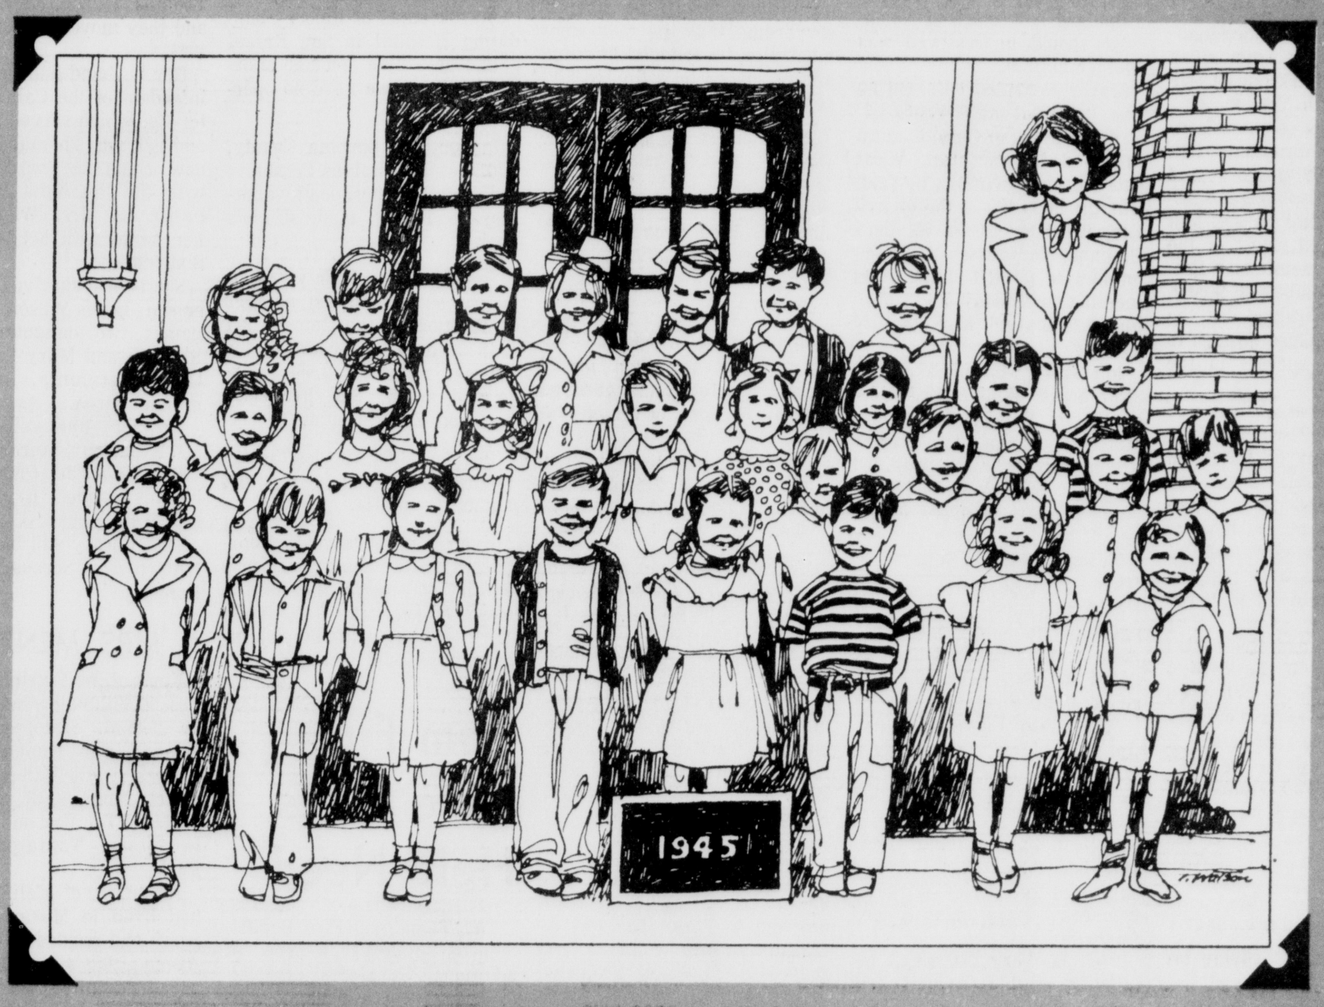

We are very excited about this superb Cabernet! We have been searching for a California red wine which met the dual requirements of drinkable now and suitable to lay away for five or more years. This wine meets both requirements so well that it is perhaps the best buy in California wine today. It is unfined and unfiltered, full of character, strength, and the necessary ingredients for staying power — attributes rare in many California wines today. It is certainly drinkable now, although not as finished as several 1969 California Cabernets, but the test of the wine is that it will age beautifully. Buy a bottle to try, then a case or more to lay away. This wine would make a perfect holiday gift for both friends and business or professional acquaintances.

We are proud to offer it at: $3.98 the fifth
$42.98 the case

The magic of Childhood.

Remember?

That's when the niftiest place to keep your money was in a wooden cigar box. And you really tried to save pennies, but lost them to a gumball machine eventually. Then your mother made you put half your allowance into a piggy bank that you hated because you couldn't get the nickels out when you wanted them.

At Bell Savings we make saving easier than that . . . particularly for junior savers. At Bell Savings their money earns money, just like magic: five percent on regular passbook accounts, or up to six percent on time deposits. And though they may not be too interested in our personal services, you'd probably like the free checking account and free safe deposit box that comes with a minimum deposit.

So when the time comes to teach your children about saving, bring them to Bell Savings where their money grows like magic. (It's a good place for grown-ups to save, too.) Bell Savings . . . the money-magic people.

Bolinas Partygoers Charges Reduced

What began yesterday in Bolinas as an exotic lynching case highlighted by the dancing and singing of a nude 51-year-old woman has been translated into three common misdemeanors by the Marin District attorney's office.

After a muddy struggle to arrest a man who had been playing with his patrol car, a sheriff's deputy and seven reinforcements arrested three persons, including the aging nude, on suspicion of lynching, a little used section of the Penal Code making it a felony to rescue a prisoner by rioting.

But later yesterday Eugenia Jefferson Butler, 51, and George Torello Marzocchi, 25, both of Bolinas, were charged with obstructing two deputies. Mrs. Butler also was charged with battery on Deputy John D. Brunslik and disturbing the deputy's peace "by tumultuous and offensive conduct."

She pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court and a pretrial conference was set for Monday. Marzocchi was to return to court today to plead. The third person arrested was less than 18 years old and was turned over to juvenile authorities.

The whole thing began when Brunslik went to 130 Aspen Road to try to quiet a noisy party, then returned about half an hour later for a second try shortly after 1 a.m.

During his second visit, an unnamed man with a half-gallon of wine turned on the red light of Brunslik's patrol car and began broadcasting, "One Adam Twelve, One Adam Twelve," over the car's two-way radio.

Attempts to arrest the joker, according to Brunslik, set off a wild struggle in the mud for up to half an hour until a second deputy arrived, according to Brunslik.

The second deputy arrived to help handcuff the man, but the two lawmen, thinking a crowd of 15 to 20 screaming partygoers would take the man, released him after learning reinforcements were half an hour away.

When help arrived, the three arrests were made, but the man who was turned loose had fled, according to Brunslik.

Mrs. Butler, according to her attorney, Marvin S. Cahn, is the estranged wife of James Butler, a prominent Los Angeles attorney.

The slender blonde woman had previously been arrested in Berkeley for taking her clothes off, Cahn said. During the Easter season last year, she and another woman romped about a Berkeley park, first in bunny costumes, then out of them, he said.

County Offers Little Aid On Northridge Purchase

chitect and planning consultant Brian G. Wittenkeller.

Total fair market value of the 1,347 acres is $2,898,808, said the report. About 394 of these acres, valued at $520,500 are in the unincorporated areas of Marin — mostly in Kentfield. About 95 acres, worth $496,500 are in Corte Madera. About 363 acres, worth $807,828, are in Larkspur, and about 494, worth $1,073,980 are in Mill Valley.

Included in the plan are Little King Mountain, Baltimore Canyon, Blithedale Ridge, Corte Madera Ridge, Alto Hill and the quarry site, Windy Ridge, plus what the plan calls "significant hillsides." Most of the terrain has a 30 per cent or steeper slope.

Prime purpose of the plan, said Wittenkeller, is to create a divider, "a sense of individuality," between the communities of Kentfield, Larkspur, Corte Madera and Mill Valley.

A distinct lack of enthusiasm for bond-issue proposals was evident among mayors and councilmen, and among the 100-plus audience that packed Mill Valley City Hall. Most of the audience were members of People for Parks and Open Space, the group that ramrodded the open space measure through to its resounding success in the election.

Charles Brousse, chairman of the Larkspur Town Meeting and a member of the open space group, said: "I feel the time isn't right for a bond issue. it would be too hard to arouse the citizens to support such an issue — when will the district begin parceling out the money?"

County Park and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske said each city in Marin had been asked to name its first priority for open space purchase. A "preliminary shopping list" will go to the county park and recreation commission meeting in December, and a final list to the supervisors in January or February.

The trouble is, added Supervisor Wornum, there's only $700,000 in the county budget to pay for the shopping list —the amount budgeted by supervisors in this fiscal year. A similar amount will be raised in future years by the 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation authorized by passage of the open space measure.

The mayors of the three cities, Jean S. Barnard of Mill Valley, Holmes S. (Pete) Norville of Corte Madera, and William G. Fleckles of Larkspur unanimously voted to inform the Marin County Board of Supervisors that the three cities consider Northridge their top priority for open space purchase.

But just how much of Northridge should be reserved was another matter.

Mayor Norville confessed he was "shocked and surprised" at the 95 acres of Corte Madera included in the plan. What shocked him the most, he said, was the inclusion of the quarry site, which the Corte Madera Planning Commission had recommended for R-1 zoning at its meeting on Monday, and subsequent "cluster" high-density housing.

Ida Gross, who said she owns 81.67 acres of Silverberg properties in Mill Valley, complained that she didn't know which parcels were proposed for open space purchase, and didn't want to wait any longer to sell her land.

Newly elected Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini said it would be crucial to have city participation to get a commitment from a majority of the board for four years for purchase of Northridge.

Mill Valley City Councilman Robert E. Capron suggested it was unfair to expect the cities to pay for open space that would benefit all of Marin.

Capron said raising funds with bonds was expensive and suggested the regional park district could use promissory note financing.

"In one year you could acquire $7 million worth of land on 10 per cent down," he said.

The loudest applause of the evening came after Pamela Lloyd of Mill Valley told city and county officials to actually do something.

"There have been a number of meetings between the three cities," she complained. "It seems to me you can't just keep asking people to come to meetings and then go back to your boards and general plans. This is a very important ridge between three cities, it's for the whole county.

"There has got to be an expression of priority. Let's say we want this piece of land, and no more studies."

The three mayors agreed to turn the Northridge plan over to their technical staffs, to discuss it at council meetings and to identify which parcels are involved. So would county staff, promised Joske.

Another joint meeting of city councils with county staff and supervisors Wornum and Giacomini was set for Jan. 29 at 8 p.m. at Mill Valley City Hall.

After the shooting, police barricaded the campus. Ambulances sped on and off the college grounds.

Gov. Edwin Edwards called out 700 National Guard troops to restore calm at the school, which had a student enrollment of 8,400.

Dumas said between 200 and 500 students were involved in the seizure of the building. The mayor said more than 100 sheriff's deputies were used to regain control of the building.

"We don't want anybody hurt," Dumas said when the officers moved in. "This is our prime concern —to get the university back where it belongs, in the hands of the administrators."

A witness said the deputies moved into a crowd of students blocking the entrance to the building. The two groups were talking when a smoke bomb was thrown at police.

That was when the gunfire started. The air was heavy with tear gas smoke.

Threat On Spread Of Bread Halt

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —The Bakery Workers Union plans to extend its strike, now confined to five states in the West, to Eastern States if no progress is made in getting consecutive days off for bakers.

"Eastward ho is our slogan," said Union leader Joseph Kane Wednesday.

He said if stalled negotiations are not resumed Friday, "each day we'll be tightening the pressure along the Eastward trail."

The strike against the nation's largest bakery, ITT-Continental, and a solidarity lockout by two other giant bakery firms, has idled 12,000 workers in California, Washington, Oregon Colorado and Utah.

The strike was called Saturday by the International Bakery and Confectionary Workers Union. "Our people are solid," said Kane, the union's vice president, plans to extend the strike to more states.

The only issue at stake is the tradition of split days off for bakers. The industry maintains that if its employes had Saturday's and Sundays off, consumers would not be able to buy fresh bread. Traditionally, bakeries suspended operations instead on Sundays and Wednesdays.

The union is demanding weekends off, saying bakers are entitled to the same work week other Americans enjoy, and arguing that with modern preservatives and wrappings there is no detectable difference between fresh bread and bread one or two days old.

REDEVELOP

council had already approved the redevelopment plan and its controversial method of tax increment financing.

Baptiste, noting that the Corte Madera, Larkspur, Tiburon, Sausalito and Novato have expressed interest in redevelopment, said that redevelopment could mean financial disaster for the county. "I don't see how I could in good faith approve San Rafael's plan and then preclude others from taking the same action," he said.

Baptiste also objected to the redevelopment area "which encompasses 25 per cent of San Rafael's assessed valuation." Baptiste's position appeared to mellow by the end of the meeting, however, with the supervisor urging that the redevelopment plan be reduced in scope and be placed on a limited six-year timetable.

Roumiguiere backed Baptiste in saying that the county's sale of Courthouse Square was made with the belief that tax revenues resulting from the development would benefit all taxing agencies that overlap the downtown area.

Roumiguiere urged that $55,000 in tax revenues anticipated to accrue to the county once the square is developed, be returned. But he was told by agency legal counsel Steven Goldfarb that redevelopment law made no provision for such a deal.

"We did the county a favor by getting rid of the courthouse, anyway," said Bettini.

Development of Courthouse Square — which Baptiste called the "fulcrum of the redevelopment plan" — is expected to pump $221,000 into redevelopment coffers the first year, according to Michael Mitchell, county auditor-controller.

Supervisors asked the city to limit the redevelopment program to six years, limit projects to those that will increase assessed valuation, and reduce the cost of projected improvements from $6 to $4 million.

Bettini agreed that improvements like city hall additions will "not be part of redevelopment," and that actual construction of redevelopment projects be limited to six or seven years.

It was unclear, however, whether or not the city would rule out projects aimed at establishing a new firehouse and parks.

The city also agreed to limit bonded indebtedness resulting from redevelopment to $6 million, saying that any added use of tax increment financing be subject to joint city-county approval.

The city pledged to produce a list of specific projects planned in the redevelopment area, along with a cost analysis, at the Dec. 6 meeting.

"Dec. 6 — that's the day before Pearl Harbor," quipped Mitchell. Godino noted that the county will have 60 days from the time the plan is adopted to file any legal action.

had 1,304 live births in 1970, a spokesman said today.

(Ross General, which is licensed for 239 beds, has no obstetrics department and there were no births, a spokesman said.)

Novato General Hospital, which has only 51 beds, reported 16 therapeutic abortions. During the same year 296 babies were born at the hospital.

A spokesman at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael said today, "We don't do abortions here. . .we have no operating room."

In Southern Sonoma County, Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma reported 115 therapeutic abortions last year, state officials said.

San Francisco County reported the second highest number of abortions in the state in 1971 with a total of 11,052 — the largest number, 2,689, performed at the San Francisco Eye and Ear Hospital.

Populous Los Angeles County reported the state's greatest number — 61,544.

Figures for therapeutic abortions have previously been given only on a regional basis, but in September, Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger said hospital-by-hospital figures should be public.

Tam Fire Aide Cites Help Need

The Tamalpais Fire Department is "in desperate need" of additional volunteers, especially for daytime service, according to Lt. Kenneth Fowler.

Fowler said the department, which maintains fire stations in Tamalpais and Homestead valleys, is now operating with four to six paid firemen per day, not enough to handle a really major fire.

"If such a fire breaks out during the daytime hours, volunteer personnel are badly needed," Fowler said.

To become a volunteer, an individual should be 25 years of age or older. It is not necessary to reside within the Tamalpais Fire protection district to qualify, Fowler said.

The new volunteers will receive protective clothing and home radios and will be trained at times convenient to them.

Particularly needed are persons available to respond to fires from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Information can be obtained by calling Fowler or going to the fire stations at 264 Evergreen Avenue in Homestead Valley or 309 Poplar Street in Tamalpais Valley.

CHARLES LITTON

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Funeral services will be held Friday for Charles V. Litton, 69, whose laboratory work in a California garage laid the foundation for the huge electronics firm which bears his name.

Litton founded Litton Engineering Laboratories in 1932 and Litton Industries in 1947. The latter was sold in 1953.

A Stanford University graduate, he worked at the Bell Telephone Laboratories in New Jersey and then as a vacuum tube engineer for Federal Laboratories.

Deciding to return to the San Francisco area, he went to work in his family garage in Redwood City and invented a glass blowing lathe which became the corner stone of his electronics empire.

The laboratories have since been moved to Dayton, Nev., and in a good year do about $500,000 worth of business.

But Litton made millions from patents on 65 inventions, most of them on methods for making electronic tubes.

In 1948 he was awarded the Presidential Certificate of Merit for his World War II work in radar equipment.

He said he believed the illness which caused his death Tuesday resulted from an Xray burn suffered early in his research career.

Miss Hasek, 69, died Monday in a local hospital after a brief illness. She had a history of heart trouble.

SPAN SIGN COMES DOWN

Crews for the Allied Structural Steel Co. remove one of the gigantic "Allied" signs from the traveling catwalk that was recently installed on the Golden Gate Bridge. Ray and Barbara Bourhis of the Public Interest Law Center in San Francisco grinned yesterday as dozens of passing motorists honked approval of the sign removal. The law center had filed suit in protest of the signs. Bridge officials said the removal work might be finished today or tomorrow.

Improper Fund Use Is Denied

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The University of California's Berkeley chancellor denied assertions by a New York state official Wednesday that in some instances he had misused public funds in that state.

The assertion was by Arthur Levitt, New York State controller, after an audit and concerned a special $2.7 million chancellor's fund that Chancellor Albert Bowker administered at the City University of New York.

Bowker declared there was "nothing improper or illegal" about the expenditures he authorized.

"I authorized payments from a discretionary fund in accordance with policies set by the Board of Higher Education of New York City," he said.

"All the uses I authorized were within established policies; none was improper or illegal."

In a report, Levitt listed technicalities he said had been violated and he also said some expenditures which, while allowable, "may be contrary to the spirit and purposes" of the fund.

Levitt said the fund was improperly used "primarily to enrich faculty-oriented programs."

In some cases, he said money spent should have come from other funds.

Mudslide Maroons Big Sur Residents

BIG SUR (UPI) —A massive mudslide poured down the cliffsides of this tiny coastal community Wednesday, sweeping away one building, blocking the only highway and marooning residents.

The slide came just a month to the day after a previous downpour of ooze and debris and Mrs. Charles Mohn, a resident, declared: "If you think the last slide was bad, you should see this one."

Swept away as the mud slid toward the Pacific Ocean was the Big Sur Garage. Other structures were badly damaged.

The Post office was filled with mud and water and mud reached to the second floor of the Village Store.

Don Smythe, an employe of the garage, said a tow truck was "upside down in the kitchen of my trailer." He had lived in the nearby trailer and said the truck, which broke in two, had gone through the trailer roof.

The California Highway Patrol reported Highway 1, which hangs on cliffs overlooking the ocean, was blocked by mud at several spots and that those staying at the River Inn were marooned.

-total of 35 persons in the Inn were cut off when the slides blocked the road both to the north and south.

Also marooned were three employes of the Cooper School which serves the area.

Water from the Big Sur River poured three-feet deep across the highway, the Highway Patrol said.

Contributing to the slide in the area favored by hippies, tourists and artists was the damage from the previous inundation of mud, a forest fire last summer and an unprecedented Northern California storm.

The fire cut down trees,underbrush and grass which would have helped prevent the previous slide. The first slide then left the area even more vulnerable.

Flour Shower Protests Hike In Mill Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) —Two young women Wednesday protested a price increase granted a milling company by throwing a few handfuls of flour at C. Jackson Grayson, chairman of the federal Price Commission.

Grayson, unperturbed, brushed himself off, said he sympathized with the women and continued his address to about 200 members of the New York Society of Security Analysts.

Grayson was lightly dusted with the flour while about a dozen security analysts took a heavier dose during the meeting in the financial district.

The women, Susan Steinman, 22, and Sharon Ayling, 21, said they represented a group called Women United for Action and were protesting rising food prices and an 11 per cent price increase granted to Pillsbury Mills Inc. They were removed from the room and released after the incident.

Only One More Needed For Christmas Trip

Fourteen Terra Linda High School students have signed up for a tour of Europe over the Christmas holidays, but unless another student signs up, the trip may be canceled.

"The travel agency requires that 15 students go along on the trip," said William Deering, president of the school's German Club which is sponsoring the event.

Deering said the group plans to leave Marin Dec. 16 for a 16-day tour of Germany, Austria and Italy. "But we need more people to sign up," he said.

Cost of the tour is $590, he said. Students interested in making the trip should contact the Northgate Travel Center.

Butz Likely To Remain As Ag Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Agriculture Department officials believe their leader, Secretary Earl L. Butz, is certain to remain on the job for the second term of President Nixon.

But whether Nixon's happiness with his "farm team" extends to all of the administrators working for Butz is a matter of some debate.

Sources in the department said Butz, his seven top aides, some 45 highly paid executives, and perhaps 150 others in jobs not under Civil Service control — such as Butz's chauffeur — have submitted their resignations. The act is a traditional gesture that allows the President to pick his own team for a second term.

Nixon will be sending word to Butz by perhaps mid-December on most of the officials—to keep them or let them go.

Military To Try Murder Suspect

HANOVER, Germany (UPI) —The Lower Saxony Justice Ministry said Wednesday that a U.S. military court will try Sgt. Thomas De Gregorio, an American soldier accused of killing two Army guards and a German cleaning woman on an express train last month.

De Gregorio, 26, turned himself in to the U.S. embassy in Beirut after a search for him in Germany, Austria and Italy.

Discussion Slated On Social Security

The 1972 amendments to the Social Security Act will be discussed Sunday by Edwin H. Leuin, Social Security district manager in San Rafael on the Louis Kuplan program, "A Gift of Time."

The program is to be shown on Channel 4, KRON-TV, at 10 a.m.

Modified Economics Program Is Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —a member of the government Price Commission has suggested "possible modifications" in the administration's economic stabilization program next year including the elimination of price controls from all retail sales and rental units.

Robert F. Lanzillotti told the National Economists Club Wednesday that he also favors abolishment of the profit margin rule and the possible merger of the Price Commission and Pay Board.

Lanzillotti, who emphasized he was speaking only for himself and not giving any official government view, said that "an acceleration in inflation is likely if controls were terminated at this point."

He added, however, that the economy's behavior in the year since the wage-price freeze "suggests the desirability of incorporating some wage-price discipline where market restraints are weak, to supplement fiscal and monetary tools."

The authorizing legislation for the current wage-price control program expires next April 30.

Lanzillotti said he favored, as "possible modifications" to the current program, "an early end to rent controls" and "eliminating controls altogether over the retail sector." He said that strong competition at the retail level is enough to hold prices down, especially if controls are maintained at the manufacturing level.

Collision Brings Driver's Arrest

A San Anselmo man was arrested on suspicion of felony drunken driving yesterday following a two-car collision on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo.

Daniel Charles Kaiser, 27, of 11 Hampton Avenue, was reported in satisfactory condition today in Marin General Hospital with facial cuts. He was booked in absentia into Marin County Jail to appear Nov. 22 in Marin Municipal Court.

Laura Garcia, 27, of 11 Pine Drive, Fairfax, a passenger in a car struck by Kaiser's car, was reported in satisfactory condition today in Marin General Hospital with a lacerated scalp.

According to police, a car driven by Kaiser was traveling west on the boulevard at about 7 p.m. when it struck a southbound car driven by Clifford R. Garcia of 11 Pine Drive.

Peace March Caravan Set

The Marin Alternative will sponsor a car caravan to the National Peace Action Coalition's peace march in San Francisco Saturday.

Alan Barnett, chairman of the group's peace task force, said the caravan will leave from Sabella's Restaurant at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Barnett said the peace march, one of 20 planned around the country for Saturday, is "most important." Now that peace appears to be so close, we must insure that the opportunity for a treaty not be lost."

The march will begin at 11 a.m. at Embarcadero Plaza at the foot of Market Street and travel to the San Francisco Civic Center, where a rally is planned.

Crab Season Opens But Foul Weather Keeps Crews In Port

Crab season has opened for Bay Area fisherman, but foul weather has kept much of the fleet in port.

In Marin, boats that did venture out into rough seas to drop fishing pots were just beginning to return this morning.

The 1972-72 Dungeness crab season opened Tuesday.

Joe Sturiale of Sturiale Bait Co. near Marinship said there was no expectation of a good season. Catches have dwindled in recent years, with fishermen and others blaming pollution.

Up to three boats normally work from the Southern Marin area.

In West Marin, Lloyd Williams at the Frank Alioto Fish Co. said no boat went out because of bad weather.

Several boats in the San Francisco fleet cautiously moved outside the Golden Gate yesterday but turned back when hit by gusty winds and driving rain.

Fishermen said they have agreed on a wholesale price of 65 cents a pound for their catches — up 20 cents over last year.

Although Bay Area fishermen said this year's catch would be smaller than usual, fishermen in Eureka said they expected a better season. The fleet there moves out Dec. 1.

Mrs. Nixon Given Yule Seal Scarf

Haircuts Down To 'Four Bits'

BAKER, Ore. (UPI) — Haircut: four bits.

That's how low a price war between union and non-union barbers drove the cost of a hair trimming in this eastern Oregon town before the two sides reached an armistice Wednesday.

They promptly posted their old $2.25 prices, which had been dropped a quarter a day until they reached 50 cents during the price war.

Fragments Of Kennedy Plane Found

LONDON (UPI) —On Aug. 12, 1944, U.S. Navy Lt. Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. climbed into an old Liberator bomber packed with explosives and took off into the dusk on a daring— some said suicidal—mission.

Climbing to 15,000 feet, Kennedy and co-pilot Lt. Bud Willy switched the aircraft to remote radio control, homing it in on a German rocket-launching pad in France, and prepared to bail out.

But the bomber, packed with 10 tons of explosives, blew apart in a flash of orange flame, killing the two airmen and showering the English countryside with fragments of twisted wreckage.

A police constable, Stewart Evans, and several persons helping him in a dedicated search for the wreckage of the late President John F. Kennedy's elder brother's plane, said Wednesday that they found it near Saxmundham, 90 miles northeast of London.

"We're sure beyond doubt this was Joe Kennedy's plane," Evans said, displaying parts of an engine, fuselage and wing found in a heavily wooded area. "It was the only aircraft to come down in this part of the country during the war."

Kennedy, then 29, was aware of reports of a fault in the detonation system of the explosives when his bomber, code named "Zoot Zoot Black," took off from a military airfield in northeast England.

Two earlier Liberators sent to destroy the V-bomber launching site on the French coast had exploded in flight. But Kennedy and Willy volunteered to go ahead with the flight in an effort to help combat the wartime blitz on London.

"Lt. Kennedy's story is one of great heroism," Evans said. A British news agency reporting the discovery of the wreckage described the mission "as one of the most daring exploits of the war."

Kennedy's bomber, Evans said, was "probably the one plane that everybody wanted to find.

"It has taken us six months to track it down," he said. "We sifted through all the eyewitness reports there were and used old map references. I have been studying the details of Joe Kennedy's last flight and have pieced them together. His was quite a story."

Charge Of Theft Admitted By Mill Valley Man

A 21-year-old Mill Valley man, who had been charged with felony burglary, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to taking $161 in personal property from a car in Sausalito.

Judge Peter Allen Smith, who reduced the charge, set sentencing for Monday for Patrick Niles Herbstritt.

The young man was arrested June 21 by Sausalito Police, who recognized him as one they had linked to an augo burglary three months earlier.

A warrant had been issued for his arrest following the burglary of the vehicle belonging to Clare A. Lozier of Sausalito in the 400 block of Valley Street, March 17.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Wild Rivers Forces Claim Great Victory

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A compromise hailed as a "great victory for wild rivers forces" has been reached between Gov. Ronald Reagan and authors of two rival bills aimed at preserving North Coast rivers.

The key element in the agreement is a 12-year moratorium on dam construction on the Eel River, one of the last free-flowing streams in California.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, author of one of the wild river bills, praised the accord as a "great victory for wild river forces who have been fighting an uphill battle in the legislature for two years."

"The Eel River is where the battle lines are drawn, and the Eel River is where the battle was won," he declared.

The 12-year moratorium was amended into a bill by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, Wednesday on the Assembly floor. Behr said he would add the provision to his measure later.

Previously Collier's measure banned construction of a dam on the flood-prone Eel unless the legislature gave its approval, but it did not contain a specific moratorium.

Behr's clamped a 20-year moratorium on dam-building.

A spokesman for the governor said Reagan told the two legislators what he would accept in their measures and they agreed to alter their bills.

Behr said that under the compromise both his and Collier's bills are basically the same. He stated the agreement was reached with the understanding Reagan would sign one of the two bills.

Both measures also bar construction of dams on the Klamath, Smith and Trinity Rivers. They will come up for Assembly consideration Tuesday.

Worker Benefits

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California and other states must take action to improve workmen's compensations programs or face preemption by the federal government, an Assembly committee was told Wednesday.

Dr. John F. Burton Jr., chairman of the National Commission on State Workmen's Compensation laws, recommended a "thorough review" of California's laws to boost and extend benefits for workers injured or killed on the job.

But in reviewing the commission's 11 months of work, Burton said California generally is ahead of the other states in its programs.

Upgrading Guards

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A measure designed to upgrade the quality of prison guards was rejected Wednesday by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The resolution by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, was an attempt by him to circumvent Gov. Ronald Reagan's veto of a similar bill.

The Reagan administration had contended the bill was too expensive, estimating the proposal could cost $11.9 million.

A Second Chance

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A proposal by Gov. Ronald Reagan to give first-time narcotics offenders a second chance by diverting them out of the criminal justice system is now before the Assembly.

The key feature of the measure calls for diverting first-time drug offenders out of the law enforcement and court system into locally operated community narcotics and drug education programs.

Under the bill, a judge could suspend court action for a first-timer provided the individual had no previous criminal record of history of violence and send him to a community drug abuse education program. The district attorney would be required to give his consent to such a move.

Pregnancy Benefits

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill granting unemployment disability benefits to women workers who suffer complications as the result of pregnancy has been sent to the Assembly by the Senate.

The measure by Senate Democratic leader George Moscone of San Francisco was approved Wednesday in the upper house on a 24-5 vote.

Under the bill, mental anxiety would be considered a complication of pregnancy. In addition, a woman who suffered a miscarriage or who encountered complications such as varicose veins or eclampsia would be eligible for benefits.

School Finances

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has passed a $349 million school finance bill, but the measure's author says it faces a "bleak" future in the Assembly.

The proposal by Sen. Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, which had simmered on the Senate's back burner as lawmakers wrangled over property-tax relief-school finance legislation, was cleared in the upper house Wednesday on a 26-4 vote.

The bill, which contains no property tax relief, calls for no increases in taxes and would be financed jointly from the state budget surplus and from federal revenue sharing.

After the Senate vote, Rodda assesses his bill's chances for Assembly approval as "bleak" because Democratic Speaker Bob Moretti is "committed" to enacting a combination school finance and property tax relief bill.

Veto Stands

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly has refused to override Gov. Ronald Reagan's veto of a bill replacing the 29-member California Council on Criminal Justice with a fulltime five-man board.

The vote Thursday on the measure by Assemblyman Robert Crown, D-Alameda, was 36-20, with 54 votes needed to override the veto.

Crown said the present council, which disperses millions of dollars annually, is an "abject failure."

Abortion Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A Senate committee has advanced a bill requiring hospitals in which abortions are performed to provide abortion patients with information on the availability of family planning services.

Hospitals which performed at least 100 abortions a year would be required to make such information available upon request of the abortion patient without regard to her age or marital status.

Hitching Bill

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A legislative committee Wednesday killed a bill which would have prohibited hitchhiking on many freeway access ramps in California.

The demise of the bill on an 11-2 vote of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee was applauded by a group of young people in the audience.

Behr Measures

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Two Medi-Cal "reform" bills aimed at insuring that patients receive prompt medical care have been overwhelmingly passed by the Assembly.

Under one of the bills, both by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-Tiburon, physicians would not be required to obtain approval from the Department of Health Care Services when they feel non-emergency care is needed.

The measure was approved on a 58-1 vote.

The second bill would require the state give "sound medical reasons" why a Medi-Cal patient is denied the services of doctor. It was passed 60-0.

Tax Assistance

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Ways and Means Committee sent to the floor on a 12-0 vote Wednesday a bill appropriating an additional $6 million for property tax assistance for senior citizens.

Bagley Bet

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, a long-time negotiator on tax bills, says he is willing to bet $1,000 that the legislature by the end of next week will pass a major tax shift-school finance bill which Gov. Ronald Reagan will sign.

"I would bet significant amounts of my personal money that a tax bill will be on the governor's desk by the end of next week," the San Rafael Republican said Wednesday in an interview.

Bagley is a member of a six-man conference committee trying to work out differences between the two houses on a $1.2 billion measure to provide property tax relief and money for schools.

Bagley said the committee was concentrating on four or five senators who have "minor hangups" with the compromise reached by Reagan and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys.

Asked how much he'd be willing to wager on the success of a tax shift-school finance bill, Bagley said, "I'd bet $1,000 to anyone who wants to bet."

Policewomen Will Direct Yule Traffic

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Christmas shoppers in the downtown area will be treated to a surprise this year: San Francisco policewomen directing traffic for the first time.

The women — Sandra C. Daly, 29, and Berite E. Hovde, 24 — are among 43 police academy students who will be assigned to traffic duties during the Christmas shopping rush.

"This is not due to any pressure from the women's lib groups," said Capt. Edward Cummins, of the traffic bureau, Wednesday. "It was the chief's idea." The extra traffic officers will begin their duties the day after Thanksgiving, he said.

Industrial Output Up In October

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board says industrial production rose sharply in October, indicating the nation's economy is continuing to expand.

The board said its index of output by the nation's factories, mines and utilities, increased 0.9 per cent last month. That brought the index to 116.7 per cent of the 1967 base.

The biggest output gains were in consumer goods, equipment and materials. Production of automobiles increased by 7 per cent and production schedules indicate another gain in auto output this month.

The October gain brought the index to 9.3 per cent higher than it was at this time last year.

Mother Admits Her Son, 3, Near Death

MIAMI (UPI) —Plump Lois Jean Nozza said she knew 3-year-old Dean was dying last Monday evening.

"I could see it in his eyes. He wasn't breathing right and he was kind of limp," she said. "I picked him up and was going to take him to a phone booth to call the hospital. But my husband snatched him from my arms and wouldn't let me take him with me.

"Then 10 minutes later he came to the phone booth and told me Dean was dead."

The 28-year-old bleached blonde mother of six told of the night her youngest son died of malnutrition Wednesday while awaiting a temporary custody hearing before Domestic Relations Judge Dixie Chastain.

Michael Nozza, a thin, tattooed 41-year-old sandblaster, was charged with manslaughter after the boy was pronounced dead on arrival at Variety Children's Hospital Monday night. He was ordered to undergo psychiatric tests.

Judge Chastain, after hearing a detective and social worker described the Nozza home as "filthy, run down and unfit for human habitation," ordered the five remaining Nozza children placed in temporary protective custody for 30 days, pending a full custody hearing.

Outside the courtroom, Mrs. Nozza said her husband of seven years "beat me and the kids and he wouldn't buy any food.

"When he'd leave for work, he'd put $2 on the table and tell me that was for food or whatever I wanted," she said. "He'd never let me go to the grocery store. When he'd go to the store, all he'd bring back was junk—mostly hot dogs— and tell the kids that's what they had to eat."

Nozza spoke only briefly outside the judge's chambers. He denied he wouldn't give his wife money for food.

"I gave her money, but I never knew where it went. She bought a lot of cosmestics," he said. Then he turned his back and refused to talk.

Mrs. Nozza said she began having trouble with Dean in September.

"He quit eating table foods," she said. "All he would eat was baby food, and sometimes he threw that up.

"I was afraid to take him to the doctor because my husband doesn't believe in doctors. I had no transportation and no phone so I couldn't take him myself.

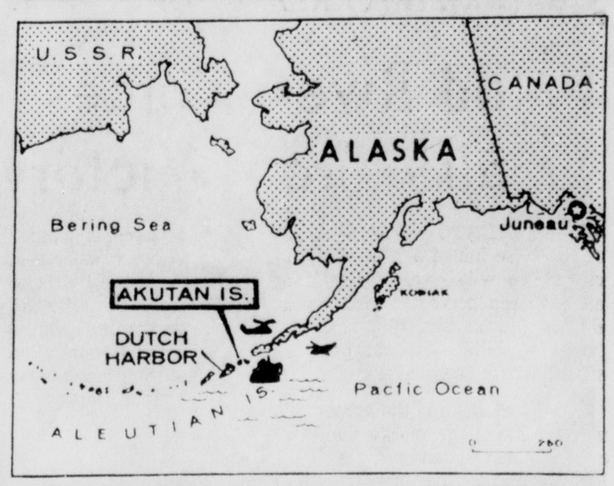

"The neighbors wouldn't help me," she said. "They kept saying they didn't want to get involved. I didn't know what to do.

"I left him once, but he almost killed me," she said. "A week after we were married, he threw knives at me. Then he busted up all the furniture."

Brazil Captures Major Criminal

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — Police wounded and captured one of the most wanted criminals in Brazil Wednesday in a gunbattle.

Police said Joao Conti de Souza, 21, had been the object of a massive manhunt in Sao Paulo since last month. De Souza and Jose de Matos were accused of seizing a suburban bus, killing two passengers and raping another, a 17-year-old girl. Several other passengers were robbed and left in their underwear.

Japanese Ship Comes To Rescue

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) —A Japanese vessel got a line aboard the stricken Coast Guard cutter Jarvis which was taking on water near Akutan Island in the Aleutians today, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The Japanese ship Koyo Maru No. 3 reached the Jarvis in the early morning darkness while other merchant vessels and Coast Guard ships steamed toward the disabled cutter.

"We feel a lot better about things now," a Coast Guard spokesman said of the arrival of the Japanese ship.

The cutter, with 170 persons aboard, radioed an SOS, saying her engine room was flooded and she had lost all means of propulsion in heavy seas.

A later report from the Jarvis' skipper, Capt. Frederick O. Woolley, said the engine room flooding had been brought under control and the cutter was in no danger of sinking, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The Coast Guard described the Jarvis as a 378-foot high endurance cutter based at Honolulu, carrying a crew of 170.

The flooding apparently was the result of damage suffered Wednesday when the ship was grounded at Dutch Harbor during high winds and heavy seas. Emergency repairs were made to the Jarvis, permitticg her departure from Dutch Harbor.

The Jarvis was conducting a routine Alaska fisheries patrol when the grounding occurred, a spokesman said.

BART Boss Assures Board On Timetable

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Bay Area Rapid Transit District's general manager has given assurances that its rail links to Richmond, Concord and San Francisco will start as scheduled despite criticism from legislative analyst A. Alan Post and the state Public Utilities Commission.

B. R. Stokes, the general manager, told BART directors Wednesday the line would be open to Richmond in January, Concord in May and San Francisco next September.

He did not, however, explain how technical difficulties which have hampered the present operation would be overcome.

Post criticized the electronic control system which is supposed to keep trains a safe distance apart on the present 28-mile system between Oakland and Fremont.

He said that at present trains are started only when assured by telephone that the tracks are clear ahead and that such a system wouldn't work when the line is extended.

Stokes said Post made his report without sufficient information and that the control system would be modified so that telephone information wouldn't be needed.

Assertions were made at a state PCU hearing in Sacramento that the new lines would not open on schedule but Stokes said without qualification that they would.

Ex-Policeman Is Nabbed On Bookmaking Bribe Try

OAKLAND (UPI) –A former San Francisco police sergeant and unsuccessful candidate for sheriff was arrested Wednesday and charged with trying to bribe an Oakland officer to protect a bookmaking operation.

Aster V. McDonough, 47, was arrested at his Daly City home by officers from that city and from Oakland.

He is charged with giving officer Robert Dutton $1,000 to lay off a gambling operation in Oakland.

McDonough joined the San Francisco force in 1949 and resigned in 1963 to run unsuccessfully for sheriff against Matthew Carberry.

The arrest came as the FBI announced it had arrested 10 San Francisco Bay Area residents on charges they operated bookmaking establishments that grossed $3.5 million a year.

FBI agents said the arrests were the results of a year's investigation in which court-authorized wire taps were made.

Those arrested are Alfred M. Caporele, 53; Mario O. Anderson, 38; Joseph Cosentino, 31; Daniel M. Morgan, 54; and Arthur D. Broder, 62, all of San Francisco; Howard A. Swan, 58; Lynwood W. Carvalho, 64; and Dorothy Mae Carvalho, 47, all of South San Francisco, and Maidelle Borelli, 58, and Henry Calmels, 67, both of Daly City.

Lindsay Would End Bar Closing Hours

NEW YORK (UPI) —The administration of Mayor John Lindsay proposed Wednesday that state legislature remove all restrictions on the hours New York's bars may remain open.

Presently, "Last Call" in city bars now comes at 3 a.m. Sundays and 4 a.m. other days.

Golden Eagle Is Found Shot

MADERA (UPI)—A golden eagle, proxably one of only a dozen still living in the area, was found shot and clubbed to death in Madera County, it was reported Wednesday.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife agent here, Charles Stribling, noted that the killing of the big birds is a federal offense punishable by a fine and-or six months in jail.

The bird was found hidden in a clump of trees and its talons and tail feather were cut off.

Authorities speculated the bird was shot in the wing with a rifle and then beaten to death with a club.

There are about 350 golden eagles remaining in California.

A SCAPEGOAT CHARGE

Army Pvt. Billy Dean Smith (center), who was acquitted of the "fragging" murders of two officers in Vietnam, claims he was a "scapegoat" because of his opposition to the war and racism. Trouser-Tugging The Tip-Off In Marin Man's Drug Arrest

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Federal agents at Los Angeles International Airport said they could hardly help notice when a passenger departing a flight from Panama, later identified as a Marin County man, began tugging at his trousers with vigor.

The man, Melville E. Wolf, 24, was searched and found to be wearing two elastic girdles containing 1.5 pounds of cocaine, United Press International quoted federal agents as saying.

Agents said Wolf's companion, Shari Walden, 22, of 47 Cedar Street, San Anselmo, also was searched. They said they found 2.5 pounds more of cocaine in her possession.

Total street value of the contraband, seized Monday, was placed at $175,000.

Wolf, an electronics technician who gave authorities a Tiburon address, and Miss Walden, both charged with importing drugs, were arraigned Tuesday before a U.S. magistrate here. Bail was set at $15,000 for Wolf and at $10,000 for Miss Walden.

A clerk in the magistrate's office said the case has been referred to a federal grand jury for possible indictment.

Wolf, then of Ross, was arrested in Marin in 1969 in connection with the sale of more than 120 pounds marijuana, but charges were dismissed when a witness couldn't link him and others to the transaction.

Woman Seeks Dismissal Of Two Charges

A 22-year-old Richmond woman, linked by police to a theft from a Corte Madera store two years ago, was arraigned yesterday on two felony counts. Following that she filed a motion for dismissal of the case for failure to prosecute.

Connie Jimmerson was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on charges of burglary and grand theft from Smiths' Clothiers on Nov. 25, 1970. Four women took five leather jackets valued at $425 from the store then in business at the Corte Madera Shopping Center, according to police.

Miss Jimmerson was arrested that day, but not charged immediately. A warrant was issued for her arrest in December 1970, but not served on her until this month despite an arrest in El Cerrito last year, according to the motion to dismiss. A hearing on the motion is slated for Nov. 30.

Boundaries Of Park Worry Stinson Beach

A group of Stinson Beach residents, alarmed that the Golden Gate Recreation Area may take away their homes, has asked for some changes in the proposed boundaries for the national park.

About 40 citizens met last night in Stinson and agreed to recommend that the Marin County Board of Supervisors ask the National Parks Service to exclude about 60 acres of land, including 13 homes, from plans for the recreation area.

Tentative plans for the park indicate it will include nearly all the undeveloped land around the small West Marin community and the homes, most of them along Panoramic Highway, the Independent-Journal has learned.

Also taken would be George P. Leonard's home and the 10 acres surrounding it on the edge of the Stinson Highlands development., along with about three acres of undeveloped commercial property at the intersection of Panoramic and Shoreline Highway.

If the homes are included in the park, the National Parks Service would pay the owners for their property, then grant them a lifetime tenancy on the land.

The homeowners, plus about 30 other residents, all indicated last night they oppose this plan.

"The value of the lifetime tenancy would be deducted from the price paid the owners for their land," Leonard said. "This means the people, especially the younger ones, wouldn't get very much for their homes and land and what happens if they want to move away some day and buy another home?"

John E. Roberto, a planner for the recreation area, said the residents agreed last night to ask the supervisors to petition the National Parks Service, which will set the recreational area's boundaries, to exclude the homes, Leonard's 10 acres and the small commercial area.

In exchange, the residents indicated the park could be expanded to include the 12.5-acre McKinnon Island in the Bolinas Lagoon and the 14-acre Keller property near the Stinson Beach Community Center. Neither of those properties is now planned for inclusion in the park.

When the supervisors approved plans for the recreation area in principle, they indicated that enough land should be left in Stinson Beach to make it a "viable community," according to Robert.

Exactly what a viable community entails will have to be determined by the supervisors which will consider the Stinson Beach boundary question at their meeting Tuesday.

The planners, who will make a staff recommendation to the board on boundaries for the park said he will give serious consideration to the Stinson residents' requests. "My recommendation may be the same as the residents'," he said.

Roberto said the bill which created the recreation area makes it possible for local communities to suggest "minor changes" in boundaries. But he said it will ultimately be up to the Interior Department's subcommittee on interior and insular affairs to decide whether what the Stinson people are requesting constitutes a major or a minor change.

Rail Right Retention Is Supported

The Corte Madera Village Square Association today endorsed retaining the North Western Pacific Railroad right-of-way — which runs right across the square — for public use.

President Robert D. Satterwaite said the association's board voted on a list of concerns which they'll forward to the appropriate subcommittees working on a revision of Corte Madera's general plan.

Members want the railroad right-of-way to remain in the public domain, said Satterwaite, to prevent its reversion to private ownership. No stand was taken on whether it should be used for transit purposes.

The board also suggested that bike racks be installed in the square and in the town itself for commuters who want to cycle to transit bus stops.

Other recommendations to the general plan committees include landscaping the triangle in front of Holy Innocents' Church, enlarging business parking in any street widening projects, preserving Menke Park in the square and continuation of undergrounding utilities.

Press Ban By Prison Is Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Quentin authorities have the right to regulate communication of prisoners with the press in the interests of prison security and administration, the California Supreme Court said today.

The high court in making the ruling denied a petition seeking a review of a decision by the court of appeal. The ruling was made in the case of Marin newswoman Alice Yarish, who had demanded an interview with a prisoner.

The appellate court also ruled that prisoner records are not public records open to the news media.

The appeals court in its ruling had said that "procedural limitations ... aimed at the legitimate purposes of maintaining prison security, discipline, and the orderly administration of the institution cannot be said to be unduly burdensome or vague.

"It is more than obvious that the regulation is not related to suppression of freedom of expression and any restriction of the First Amendment freedom flowing therefrom is merely incidental ..."

Five Held In Firebombing

FT. SAM HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) —Five negro soldiers were arrested for questioning about the firebombing of a second lieutenant's home today in which the officer's son was seriously burned and a house guest injured.

The soldiers were arrested as they returned to their barracks on the Army base near San Antonio. The men allegedly threw one or two gasoline bombs into the sleeping area of 2nd Lt. Fred Howard's home.

Howard's son, Michael, 5, suffered burns over 24 per cent of his body and 2nd Lt. Harold Lumpkin was burned over 4 per cent of his body. Both were admitted to Brooke General Hospital for treatment.

A base spokesman said the firebombing occurred shortly after midnight.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

ERODING LAKE MICHIGAN

A beachside homeowner watches as workmen attempt to stop Lake Michigan from eroding the shoreline at Beverly Shores, Ind., by dumping heavy fill on the remaining beach. This week's storms prompted the work. Meanwhile, today in adjoining Ohio, the City of Sandusky was without drinking water, caused by debris from a rainstorm driven by gail force winds off Lake Erie. The debris clogged the northern Ohio city's water system. The lack of water also forced closing of all schools and several large firms in the city which has a population of 32,000.

Visual Education Leader Puts Down Well-Informed Myth

It is a myth that today's students are better informed about current events than their predecessors, a representative of a new Independent-Journal sponsored classroom program, told a group of Marin teachers yesterday.

Donald DeLaura, regional vice president of Visual Education Consultants, said a poll of 17-year-olds across the country showed 25 per cent couldn't name the nation's vice president, "and considering who our vice president is, that's rather surprising."

Further, he said, 61 per cent of the 17-year-olds in the national survey, couldn't name either of their two senators, "although they would be voting for senators in another year."

DeLaura spoke to teachers from 22 Marin schools chosen to participate in the Visual Education Constants news program, a nationwide enterprise, sponsored in Marin for the first time this year by the Independent-Journal.

DeLaura said the program came about because of common aims of educators and newspaper people — a desire for students to become intelligent citizens and informed voters and for them to learn to read.

Aimed at "building the newspaper reading habit," the program features film strips and backup material delivered weekly to the participating schools. DeLaura said events covered in the weekly material often are more current than those reported in the weekly editions of Time and Newsweek.

"The newspaper becomes the equalizer," DeLaura told the teachers, in classroom discussions of current events, because "all a student needs to do to participate is to read the newspaper."

Since textbooks, which require an average of five years to get from the author's typewriter into the classroom, are often outdated, DeLaura suggested use of newspaper with the aid of the film strips in making discussions current.

In addition to the weekly film strips, the program features in the Independent-Journal such as a news quiz.

Events covered in the strips shown yesterday by DeLaura ranged from the recent election to an anthropological discovery to a discussion of why professional football players are racking up new records in rushing this year.

As well as informing students about current events and arousing their continued interest, the program is aimed at letting them know other services newspapers provide.

"We've found that some high school students are not even aware there are help wanted ads in newspapers," DeLaura said.

DeLaura, who has had both newspaper and classroom experience, said the program is sponsored by 212 daily newspapers throughout the country. The 22 participating schools in Marin, chosen for the first year here, were selected by the county schools office, he said.

Laird To Quit As Country's Defense Chief

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird said today his work in the nation's defense has been deeply satisfying but his convictions have led him to announce his resignation after four years in office.

"We turned our nation and the world away from confrontation and towards negotiation," Laird said.

Laird told the Associated Press Managing Editors Convention he wanted to be remembered for turning the country's policies "away from war, towards peace."

Laird would not say when his resignation would be effective nor did he reveal what he planned to do afterward.

Mill Valley Aims Gun At Sambo's Restaurant

In a move aimed at the proposed Sambo's restaurant on Miller Avenue, the Mill Valley City Council last night passed an emergency ordinance which requires all new restaurants to obtain use permits from the city council before they can be built.

Before last night, restaurants were not required to obtain use permits if they were planned for commercially zoned areas.

The ordinance provides that any proposed restaurant in any zone in the city must obtain a use permit before a building permit can be issued.

The ordinance was made retroactive to include restaurants, like Sambo's, that have already filed applications, but have not yet been issued building permits.

The council adopted the emergency ordinance on a 4-to-1 vote, with Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker dissenting. Moments before the vote, Boessenecker said there was no need to pass the measure as an emergency ordinance. He said it could be considered at the council's regular meeting Monday night.

The council took up two items last night before a special meeting about North Ridge open space with the city councils of Larkspur and Corte Madera. (See that story, page 1).

Councilmen Gerald J. Hood seconded Boessenecker's motion to postpone the matter until Monday, but the pair was overruled by a 3-to-2 vote.

Hood then joined Mayor Jean S. Barnard and Councilmen Robert E. Burton and Robert E. Capron in adopting the emergency ordinance.

The ordinance places an additional obstacle in front of the Sambo's chain, which has announced its plans to build a restaurant at 501 Miller Avenue, just east of Malugani Tire Center.

According to Planning Director Tom W. Newton, the ordinance will also require Pat and Joe's restaurant, on Throckmorton Avenue in Lytton Square, to seek a use permit before a building permit can be issued for its extensive remodeling.

Sambo's, which has already received conditional approval from the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee, will now have to apply to the planning commission and city council for its use permit.

In other action last night, the council accepted the dedication of land from the Scott Valley Tennis Club for a 30-foot extension of underhill road to the tennis club. The road will be paid for by the tennis club and dedicated to the city.

Ecuador Seizes American Boat

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —The Ecuadorian navy has seized another American tuna boat, the 10th to be captured in three days in the latest outbreak of the "Tuna War."

The American Tuna Boat Association said Wednesday that a gunboat of the Latin American nation took into custody the "Western King" and its crew in Pacific waters Tuesday.

Ecuador claims a 200-mile territorial waters limit, as do some other nations on the Pacific Coast of Latin America. The United States recognizes a maximum 12-mile limit for fishing jurisdiction.

South Viets Retake Part Of Coast Town

SAIGON (UPI) —A South Vietnamese infantrymen battalion brought in by helicopter recaptured part of the devastated coastal highlands town of Ba To today in a heavy dawn attack around the former U.S. Ranger outpost.

The Communists captured Ba To, 300 miles north of Saigon, Oct. 31 after a six-week siege. Field reports said the 500-man government battalion landed by helicopter Wednesday within 500 yards of Ba To then retook the western half of the town today and hoisted the red and gold South Vietnamese flag.

Communist troops were reported dug in in the eastern part of Ba To. The fight to retake it today was heavy, military sources said.

Ninety miles to the southwest, a 500-man South Vietnamese Ranger battalion manning a Central Highlands frontier post lost contact with headquarters at sundown Wednesday shortly after a North Vietnamese attack began, field reports said today.

Field dispatches said the Ranger battalion regrouped two miles away today and braced for a possible new Communist attack. The reports said the battalion split up to escape the heavy Communist 82 mm mortar fire and the men worked their way back to a position almost two miles to the northeast. Initial casualty figures indicated two Rangers were killed and nine wounded.

The attack occurred near Duc Co, 25 miles southwest of the provincial capital of Pleiku and 200 miles north of Saigon.

The missing battalion was manning an outpost within a few miles of so-called "Base Area 702," a Communist stronghold in jungles overlapping the Cambodian and Vietnamese frontiers. A Communist buildup has been underway there for months.

In the air war over North Vietnam, U.S. tactical jets flew 270 sorties (a sortie is one mission by one plane) in the 24 hours ending at 5 p.m. Wednesday, the U.S. command said. This was down from the 300 such strikes flown the previous day. Tuesday was the high point since Oct. 23, when President Nixon restricted the air war to south of the 20th parallel, or 65 miles south of Hanoi-Haiphong, during current maneuverings for a cease-fire.

The northernmost air raid reported Wednesday was a Navy F4 Phantom jet strike that destroyed a missile site eight miles west-northwest of Thanh Hoa or about 80 miles south of Hanoi.

Escapee From Napa In Custody

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A convicted killer who escaped from Napa State Hospital was recaptured Wednesday at Every-man's Free Medical Clinic.

The man is John P. Burnside, 27, who was one of three men arrested in the slaying of a Loomis Armored Car guard at Market and Powell streets in 1969.

He was sent first to Atascadero State Hospital as insane, returned to San Francisco where he was convicted last year and then returned to Atascadero. He was transferred to Napa last September and escaped last Friday.

Building Needs Are Discussed

Fairfax School District trustees in a special meeting last night discussed district organization, building needs and educational programs and directed board members Jane S. Durr and Laurence G. Hermann, Supt. H. Reginald Hammond, planning commission chairman Hugh O. Winn and several citizens to develop specific proposals for programs.

The group will meet at 8 p.m. Nov. 28 in the district office, according to Hammond.

Most resorts plan to open Friday or Saturday, or about Thanksgiving Day.

The weatherman is forecasting snow in the Sierra above 4,000 feet in the north, 5,000 feet in the south. It should decrease tonight.

Wornum Urges Marin City Plan

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Supervisor Michael Wrnum today urged redevelopment of Marin City proceed immediately in spite of continued controversy being stirred by "a small minority in Marin City." (For a story on housing rent in Marin City, see story page 1.)

Wornum's comments, aired today on Radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board", touched off a sharp exchange with Thelma McKinney, a Marin City activist and opponent to proposed redevelopment plans.

Mrs. McKinney, secretary of Marin Urban Development Association which is seeking a slice of the redevelopment pie, charged that a redevelopment plan was accepted by the county without proper review by the community.

She said a community review committee, created by the Marin County Redevelopment Agency, had been "programmed to rubber stamp" the redevelopment proposal submitted earlier this year by Mid-City Developer Inc. of Washington D.C.

(Last Friday, the redevelopment agency signed a contract with Mid-City to build 444 apartment and condominium units on 36 acres in the heart of Marin City. The land sold for $1,058,400.

(The signing came after weeks of controversy over the development plan, which some community groups claimed was in conflict with the proposed master plan for Marin City.)

Wornum said today he didn't think the Mid-City development plan conflicted with the master plan by not proposing more subsidizied housing for the predominantly black, low-income community.

The supervisor drew support from George H. Gnoss Jr., chairman of the county's redevelopment agency, who said it was federal and county policy not to build more subsidized low and moderate-income housing in areas already "impacted" with such housing.

He said the Mid-City plan would provide "market rate" housing on the 36 acres in order to balance the social and economic makeup of the community.

Mrs. McKinney responded that the plan would "scatter and dilute" those already living in Marin City who can't afford market rate housing. She added that the development plan was only made public after "all agreements were made" between the developer and redevelopment agency.

Mrs. McKinney was backed up by Norman B. Campbell, former housing authority board member, who said he thought the community had not been given time to review the agreement before it was signed.

The sharp exchange between Wornum and Mrs. McKinney came at the end of the program and continued outside the studio for several minutes.

It was touched off when Mrs. McKinney said she was speaking for "a majority of Marin City residents" that thought the community review committee was not representative of those living in the community and was a "rubber stamp."

"Mrs. McKinney speaks with a loud voice but I question how many she represents," Wornum said, adding the review committee had been carefully selected to represent as many Marin City groups as possible.

"If he (Wornum) came into Marin City more often he would understand," Mrs. McKinney shot back.

"I do but I'm always hassled by you . . . it's like talking to a blank wall," Wornum said.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast by tape-recording on Sunday at 10:05 a.m. "Marin Sounding Board" will not broadcast next Thursday, Thanksgiving Day.

Housing For Retarded Is Asked

The Marin Ecumenical Association for Housing heard an appeal last night to provide more housing for the mentally retarded, but said it was stymied by unclear federal regulations and other factors.

Martin MacKey, assocaition executive director, said Lawrence Norton, president of Marin Aid to Retarded Children, appeared before association directors to plead that quarters for young and educable retarded persons be provided in housing developments sponsored through the association's member groups.

Norton cited the need for retarded persons to become part of a community's mainstream. While sympathetic to the appeal, Mackey said, association directors expressed uncertainty over whether retarded persons could qualify for federally subsidized moderate income housing and noted that it was difficult enough accommodating the current demand.

William Parnow, president of the ecumenical board, expressed hope an organization within the association structure might assist in finding existing housing for retarded persons.

In other matters, directors learned of possible formation of subecumenical groups that would sponsor housing in Novato and Fairfax and was told groundbreaking on the Shelter Hill and Priory projects, in Mill Valley and Kentfield respectively, was tentatively set for April.

Marinship Development Limits Eyed

The Sausalito Planning Commission last night decided that no further residential development — except houseboats — should be permitted in the city's Marinship area.

The commission had been asked by the city council to prepare preliminary guidelines for future planning and development in the large Marinship area in northern Sausalito.

On Tuesday the council approved first reading of an ordinance which would create a redevelopment agency, designed chiefly to foster development in the Northern area, which is relatively unchanged from what it was after the Marinship shipyard closed after World War II.

The vote to permit no more homes or apartments in the area was 3-1, with Commissioner Thomas H. Gildersleeve dissenting and Commissioner Thomas Brown absent.

Chairman Robert L. Nissen said the majority of the commission thought residential developments would not be compatible with commercial and industrial development now in the area.

"We think future development in Marinship should be limited to commercial, industrial and marine and recreational uses," Nissen said.

In other business, the commission granted a conditional use permit to architect Donald K. Olsen to convert the former Elliot's Laundry of 107 Caledonia Street into a planned unit development of retail stores and offices.

The planners also turned down a request from the state Division of Highways to rezone about two-thirds of an acre of land the division owns on Ebbtide Avenue from public to multiple residential zone.

Shift Of Alcohol Abuse Funds Asked

The Marin Mental Health Advisory board last night recommended that the county cut back on planned spending for education and prevention in the alcohol abuse field and use the money for additional services to alcoholics.

Jack D. Williams, board chairman, said the shift was proposed by county staff and will be passed on to the board of supervisors.

He said the board thought that since the federal government is becoming increasingly active in education against alcohol abuse, there is more of a need in Marin for funds for treatment of people who already are alcohlics.

The total budget for the alcohol abuse program would remain the same, he said, but funds slated for education would be shifted to contracts with agencies which work with alcoholics, Williams said.

The board also agreed there is a need in the county for long-term residential care for mental patients, who formerly would have been sent to state hospitals. The need will be brought before the Board of Supervisors, Williams said.

The board decried a state recommendation which would give Marin County no new state funds in 1972-73 for mental health care. Williams said that since the county now has to care for persons formerly slated for state hospitals, there is a need for more money.

The board agreed to meet again Dec. 6 instead of the regular meeting date of Dec. 20 in order to consider a plan for decentralized mental health services in the county proposed by staff. This is to be discussed by the Board of Supervisors on Dec. 12, Williams said.

Sacramento Housing Chief Is Sentenced

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Harry Zollinger, former chief of the Pennsylvania State Housing Authority, was sentenced to 10 years in state prison yesterday for misappropriating public funds while serving as Sacramento's housing chief.

Sacramento Superior Court Judge Irving Perluss, who imposed the maximum prison term on Zollinger after twice delaying sentencing, said it was the "most distasteful and unpleasant judicial function" of his career.

The judge praised the 43-year-old Zollinger for doing "a marvelous job" as Sacramento's housing chief, but said he could not overlook "the admitted guilt, theft and embezzlement" in the case. Multiple charges of falsifying public records, grand theft and embezzlement of housing authority funds were dismissed when Zollinger pleaded guilty to the felony misappropriation of public funds count.

They involved a $2,000 transfer of funds to Zollinger's private account, which he said was a loan, and remodeling work on his home which was billed to the housing agency.

He commended Zollinger for fighting for air conditioning in housing for the elderly and for eliminating racial discrimination in Sacramento's public housing.

But, Purless told a courtroom packed with Zollinger's friends, relatives and former employes, "after a great deal of soul searching, I've decided the best thing is to bite the bullet and do what must be done."

Zollinger, who has been free on $15,000 bail since the indictment, was taken in handcuffs from the courtroom for immediate transportation to a state prison reception center 40 miles away in Vacaville.

LSD Case To Superior Court

An 18-year-old San Rafael resident has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a felony count of furnishing LSD to two juveniles and contributing to their delinquency.

Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas ordered Gerald Beryl Bagley to appear Wednesday in Superior Court.

According to San Rafael police, two youths, aged 16 and 15, were given the drug on Aug. 4 and required treatment at Marin Community Mental Health Center for hallucinations.

Bagley was arrested on a warrant Oct. 26.

Liberals Take Two-Seat Edge

OTTAWA (UPI) —The Liberals moved into a two-seat edge over the Conservatives in the House of Commons Wednesday when a judicial recount in the suburban Toronto riding of Ontario showed a Liberal had won by four votes out of more than 40,000 cast.

The final official recount of ballots cast in the Oct. 30 federal election showed Liberal Normand Cafik winning with 16,328 votes to 16,324 for Conservative Frank McGee. New Democratic party candidate Alban Ward had 9,545.

Princess Anne Faces Speeding Prosecution

LONDON (UPI) —Police said today they may prosecute Princess Anne for alleged speeding. It would be the first prosecution of a member of Britain's present royal family.

Police officials said Queen Elizabeth's 22-year-old daughter was stopped on two separate occasions earlier this month for exceeding the 70 mile per hour limit on Britain's motorways.

On both occasions, she was at the wheel of an expensive Reliant Scimitar sports car, similar to one given to her by her parents for her 21st birthday, a police spokesman said. Her own car was being serviced at the time.

"A report has been submitted in the normal way," a police spokesman said. "She should be treated like any other motorist involved in speeding offenses."

The spokesman said the final decision on whether to prosecute rests with the chief constable of the wealthy stockbroker commuter belt northwest of London where the alleged offenses occurred.

Anne, a keen horsewoman and sports car enthusiast, was accompanied by her Scotland Yard bodyguard on both occasions, police said. Another passenger on one occasion was British equestrian rider Richard Meade, winner of two gold medals at the Munich Olympics.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman acknowledged that the princess "was stopped twice in the last few weeks by the police." But he said: "This is the first I have heard that the police are considering prosecuting."

PRINCESS ANNE
Excessive speed

No members of the present royal family have been prosecuted for any offense. The only member of the royal family who is above any type of prosecution is the Queen.

A few hours after the police statement about Anne, the queen's cousin, the Earl of Lichfield pleaded guilty in a London court to driving with an excess of alcohol in his blood. The 33-year-old earl, a professional photographer, was fined $117.50 and barred from driving for a year.

The prosecutor said a policeman saw the earl get into his Rolls-Royce "somewhat uncertainly" June 16. "He fell, pulled himself up, got into his car and drove off."

Need Cited On Approach Funds Now

FRESNO (AP) — The state Highway Commission has been urged to speed up the appropriation of funds to renovate the "badly antiquated and dangerous approaches" to the Golden Gate Bridge from the San Francisco side.

The commission, meeting Wednesday in Fresno, indicated chances for early funding of the project were slim. They were expected to decide in January if funds could be made available.

"As you know," commissioner Vern Cristina of San Jose told a delegation from the Bay Area, "we have some problems with having other projects in Northern California" that are competing for available funds.

"There's no question in my mind about the necessity and the need for it. But competition for that limited dollar is so great today."

Under current projections, state funds would be made available for the new approach in 1976. The state would finance half the cost while the City of San Francisco and the Golden Gate Bridge District would come up with the other half of the money.

The project calls for widening the traffic lanes on the 1.5-mile approach route, installing a permanent center divider and building acceleration-deceleration lanes at on and off-ramps.

Southern Pacific To Grow Grapes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Southern Pacific Co., one of the largest railroads operating in the West, is going into the grape-growing business.

President B. F. Biaggini said the company has invested approximately $2 million for 1,000 acres of land in western Fresno County. A partner in the venture is Russell Giffen, a San Joaquin Valley grape grower who has contributed another 1,000 acres.

Two Apply For Vacant San Rafael Council Seat

A San Rafael optometrist and a chemical engineer have applied for the city council seat vacated by the recent death of veteran San Rafael Councilman Harry A. Barbier.

Dr. Gar C. Mary, an optometrist who lives at 168 Palm Avenue, and Richard C. Fox, a research chemist for Chevron Co. who lives at 127 Humboldt Street, have filed letters of application for the post, according to City Mgr. James H. McCown.

Others who have expressed interest in the seat include Dixie School District Trustee John A. Starkweather and Planning Commissioner Albert J. Boro, according to Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

Bettini said he has also received several letters recommending that Planning Commissioner Thomas R. O'Toole be appointed to the post.

Application deadline for the seat is Monday, according to Bettini, who added an appointment will be made by Dec. 4.

Novato Old Books Will Go On Sale

Old volumes published prior to 1900 and an assortment of children's books will be among the 2,000 to 3,000 books on sale at the Novato Branch Library from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

The sale of the donated books will be conducted by the Friends of the Library and proceeds will go to the library. Both paperback and hardcover books will be on sale.

Santa Rosa Man Injured In Accident

A Santa Rosa man was injured when his pickup truck rolled over twice on Highway 101, a mile south of Petaluma at 1:15 p.m. yesterday.

Three Novato Scouts Awarded Eagle Rank

Three Novato youths in Boy Scout Troop 79 have been awarded Eagle Scout rank.

Dayl Larsen, 18, Kent Rowberry, 13, and Jeffrey West, 15, received the awards in a court of honor at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in Novato Sunday.

Larsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Larsen, 100 San Felipe Way, is a student at San Marin High School. He is assistant scoutmaster of the troop and has been president of three explorer posts, including Post 179 in Novato.

He plays in the San Marin High School band and is on the wrestling team and is a swimmer.

Rowberry, son of Dr. and Mrs. Stewart Rowberry, 45 Stanford Court, is a student at Hill Junior High School.

He is a patrol leader for the troop and has earned 24 merit badges. For his service project he presented programs on astronomy, weather and backpacking for a troop of retarded boys.

West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger West, 5 San Miguel Court, is a freshman at San Marin High School. He has served as a patrol leader, quartermaster and scribe and is a member of the Order of the Arrow.

For his service project he worked three weeks at the cub scout summer day camp. He has been an officer of church B groups and is a member of the Babe Ruth baseball league.

Bishop Richard G. Carter, Novato Ward, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, presented the Eagle badges.

Nod Given Health Unit Federation

The Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin yesterday approved federation with the Bay Area Health Planning Council and the local councils of each other Bay Area county.

Dr. Michael L. Harris, president of the Marin Council, said the federation agreement was drafted at the request of federal and state health agencies, to confirm the cooperation of the local and regional councils.

The Marin council directors also voted to establish a permanent mental health committee for liaison with the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board and any agencies involved in mental health planning in Marin.

Harris was instructed to meet with Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, county health services director, today to discuss cooperation between the council and the county department. The council will inventory available health facilities and the overall status of health, as a basis for its ongoing plan formulation.

Harris reported that the council directors also voted to form a public relations committee, and endorsed the efforts of the Marin County Diabetes Association.

Charge Of Burglary Off

A Marin judge has dismissed a burglary charge against a San Anselmo man because the man whose home he allegedly entered did not appear to testify.

Judge David R. Baty of Municipal court dismissed the felony count against Joel Andrews Petterson for lack of prosecution after deputy public defender Kathryn D. Mitchell said the victim had not appeared.

Petterson and Richard James Giakovmis, 19, of San Rafael were charged with breaking into the home of Robert J. Cole of 276 Tamalpais Road, Fairfax, on June 12.

Giakovmis admitted the offense as part of a plea bargain also involving a burglary in San Anselmo June 28 and is awaiting sentencing in Marin Superior Court.

Air Line Granted $1.5 Million To Study Way To Reduce Noise

CHICAGO (AP) — United Air Lines announced yesterday that it has been granted a $1.5 million contract by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to develop an aircraft landing procedure that could significantly reduce noise levels over airport communities.

The system involves use of avionics equipment that allows pilots to land jetliners by using what is called a two-segment approach.

"In the first or upper segment of the approach, the aircraft descends at a steeper-than-normal angle until about 1.5 miles from the end of the runway," a UAL spokesman said. "The descending aircraft then intersects the normal shallow glide path for the second segment and makes a normal landing."

He said ground noise levels are reduced under this system because the aircraft is more distant from persons on the ground than in a normal approach, and because during the initial descent the attitude of the plane permits the pilot to use less engine thrust than otherwise required.

UAL said the contract calls for installation of avionics units on a Boeing 727 simulator at the company's Denver Flight Training Center and on two Boeing 727-200 aircraft.

The simulator will be used to develop the optimum noise abating landing profile and for pilot training. After these studies, one plane will be used for engineering evaluation flights at Stockston, Calif., Airport and later at other commercial airports.

A second aircraft will be outfitted with the two-segment approach equipment and flown in regular airline service for six months using the profile developed during the simulator studies and engineering flights.

The contract is part of a NASA-Ames Research Center program in Mountain View, Calif., in cooperation with UAL, the Federal Aviation Agency and other agencies.

MARIN BROADCAST

The Galloping Gourmet Visits

By JOAN LISETOR

On her way to San Francisco Mary McPherson was listening to the Jim Eason Show on KGO.Easton announced a contest.

"Send a card describing your kitchen. I'll draw a card, and the winner will have Graham Kerr, also known as the Galloping Gourmet, in her kitchen," he said.

Mrs. McPherson screeched to a halt, turned her car around and headed back toward home.

"I went right to Coralie Castle's. She has the greatest kitchen in San Rafael," Mrs. McPherson said. "I told her to send in a card."

Mrs. Castle entered the contest with a card describing the hundreds of gadgets in her kitchen, also the intriguing fact that she has both an electric stove and a gas stove.

HER CARD was drawn — at random — the studio claims and without the knowledge that like Kerr, Mrs. Castle is a cookbook author.

Yesterday Kerr galloped into Mrs. Castle's kitchen, followed by Eason, engineers, the show's producers, a score of telephone company men and an assortment of public relations people and for three hours took calls during the live radio broadcast.

KGO had told Mrs. Castle to invite her friends for coffee and conversation while the show was being broadcast.

Among the guests was Mrs. McPherson, who admitted she loathes cooking, and Diane DeLorme MacMillan of San Rafael whose "Coffee Cuisine" cookbook made her the third person in the room with a cookbook hot off the presses.

Mrs. Castle's latest, "Peasant Cooking of Many Lands," will be available Monday. Kerr's "The Complete Galloping Gourmet Cookbook," which weighs six-and-one-half pounds, has recently been published by Grosset and Dunlap.

Around a roaring fire the women sat facing Eason, Kerr, Mrs. Castle, the show's producer Howard Engel and engineer Seymour Malmuth. Trays of sandwiches on brown bread with layers of cream cheese were passed. They were baked by Mrs. Castle.

"I'VE BEEN broadcasting for 14 years, and this is the first time I've ever broadcast out of a home," Kerr said.

"We just decided to go on location for the hell of it," Eason told the audience.

As the women sipped coffee, Kerr sipped wine. Kerr fans know Kerr doesn't drink wine. He replenishes the slurping glass, Eason said.

A dinner party for eight with no more than three courses is Kerr's idea of entertaining.

"Cocktail parties are suicide," he said. "They are saying to people 'I want to get my obligations to you out of the way, and you aren't fit to come for dinner.' "

"Let's take a call," Eason suggested, and Kerr solved the problem of a woman who wanted to know whether quiche should be frozen before or after it is baked. Freezing quiche is highly undesirable, according to Kerr, who prefers it fresh from the oven.

DURING EACH of the frequent commercial interruptions Kerr either turned to the women asking, "Are you following this all right?" or to Eason asking, "Is this going all right with you?"

On the air his confidence competed with an uncanny wit for his outstanding feature. With a hint of irony in his voice Kerr solved the problem of a woman who mixed two tablespoons of arrowroot instead of one-quarter teaspoon.

"Either she's constipated or Church of England," he told the women during another commercial break.

The women in the room were unable to hear the telephone calls and likewise were spared the commercial messages, but the show's producer Howard Engel announced the station was playing a quick gravy commercial, not quite in the gourmet spirit.

"At least they got the Preparation H out of the way," said Kerr, draining the wine bottle.

"No they didn't," Engel said laughing and held out his earphones, so the women could listen.

"You know what to do with it (Preparation H)?" one of Mrs. Castle's friends asked. "I read in Vogue magazine if you put it under your eyes it removes the little wrinkles."

"Look at that survival kit," one of the women said as Eason revealed a supply of wine.

The coffee the women had been drinking was quickly replaced by the wine. Three hours of broadcasting passed in an atmosphere so relaxed and enjoyable, Kerr said, "I've had such a good time. I think I'll be back tomorrow."

What he would like to have for dinner tonight, the Galloping Gourmet said, is rainbow trout, fresh vegetables, Camembert cheese and California grapes, served by Germaine Greer.

"That's just what we are having at my house," Eason said. "Would you care to join us?"

"Does that include Germaine Greer?" Kerr was asking as the show's theme music piped in.

CORALIE CASTLE invited her friends and neighbors to watch and listen to the Jim Eason show as it was being broadcast from her home in San Rafael yesterday. The Galloping Gourmet, Graham Kerr, was Eason's guest. Mrs. Castle, herself the author of cookbooks, was selected to host the show by a random drawing of cards sent to the radio station.

An International Impact—New Vests

Hand-crocheted vests with suede inserts have an international impact. The New York concern, which introduced them, adapted the idea from an article spotted in a London boutique. They took the style to South Korea where a mill manufactures the vests.

The success of the design caused such an increase in production that the firm became a major consumer of suede skins of South Korea.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Student Grading Of Teachers Might Improve Performance

RAP:

Why don't they give people tougher "child-appreciation" tests before they allow them to become teachers? No matter how smart a teacher is, if he can't stand kids he won't teach them anything. And if they get enough of that kind, they'll be turned off to school.

Out of six teachers, I've got one who is great; one you could take or leave; a sarcastic snob who builds herself up by making students look stupid; a bore who is afraid of us —he hates kids; a sourpuss who distrusts everybody —especially teenage boys; and Miss Stoneface, who doesn't tell anybody where he stands unless she's stony-mad, and then she tells him to stand outside the door. (Me being a questioner you can guess where I mainly stand in this class.)

They let college students "grade" teachers sometimes nowadays. And if the grades average out low, the profs get called to the office (for a change).

Why don't they do this in high school, maybe even in lower grades too? It might jazz up the education system more than all those "learning surveys" we're always reading about. — OUTSIDE THE DOOR A LOT

OTDAL:

Might could.

(Note to readers: If any of your high school or junior high administrators have tried student-grading of teachers, please let us know the results.) — HELEN

OUTSIDE THE DOOR:

Probably would.

Who knows better than students whether a teacher can really teach? If he's good, he'll appreciate the grades and probably try even harder. If he rates "low," well, kids get deficiency notices, why not teachers? — SUE

RAP:

I hope this letter keeps others from making my mistake.

I dearly loved a guy my folks hated. He wanted me to run away with him when I became 18, but I wouldn't hurt my parents, so I begged him to wait and try to win them over. I'm seventeen and three-quarters.

I guess he got tired of waiting. I went to visit relatives for a few days and when I returned I learned he had married another girl.

Girls: follow your heart. You have to live with the hurt after he's gone — not your parents. I can't sleep, thinking of how I missed my big chance. — DOOMED OLD MAID

DEAR DOOMED:

You missed a big "chance" all right, all right! Any guy who marries another girl while his steady is on a few days' vacation is a pretty chancy character.

Maybe by next year you'll agree with me and your parents: This is one loss that made you a winner! — HELEN

D.O.M.:

"Doomed Old Maid" at seventeen and three-quarters? Bull-hunky!

Sure it will hurt for awhile, but start signing yourself "B.I.C." (Back in Circulation) and you'll be surprised how fast it comes true.

DEAR RAP:

About new slang expressions, you two made up a goodie when you abbreviated "Tried It Didn't Like It's" signature to TIDLI in your salutation. So now, when someone offers us anything from a fistful of uppers to a weekend for two in one sleeping bag we say, "Tidli," which sounds kinda provocative, don't you think? — REFORMED BUT STILL FRIENDLY

DEAR RBSF:

Tidli! — But maybe it will grow on us. — HELEN AND SUE

Tips For Cleaning Thanksgiving Cloth

After the Thanksgiving meal has ruined the tablecloth with spills, slip it off and run very hot water over just the cranberry and wine stains for five minutes. Then let the cloth soak in cool water while the company stays.

The next day work heavy duty detergent into stains in a paste consistency. If grease remains, sponge it with dry cleaner and rinse well. Then launder cloth in hot water with ¼ cup detergent, ¼ cup super cleaner and ¼ cup non-chlorine bleach. Rinse through complete cycle.

Royal Family's Wedding Strategy

By ROBERT MUSEL
(Second of three articles)

LONDON (UPI) —A policeman flagged down a motorist speeding through Central London and prepared to give him a ticket.

"I'm sorry, officer," said the young man, "but I've got an appointment with the Archbishop of Canterbury."

This was a novel excuse in the policeman's experience and would have been worth another chance if only for originality. But it was true, as well. Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten was on his way on Nov. 19, 1947, for a rehearsal of his marriage the next day to Princess Elizabeth, heiress presumptive to the throne of Britain.

Their engagement did not come exactly as a surprise, however the royal circle may have prided itself on its security. Since Philip was a "foreigner" and King George VI did not want any unjustified resentment to build up around the romance of his beloved daughter, the idea was to try to break the news gently—tiny news items carefully rationed out.

THE ROYAL strategy was sound —a newspaper poll had showed 40 per cent against the Princess marrying an alien. But Philip was seen slipping into the tradesman's entrance of Buckingham Palace. They went together to see the musical "Oklahoma" and when the number "People Will Say We're In Love" was on stage most of the audience had eyes only for the royal pair who had eyes only for each other. He was photographed helping her on with her coat. A UPI reporter who wandered into a restaurant saw them touch hands under the table.

QUEEN ELIZABETH

From then on things moved swiftly. Philip, baptized Greek Orthodox, was admitted into the Church of England. He then took British citizenship but dropped the title of prince and said he wanted to be known simply as Lieutenant Philip (since he had no surname he used his uncle's) Mountbatten.

The engagement was announced on July 9, 1947. Honors were heaped on Philip just before the wedding. He was given the Order of the Garter, the designation of His Royal Highness, the titles Duke of Edinburgh (for Scotland), Earl of Merioneth (for Wales), Baron Greenwich (for England). Invitations went out to the blood royal the world around.

The ceremony in Westminster Abbey attracted one of the largest gatherings of royalty of the century. Princess Margaret was chief bridesmaid. The late Marquess of Milfordhaven was best man. The honeymoon was at Earl Mountbetten's estate, Broadlands, but when the couple could get little privacy—one newspaper published the time the light went out in their bedroom—they moved to the estate of Birkhall in Scotland.

They produced an heir to the throne, Prince Charles on Nov. 14, 1948, and the fountains in Trafalgar Square ran blue for a boy. But the king was now ill with the lung cancer that eventually killed him, and when Elizabeth and Philip went to Canada in 1951 she carried a sealed envelope to be opened in the event of the king's death. At Philip's insistence the queen flew across the ocean to Canada, breaking a royal embargo against long flights by those on or close to the throne.

IT WAS A foretaste and warning to the entrenched traditionalists of the royal palaces that great changes would be coming.

On January 31, 1952, Elizabeth and Prince Philip left for what was to have been a five months tour of Kenya, Ceylon, Australia and New Zealand. They had a happy day Feb. 6, 1952 watching animals at a game reserve and had just returned to their hotel when Philip was handed a message that the king was dead.

Long live the Queen!

Elizabeth returned home immediately to be met at the airport by her Prime Minister, Sir Winston Churchill, and the heads of all political parties. She was dressed in black, proud and erect. She did not weep—public grief is the privilege of a queen's subjects.

So the new reign began. Those old retainers who suspected that with Philip around things would never be the same were soon proved right. Philip wiped out the free meal racket. He discovered all sorts of people thought they had the right to eat on the royal bounty. There were five dining rooms in Buckingham Palace alone. Top servants had lesser servants to wait on them and so on down the line.

There was a guest suite where a servant placed a fresh bottle of whisky every night whether or not it was occupied: The next morning he took it away and replaced it with another bottle. Philip stopped that. He put in an intercom to cut down on messengers hurrying along miles of corridors. He improved the primitive central heating so European princes no longer dreaded winter invitations.

HE MECHANIZED most of the Sandringham royal farm and sold surplus fruit and vegetables, ordered Balmoral to peddle all extra game, instructed Windsor Castle to send its flowers and fruit to market. He closed down one of King George VI's favorite projects at Sandringham, a flax factory, because it was losing money. In all of this and more he had the support of the queen.

Together they overrode objections to the heir to the throne going to ordinary schools with other boys. They liberalized the palace guest list so that achievement as well as lineage became a passport and this has led to a continuing series of informal luncheons for groups of 12 Britons, a mixture of athletes, writers, artists, scientists and so on, to give the queen a chance to talk to a wider range of people.

And most sensational of all, they broke up the debutante racket. "Presentation at court" used to be the ultimate cachet for a girl on th threshhold of society and it was no secret in London that many proud fathers — wealthy Americans among them—were willing to pay considerable sums to those they thought might be able to arrange for their daughters to curtsey to the throne. The custom was abolished.

Philip is still working, however, on the problem of the Buckingham Palace kitchens. If the queen wants a tray in her sitting room it has to be brought 200 yards and up two flights.

Next: The Years of Rule.

THEN PRINCESS Elizabeth walked up the aisle with Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, after their marriage Nov. 21, 1947, in Westminster Abbey.

Mrs. Walter Hall Of Tiburon To Lead Newly-Formed Auxiliary

President of the newly-formed auxiliary for the Pobble, a Novato gift shop where art and crafts made by handicapped people are sold, is Mrs. Walter Hall of Tiburon.

"I feel as an educator and the mother of two handicapped children (Walter, 7 and Gregory, 4) it is important to help handicapped children and adults in all ways," said the former University of Washington instructor.

In Washington she became treasurer and president of Seattle King County Dental Auxiliary and president of Seattle Symphony Women's Committee, Emiry Guild for the Handicapped and University of Washington Dental Faculty Wives.

SHE TAUGHT school in Edmonds, a suburb of Seattle and was on the faculty of University of Washington experimental education unit for handicapped children.

MRS. WALTER HALL
Pobble auxiliary president

Her husband, chairman of the periodontology department at University of Washington Dental School in Seattle accepted a similar post at University of Pacific Dental School in San Francisco "because we found the special education classes and schools in Marin County superior to other parts of the country." They moved here in August.

"The people of Marin have a very positive attitude and are always willing to help a handicapped child. They can be proud of their educational facilities in all walks of life. . . " she said.

Mrs. Hall will hold a coffee at her Tiburon home tomorrow from 10 a.m. to noon for anyone interested in helping the handicapped by joining the auxiliary.

She plans two fund raising events. Monthly meetings are scheduled until May.

The auxiliary's purpose is to support the Pobble, a gift shop where art and crafts of all handicapped people of Marin County and East Bay may be displayed. The non-profit organization in Pacheco Plaza in Novato returns proceeds to the handicapped people.

ASSISTING THE new president will be Mmes. Murray Peterson, vice president; Richard Roman, secretary; Mary Fitzgerald, recording secretary; and Robert Weltmer, treasurer.

Mrs. Hall is active in Marin Dental Auxiliary, University of Pacific Dental Faculty Wives, San Francisco Dental Auxiliary, San Francisco Symphony Foundation, Marin Symphony Women's Auxiliary, San Francisco Opera Guild, Marin League of Women Voters, San Francisco Ballet Foundation, PEO and March of Dimes.

Her relaxation is painting landscapes and still lifes in oils. Opera star Beverly Sills bought her painting, "Daisies," she said.

Help Is Urged For The Consumer

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Businessmen should stop fighting every new consumerism measure and "start supporting those sound proposals that consumers want and need, if they are basically fair and effective," James Lutz, Montgomery Ward executive vice president, told members of the Direct Mail Advertising Association in New York.

"Without the crucial element of fairness, the consumer himself will only lose, but fairness can be achieved in many instances if business will work for improving a bill rather than killing it. It's time we began to fight for the consumer not against him in the legislative area," the executive said.

One Idea For Sounder Sleep

Warm malted milk taken before bedtime will produce longer and better sleep according to two studies reported in Vogue magazine.

Researchers at the University of Edinburgh and at Guy's Hospital Medical School in London tried separate malted milk experiments with similar results — sleepers who drank the warm milk had fewer restless body movements in sleep than the control groups that did not.

Further, the Scottish researchers reported that the malted milk treatment lasted through the night, not wearing off as do sleeping pills.

Letters Help Children Develop Written Communication Skills

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Letter writing is one of the best ways for children to learn the art and skill of written expression. Not letters of the artificial or pretend variety that are sometimes part of exercises in school (requesting data from chambers of commerce, for example), but those that pour out thoughts and ideas and reconstruct events.

The skills a child needs to write an interesting letter home to parents from camp or to grandparents, are the same ones he will need as an adult to write clear, understandable memos.

The telephone may have encroached on letter writing, but it is no substitute. When adults are in another city and do not write interesting letters to their children it is understandable if the children choose not to write interesting letters on their own.

THIS IS A good time of year to begin planning a program of letter writing. The Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year seasons all provide occasions for "thank-you" notes.

There are two schools of thought about spelling and grammatical accuracy in the writing of young children. One group of educators argues that children should go over and correct what they have written in order to make it letter-perfect. Other academicians insist that spelling and grammar come gradually and should not be forced, and that children should be free of such restrictions to write as the muse strikes them.

Whichever school of thought you feel is best for your children, be sure that if you direct that a letter be corrected you make it an interesting and loving experience and not a boring or guilt-producing chore.

There is one essential rule for adults who encourage children to write letters. Answer soon enough that a sense of unbroken communication is established.

THERE IS NOTHING better in a letter than a secret. If grandfather reports something secret he is planning for grandmother, he may well get a quick reply relating some secret known only to his youthful correspondent. But adults must be careful that they understand this exchange of letters is between peers. Secrets are meant to be kept.

DANCE REVIEW

National Ballet Proves A Winner

By MARIE RAMEAU

The resident ballet of this nation's capital brought a memorable evening of dance this week to Marin, a program notable for its excellence... but also footnotable for flaws resulting from unnecessary innovation.

The National Ballet of Washington, D.C., was well received by the audience Tuesday night and deserved an enthusiast in every seat of the 2,000-seat Marin Veterans Memorial Building, about a third empty.

This year marks the 10th anniversary of the company which is distinguished by a repertoire of more than 50 ballets and has presented some of the most outstanding young performing artists in the United States.

Under the direction of Frederic Franklin, the company's best offerings are such full-length classics as Tchaikovsky's "The Sleeping Beauty," from which act three was presented Tuesday. The production was perhaps a bit too colorful for the ballet's classic formality, but the dancing was excellent.

I wonder, however, whether change necessarily means improvement? Choreographer Ben Stevenson's revision of the original Petipa choreography was often too busy, and left much to be desired in regards to form and style. Also, the famous "Lilac Fairy" variation was missing, as were several of this ballet's other standard variations.

From the program notes, exactly who performed what was unclear. At any rate, whoever performed the part of Princess Florise in the "Bluebird" pas de deux somewhat marred the otherwise flowing lines by throwing her arms and body from one position to the next.

"Les Sylphides," the famous classical-romantic ballet of Michael Fokine, to music of Chopin, was excellently produced. But again, why change his lovely variations? The changes were certainly not for the better, particularly in the "Prelude." Also, the same soloist who threw herself around in "Bluebird" did the same in the "Valse." The pas de deux as performed by Christine Knoblauch and Stuart Sebastian was exquisite in its ethereal lightness, although it lacked some of the melancholy one usually expects of it.

"Variations for Four," by Anton Dolin, could well have been the male dancer's reply to the time-honored "Pas de Quatre" for the four reigning ballerinas of the early 19th Century. It was an aristocratic technical competition for four male dancers, in which each had several variations in which to outdo the others. The ballet was performed brilliantly and with an appropriate sense of humor. Most other American companies would be hard-put to find four male dancers of equal technical strength who could perform together with such elegance and harmony as did these.

"Three Preludes," with choreography by Ben Stevenson to music of Rachmaninoff, was an abstract ballet which was deceptively academic in approach. It opened with Jane Miller and Dennis Poole doing movements at the barre which were taken directly out of classroom exercises. But at the same time, these developed into much more and eventually exploded into a full-blown, passionate pas de deux between two youthful artists in a romantic, yet vigorous mood.

The only major drawback to the performance was the orchestra's brass section, which sounded like the Tijuana Sourkraut.

I could have watched this company all night, and all too soon the program came to an end. But the troup will continue to perform throughout this week in Cupertino, Berkeley and San Francisco. Hopefully they will soon repeat a memorable contribution to Marin's balletic life, too.

Original Fairy Tale Is Scheduled

An original fairy tale "The Cat, The Unicorn and The Peacock" will be presented Nov. 28 and 30, Dec. 2 and 3 in Ives Hall at Sonoma State College.

Performances on Nov. 28 and 30 will be at 10 and 11:30 a.m. to permit school classes to attend. It will also be performed Dec. 2 at 8 p.m. and Dec. 3 at 2 p.m.

The story includes many colorful characters like "Lady Beautiful," "Lord Belchmore" and "Wimbleton Wisely the Wizard." Miss Cole said the play will tour some Bay Area schools in December and January.

Christmas Play Set By Novato High

The Music Theater Workshp at Novato High School will present premiere performances of "Once Upon a Christmas," a musical play based on the story "Where Love Is, God Is Also" by Leo Tolstoy, starting Dec. 1.

The play will be performed in the Novato High School lecture hall, Dec. 1, 2, 8 and 9 at 8 p.m.

The play by Marian Rettke and Owen Andrews Hatch, set in a small Russian village on a Christmas Eve in the late 19th Century, centers about a dream by a cobbler.

A double cast will perform, reported John H. Enders, school choral instructor in charge of the production.

Reed Walker and Donald Wilson will sing the role of Martin, the cobbler; Susan Jewhurst and Donna McRae, as his wife; Michael Holtzinger and Paul DeWitt as Petrov, a neighbor; Deborah Layne and Cheryl Campbell as Natasha.

Karen Woomer and Janice Jackson as Anna, an old woman; Susan Valuch and Lori Law as Yasha, a villager; Steven Cheshire and Jack Miller as Ivan, a villager, and Darcel Wilson in the part of a boy.

Clarinetist Will Play On Monday

Clarinetist Donald O'Brien will present a recital Monday at 8 p.m. in Ives Hall at Sonoma State College.

O'Brien, a member of the college music faculty, has appeared with the San Francisco and Oakland symphonies.

Joining him in the concert will be pianist Robert Krupnick and cellist Judiyaba. Krupnick received the Charles Ives Award from the National Institute of Arts and Letters this year and Judiyaba has performed with the San Francisco Opera and Oakland Symphony.

Auditions For Play Tomorrow

Another audition session for actors for the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts production of "Moonchildren" will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Mill Valley Golf Course clubhouse.

The play, which was nominated for the Pulitzer Prize last year, portrays the communal life of university students.

Director Sali Lieberman is looking for actors of college age or older.

The play will be presented January and February.

Art Festival Set Saturday

The annual winter art festival for teachers, volunteer aides and instructional aides, sponsored by the Marin County Superintendent of Schools office, will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday at Sinaloa Junior High School in Novato.

About 200 to 250 persons are expected to attend the festival, which will consist of a series of workshops covering crafts, according to Lee Hilton, art specialist with the Novato Unified School District.

'Peter Pan' Set During Holidays

"Peter Pan" will be presented as a Christmas season offering at College of Marin's Fine Arts theater by Magic Circle Theater, in cooperation with the college's community services department.

Marion Hayes Cain will produce and direct the James M. Barrie classic.

There will be two evening performances — on Dec. 28 and 30 at 8 p.m. Matinees will be on Dec. 29, 30, 31 and Jan 1 at 2:30 p.m.

Denise Arrell of Sonoma will play Peter Pan, heading a cast of 34 children, high school students and adults.

DRAMA REVIEW

ACT's 'Merchant' Lacks Punch Of Two Years Ago

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — What a difference two years make.

The American Conservatory Theater of San Francisco exploded onto the scene in 1970 with a controversial fifth-season opener — a modern-day version of Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice."

Some purists, who hated to see their Shakespeare tinkered with, were up in arms. But the dazzling production created by ACT's Ellis Rabb caught fire. It proved to be one of the big hits of the season.

ACT, no doubt looking for a production money saver after the lavish "Cyrano de Bergerac," brought the "Merchant" back into repertory Tuesday night at the Geary Theater.

The Bay Area storm cut into the opening night crowd. Only about a three-quarters full house greeted the revival.

But again what a difference. For one thing, Rabb is not at the helm of the production staff. Direction has been handled by Bonaventura, who was Rabb's assistant two years ago.

What has resulted is rather a sinister "Merchant." Shakespeare's beautiful verse remains, but it is now more a takeoff on a Felini film.

Bonaventura seems to overplay his hand — putting more emphasis on the psychological hangups between the same sexes than the real issue — the tragedy surrounding the lust for money. Rightfully, the two are sometimes thrown together, but why so far?

However, the production is not without several outstanding acting efforts.

Marc Singer, who in two years with ACT has grown to the forefront of the talented acting staff, is a most compelling Bassanio — torn between the love for Antonio (Paul Shenar) and Portia (Barbara Colby), again presented as the world's richest woman, who is so insecure that she has to use a three-casket system to select a husband.

Almost forgotten in Bonaventura's interpretation is Shylock, the Jewish money lender expertly fashioned by Joseph Bird.

While Miss Colby doesn't project a "my fair Portia" image, she is an actress who can handle any assignment capably.

Paul Shenar portrays the weak Antonio fairly well, but he seems to go too limp as the play reaches its climactic scene in which Shylock demands a pound of flesh for his money note.

Three of the company's actors are back in the same roles — William Paterson as the Prince of Arragon, who lights up the rather slow evening with his marvelous voice and facial expressions; David Gilliam as Lorenzo, and John Hancock as the Prince of Morocco.

Sorry to say, J. Steven White gives a turned-off performance of the servant Launcelot. His buffoonery is just plain distasteful. And Marsha Mason as Jessica leaves a little to be desired, too. Also, Sarina C. Grant (Nerissa) seems to miss the mark. Ah, for Ann Weldon in the role again.

While the same set is used with giant blowups of Venice as backdrops, the whole production lacks the jet-set style. Ann Roth's dazzling European costumes of 1970 have been replaced by a blue-jean style wardrobe which she had to execute.

"The Merchant" now joins "Cyrano" and "The House of Blue Leaves" in the company's rotating repertory.

San Francisco False Arrest Suit Is Filed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A grower with lettuce and tomato fields in the Central Valley has filed a $301,500 false arrest suit against the city and county of San Francisco.

Hector Alva, 33, a Texas resident who also owns a produce warehouse in Union City, said in his superior court action Wednesday he was picked up Dec. 14, 1971, as he was driving a van that was loaded with produce he intended to sell here. He said he had just purchased the truck.

Alva said he was detained on suspicion of receiving stolen property even though he produced receipts for the truck and merchandise. He was he was released without charge but the truck was kept for three days.

Hydrofoil May Have Wide Effect On Naval Strategy

By DAVID F. SALISBURY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

When President Nixon and Communist Party Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev met in Moscow this year, they exchanged gifts. Mr. Nixon gave a Cadillac; in return Mr. Brezhnev presented the President with a model of a sleek Volga class hydrofoil. Later, the Russians delivered the real thing to the United States, complete with fur-lined seats and Georgian silver appointments.

The hydrofoil is not just the result of 30 years of Russian hydrofoil development — it is a symbol of the growing worldwide interest, both military and commercial, in the strange-looking, high-riding craft.

Many observers detect a revolution in naval thought, catalyzed by the development of hydrofoils and other "non-displacement" ships. Just as the American aviator Billy Mitchell dramatically demonstrated the worth of air power by bombing the obsolete battleship Alabama in 1921, so the capabilities of a new generation of missile-carrying hydrofoils are causing a number of navies to rethink the organization and effectiveness of their convention surface fleets.

Advocates claim that military hydrofoils will have a far-reaching effect on naval strategy and tactics — that they may even make obsolete the carrier task force, the primary unit of the U.S. Navy.

The United States, with Italy and West Germany, is now embarked on an ambitious NATO program to design and construct prototype hydrofoils. Comdr. Karl M. Duff of the Naval Ship Systems Command, former skipper of the hydrofoil Highpoint, calls it "probably the most significant of all advanced ship programs yet undertaken by the U.S. Navy."

The Soviet Union also has a well-established interest in the military potential of hydrofoils. For a number of years it has maintained hydrofoil patrols on the Black, Caspian, and Baltic Seas. Currently the Russians are testing a new-generation hydrofoil, Typhoon, probably equivalent to the U.S. missile hydrofoil in sophistication.

What advocates see as the military potential of the hydrofoil and the increasing vulnerability of conventional warships is indicated in two hypothetical scenes sketched by sources both in and out of government.

Here's scene No. 1:

A light cruiser is routinely patroling a Southeast Asian shore. Her speed is about 15 knots (a knot is 1.16 m.p.h.). It is nearly dusk and a number of fishing boats dot the area. Radar and sonar operators are on the alert, looking for anything unusual.

Suddenly the radar operator picks up a high-speed echo moving too fast to be an airplane. Furthermore, one of the blips he took to be a sampan on the outer limits of the cruiser's radar (about 25 miles) starts moving away at more than 40 knots. Battle stations sound. But even before the siren stops blaring, the retreating "sampan" has disappeared from radar range and the high-speed object (the "sampan's" missile) has hit the cruiser.

The attacker, a missile-carrying hydrofoil, had lain in wait until the cruiser was just in range, fired its missile, and ran. Because of the hydrofoil's small size, its radar and sonar reflections, while at rest, were indistinguishable from those of the fishing boats. With four surface-to-surface missiles, it had the firepower to destroy the cruiser.

Here's scene No. 2:

A carrier task force is at sea. A storm is brewing, and the seas are running. The ships have been forced to bell down to 5 knots.

A sonar operator detects the faint ping of an unidentified submarine that quickly fades away.

Two hydrofoils, rigged this time with antisubmarine gear, not missles, are sent in pursuit at 40 knots through 10-foot waves; when they reach the approximate site, one of the hydrofoils stops, lowers it sonar gear, and picks up contact. The second hydrofoil, with diractions from its partner, continues to close.

As the second hydrofoil gains position above the unidentified submarine it begins to move out of the range of the first sitting hydrofoil's sonar. So the "bird-dogging" hydrofoil stops, lowers its sonar equipment, and exchanges roles with its partner. They keep up this game of "leapfrog" until the sub is either sunk or chased off.

Most commercial hydrofoils run with their foils only partially out of the water. They are relatively stable and inexpensive but are unsuited for the open ocean.

Navy hydrofoils are more sophisticated. Their foil system rides completely below the surface of the water, while hoisting the hull well above the often rough surface. The disadvantage of this is that a complex control system is necessary to keep the ships upright.

The missile-carrying hydrofoil project, scheduled for completion in 1974, has been contracted to the Boeing Company. If the prototype lives up to design requirements the NATO powers are expected to order as many as 25 craft. Boeing management considers the financial potential to be equivalent to that of the B-52 program.

Approximately $35 million has been appropriated for design and construction of the prototypes of the missile hydrofoil.

Following the completion of the first two prototypes there will be an extensive period of testing and evaluation.

If the hydrofoil meets design specifications it will go into production and as many as 25 may be ordered by the U.S. and NATO country navies.

Official Pentagon sources are unwilling to comment on the future of the hydrofoil past this stage; however, there are indications that the missile-carrying hydrofoils will be deployed in the Mediterranean and Baltic Seas as a counter to Soviet hydrofoils and Russian-built missile-carrying patrol boats now in these areas.

Navy Research and Development is requesting appropriations to design and build two newer types of hydrofoils. One would be capable of speeds up to 60 to 80 knots. The other would be larger, perhaps the forerunner of a high-speed minicarrier.

It was the performance of the Tucumcari, a hydrofoil gunboat, that secured Boeing this contract.

Both Tucumcari and a Grumman-built hydrofoil, Flagstaff, completed a tour of duty in Southeast Asia during the last six months of 1970, attached to the Pacific Fleet. They participated successfully in fleet maneuvers.

Tucumcari then toured the NATO countries in a successful effort to enlist their support in the missile hydrofoil system. On the tour, lasting six months, Tucumcari took NATO admirals and dignitaries on demonstration "flights" and was thoroughly tested by the various countries' naval research divisions.

She passed all the tests with flying colors. Roy MacLeavy, editor of Jane's Surface Skimmers: Hovercraft and Hydrofoil, stated, "The vessel which has contributed most to winning over NATO navies (to hydrofoils) is undoubtedly the Boeing Tucumcari."

The latest hydrofoils, riding high out of the water on submerged foils, are like submarines in one respect: They are relatively unaffected by surface conditions. As such, advocates say, they are ideal for submarine surveillance.

Maneuverability is another advantage claimed for hydrofoils. Most ships tend to roll when turning. But the foil system, with flaps and computerized controls, gives the hydrofoils the ability to "bank" like an aircraft in fast turns.

But detractors say the hydrofoils have drawbacks, too:

Many U.S. Navy people consider them to be simply "interesting toys." These critics say their unusual capabilities and problems make them difficult to integrate into conventional fleets.

While the hydrofoil's small size provides cost and tactical advantages, it also means that with necessarily small crews, each crewman must know the basics of running the ship in an emergency.

A hydrofoil's operating range is limited by high fuel consumption and low fuel tank capacity. (The Navy plans to minimize this by operating hydrofoils in groups of four or more, each with a support ship carrying spare parts and fuel.)

The complicated electronics systems of the hydrofoil are beyond the understanding of anyone but electronics experts. "How," critics ask, "are they to be fixed at sea?"

(Easily replaceable electronic modules are offered as a partial answer. Also it turns out that hydrofoils equipped with water-jet propulsion require less maintenance than conventional ships because of their vibration free ride.)

As with all revolutions, the roots of this one stretch far back into the past. Through the past 15 years, the United States alone has spent about $85 million researching and developing hydrofoils. The effort in Russia dates back twice as far and is of even greater magnitude.

But the idea of the hydrofoil — a revolution in its own right that frees a ship's hull from the surface — has much earlier beginnings.

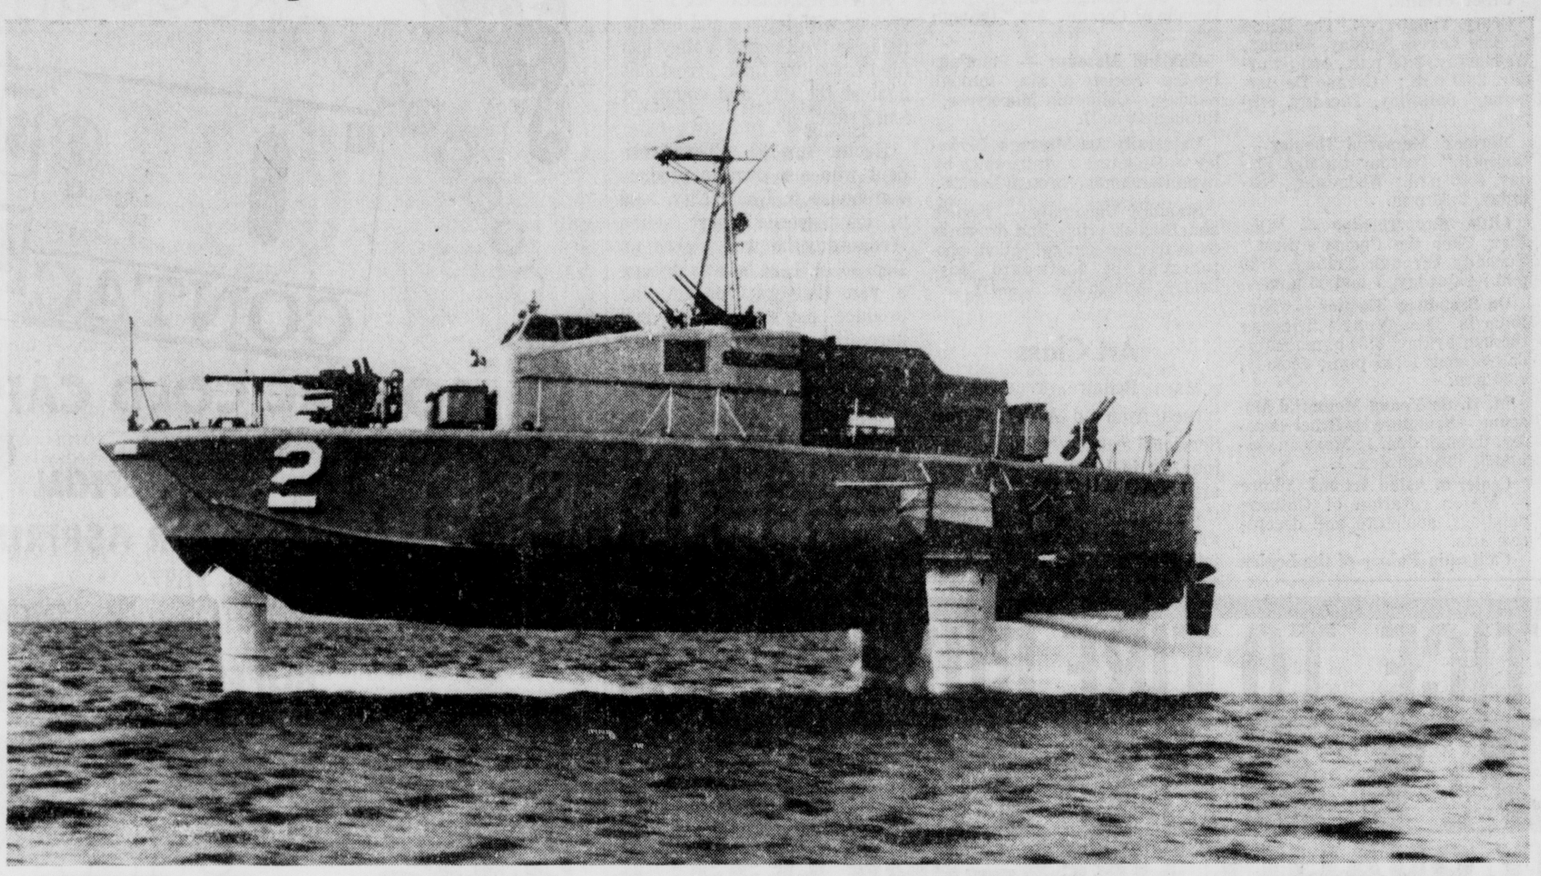

In 1891, the Italian inventor, Enrico Forliani, stood on the shore of Lake Magginot and watched his model "hydrovaned boat" rise up on slender legs and speed across the surface of the water.

Twenty-eight years later, Alexander Graham Bell, working with Casey Baldwin, designed and built the HD-4, the first operative hydrofoil boat. In the summer of 1919, on the water of Baddock Bay in Nova Scotia, the HD-4 set a world water speed record of 61 knots.

The names of some of the companies at the forefront of hydrofoil development are Boeing, Grumman, Lockheed in the United States; de Havilland in Canada; Aerospatiale in France; Mitsubishi in Japan — all aerospace companies and all applying modern technology to the problem of "underwater flight."

The problems of underwater flight are exceptionally complex. For example the hydrofoil computer simulator at Boeing uses so much of the firm's computer capacity (one of the largest in the country) that it can only be run in the middle of the night when there are no other demands on the computer system.

In 1967, the Egyptians, operating a Russian-built KOMAR, a conventional patrol boat with a top speed of about 40 knots, destroyed the Israeli flagship Elath with a Styx surface-to-surface missile. This incident caused the U.S. Navy to ask NATO to counter this type of threat. The missile hydrofoil program was the outcome.

GUNBOAT — This is a view of the Boeing Company's hydrofoil gunboat, the Tucumcari, zipping over the surface of the water at more than 40 knots an hour propeled by a water jet. The hydrofoil has growing worldwide interest. It may be strange looking but it also may have a wide future in both military and commercial ventures.

World Protein Center In Prairie-Delta Area

By PETER TONGE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — With a flourish Al Pollard drew a circle on the map. "This," he said, "is the protein center of the world."

He was referring to the growing production of catfish and soybeans in the prairie-delta regions of this and the neighboring states of Louisiana and Mississippi. What particularly excites this business consultant is the integration of the two protein products with the area's long-established rice industry.

Because of this he believes the three states will one day play a major role in feeding the growing populations of the world.

Both bankers and farming representatives here see no reason to quarrel with this assessment. Says Jim Mason, executive with the highly successful farmers cooperative, Riceland Foods: "The region hasn't reached anywhere near its potential yet."

By this he means more land can be given over to concentrated catfish culture (1,800 pounds per acre) and that new soybean strains being developed, together with irrigation possibilities, will push up yields. Rice strains, with yields already four times that of wheat, have little room for improvement. "But who knows?" is his comment.

A hardpan subsoil is one of this region's assets. The clay retains the water making it a relatively simple matter to do the necessary flooding of rice paddies. For the same reason it's good catfish country.

"Dig a hole," says one Arkansan, somewhat oversimplifying the situation, "and it's ready to become a catfish pond."

Just two years ago some 35,000 acres all over the South were given over to the fish. Today 70,000 acres — one-third in Mississippi alone — are devoted to catfish culture. The annual crop now totals 38 million pounds, marketed 50-50 in fresh and frozen form.

The catfish likes warm water and grows quickly in relatively shallow ponds. A six inch fingerling grows to 19 ounces in a season; a 10-inch fish to a full two pounds in the same time span. It is also a very good eating fish that is growing more popular by the year.

The fish's rapid growth, small space requirements, and relative ease of rearing make it "potentially" the most abundant source of animal protein known to man," according to one official. But even at its best the catfish comes nowhere near the soybean in protein content.

But perhaps the most important factor for agriculture in this part of the world is the new partnership the fish has formed — with beans and rice.

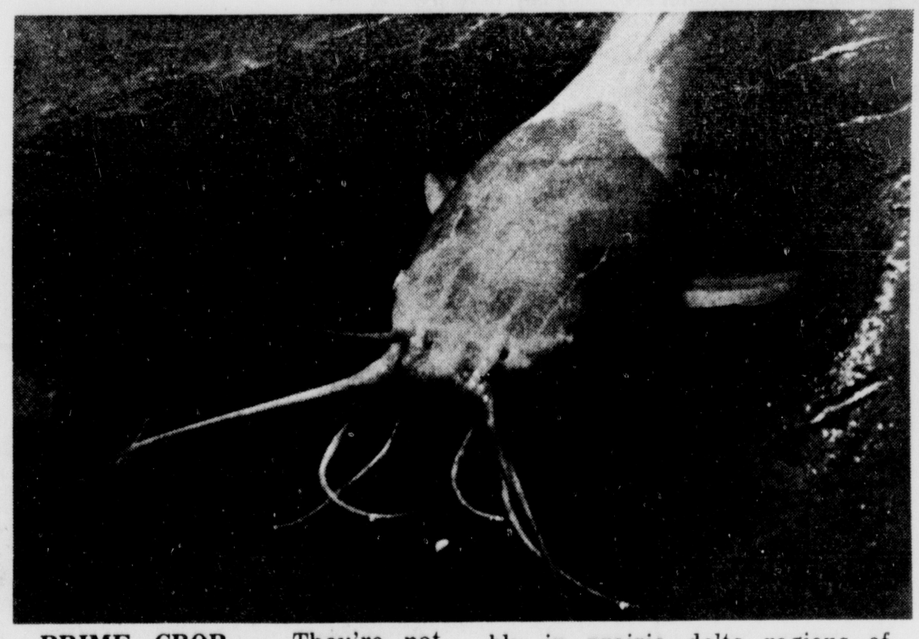

Soybeans fit into the picture as the ideal rotation crop for both rice and fish. More importantly, though, the mustard-yellow pea-sized little bean is the cheapest protein source known to man. It contains twice the protein of good red beef and has 10 times the protein content of milk.

Soybeans themselves, apparently, benefit very little from direct fertilization of the land. But they grow beautifully on last year's rice paddy and produce a bumper crop on land that was formerly catfish pond.

In fact, part of the economics of catfish farming is its ability to condition the soil. Every few years a fish pond has to be drained and given over to cultivation of some plant crop. At this stage the 200 or so pounds of nitrogen per acre and other nutrients the fish have added to the land make it too rich for rice — it grows too tall and falls over. The soybean, despite its proclivity for "fixing" nitrogen in the soil apparently rectifies this and readies the soil for rice.

Right now the bulk of the nation's soybean crop goes into livestock feeds — principally for cattle and poultry. On the other hand, it is finding its way increasingly into the edible food industry — as cooking oil and shortening; as a milk substitute (non-dairy creamer), as a meat additive, and as soyflour.

PRIME CROP — They're not particularly pretty to look at, but catfish are one of three prime crops now being rotated profitably in prairie delta regions of Arkansas, Mississippi, and Louisiana.

Hanoi Determination Tied To U.S. Bombing

WASHINGTON UPI) —The wife of Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said yesterday a visit to Hanoi convinced her American bombing only fortifies North Vietnam's "serene determination."

Although she witnessed no bombing herself during a visit to North Vietnam Oct. 29 to Nov. 5, Jane Hart said her talks with the populace indicated "the impact is distress and it firms up their determination" to achieve their goals of "reunification and freedom from foreign influence."

She also told a news conference, which she called to report her observations of her visit, that the North Vietnamese separate the bombing from the American people at large and blame only President Nixon and former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Armed with a degree in anthropology she earned only two years ago, the 51-year-old Mrs. Hart described her visit as that of an "anthropological paratrooper on a week's visit."

Her primary purpose, she said, was to talk with American prisoners of war and not to talk to government officials, especially at a time when the draft peace agreement was being announced.

She spoke with eight POWs, she said, during what she believed to be the first visit by Americans to the POW camp inside the city of Hanoi.

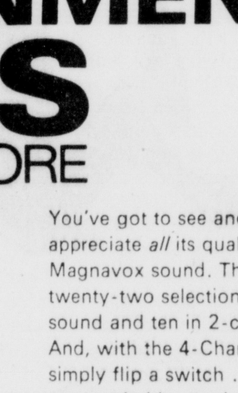

As they sat around a ping pong table drinking beer, she said, the Air Force and Navy pilots —all shot down since last April —told her of what she deemed to be good treatment by their captors.

The bombing around Hanoi had been halted just before she arrived, she said, as a result of the accidental bombing of the French legation in the capital.

She only heard one bomb hit while she was out in the provinces, she said, and wasn't concerned for her own safety at any time.

AFTER DAYS OF RAIN, A BIT OF SKY

Storm-tossed boats moored in Tomales Bay get a brief respite from seemingly endlessly falling rain. The skies parted for awhile yesterday in the late afternoon to silhouette in pale sunset glow the westward hills. The respite was a brief one in a series of storms that dropped in one week nearly as much rain, about 17 inches, as fell in the entire nine-month rainy season last year, 19.33 inches. These fishing boats near Marshall on the bay, like the crab fleet, have been restlessly idled for days. And the prospect is for more rain off and on at least through tomorrow.

Plan To Redistrict Trustee Areas Set

The Marin County Committee on School District Organization last night adopted a plan for redistricting County Board of Education trustee areas, creating two entirely new areas and preventing two incumbents from running for reelection in April.

The committee's action — requested by the county board of education to comply with the one-man one-vote doctrine — isn't subject to public hearings. Members want to know the public's reaction, however, said Robert E. Spain, assistant superintendent of schools, and have set a special meeting for Nov. 29 at 8 p.m. at the county schools' office, for public comment.

The seven trustee areas in the plan are:

Area 1 — Most of Novato, with a population of 28,101.

Area 2 — Most of San Rafael, population 27,545.

Area 3 — San Rafael north of Fourth Street, Sun Valley and Fairhills, Dixie School District, Santa Venetia and Los Ranchitos, population 33,687.

Area 4 — San Anselmo, Kentfield and Ross school districts, population 30,896.

Area 5 — Larkspur and Reed school districts, and the Strawberry area, population 29,557.

Area 6 — Mill Valley and Sausalito srhool districts (excepting Strawberry), population 31,663.

Area 7 — North Novato, San Marin, Nicasio, Lagunitas, Fairfax, and all of the present 6 and 7 trustee areas of West Marin, population 28,658.

Under the new setup, each member of the county board of education would represent comparable populations. Under the present trustee system, districts range from the San Rafael and Dixie area, covering 61,260 population, to the West Marin area, representing 1,834 population.

(A Sacramento Superior Court order to the Sacramento County School board to reapportion itself according to the one-man one-vote doctrine prompted the Marin County board to follow suit.)

The redistricting prevents incumbent county board members Patrick W. Pollock and Arnold Dolcini Jr., from seeking re-election in April, said Spain, since a trustee must live in the area he represents.

Three members' terms expire next year — Pollock, Glen E. Robinson and Dolcini. Pollock, a San Anselmo resident currently represents Area 3. Under the redistricting plan San Anselmo is in Area 4, already represented by Ross resident James A. Carroll, whose term doesn't expire until 1975.

Similarly Dolcini, who lives in Petaluma and represents Area 7, can't run for that seat because Lee C. Richardson Jr. of Inverness will be incumbent until 1975.

The redistricting plan was passed by an 8-to-1 vote, said Spain. Only committee member John T. Schmitz dissented. William L. Sisk, who is also a county board of education member (Area 1 - Novato) abstained from voting.

The committee reelected Watson Conner as chairman and Roy A. V. Parks, vice-chairman.

Car Is Nailed Without Tire

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — When Sheriff's police finally caught up with a car traveling 135 miles per hour and leaving a trail of sparks down the freeway, they discovered the right front tire was missing.

Police said Wednesday they finally caught the car after it piled into a guardrail and wall.

The car, a Dodge Dart with a 340 cubic inch engine, had the right front tire missing and the rim had been ground away by friction with the pavement, police said.

The driver, Glenn A. King Jr., 23, Milwaukee, was fined $350 and lost his license for 18 months for drunk driving, police said.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

Young Journalist Gets Treated As A Reporter

By DAVID DIETZ

Sheryl Ronshausen came to the Independent-Journal newsroom yesterday expecting a tour, miscellaneous gratuities and polite goodbyes before the ride home.

To her pleasant surprise, she said, it didn't happen that way. Miss Ronshausen, a 17-year-old San Marin High School student who is editor of the school newspaper, was thrust into the workaday editorial routine, making telephone checks, reporting and writing stories and covering a luncheon meeting of a San Rafael senior citizens group.

"This is the kind of thing I like to get into," said Miss Ronshausen.

Her appearance at the I-J was the result of a contest sponsored by the United Bay Area Crusade for student journalists from throughout five bay counties. The sponsors liked a feature story she wrote on Sunny Hills, a crusade-sponsored agency, and it won her the right to a day at the I-J.

"I didn't think the story was that good," she said with a shy laugh. Said the I-J staff, "We never expected to be regarded as a prize."

Showing up at the I-J newsroom promptly at 8 a.m., Miss Ronshausen was greeted by city editor Robert M. Strebeigh, who promptly surprised her with a work assignment.

SHERYL RONSHAUSEN

Said Strebeigh, "Let's not make a visit of it. The only way to learn it is to do it . . . "

Said Miss Ronshausen: "Great!"

Said Strebeigh, in effect, while taking her on a three-and-a-half-minute tour: "Here's the sports department. This is where the business editor works. Here's the political writer's cubbyhole. Here's where the editorials are written. That's the ladies' room. Let me show you the library. This is where you hang your coat. That's your typewriter."

Said Miss Ronshausen, having hung up her coat and stuffing paper in the typewriter, "Great. Thanks." And she was on the job, settling down like any beginning pro, needing far less help than the longtime regulars on the staff were ready, willing and able to give.

She made the fire calls, checking with various fire departments in Marin for a rundown on activities of the previous 24 hours.

Strebeigh was as much surprised by the quality of the student's first effort as she was with the opportunity to perform it. Her assignment, he said, was done "fast and flawlessly."

With that for a start, Miss Ronshausen, who aspires to a newspaper career, was off to San Rafael Police Department for a check of the reports, then covered a meeting of San Rafael's Goldenaires and finally rewrote a handful of press releases given her by Strebeigh.

Of the I-J, she said: "I didn't realize how vast it was. I expected something on a much smaller scale."

Said Strebeigh, "I didn't realize how much a visiting gal like that could do. I expected something on a much smaller scale."

If there was anything unusual about her service it was a tour of the plant with a man who knows the place and routine inside and out — after her assignments but before deadline. Otherwise, she put in a regular eight-hour day.

Miss Ronshausen, who lives at 8 Santiago Court, Novato, is a lifelong Novatan, except for three months spent in Mill Valley at childhood. Her father, Calvin, is employed at a Novato grocery store.

Although Miss Ronshausen is newly-appointed editor of the Pony Express, San Marin High's paper, the publication hasn't made its first appearance yet this year because of money woes. But she is hopeful of publishing soon.

Miss Ronshausen, a senior, was copy editor on the paper last year and a reporter as a sophomore. She said she has been interested in journalism since ninth grade at Sinaloa Junior High School, when an English teacher praised her writing ability.

"He recommended to my counselor that I take journalism," she said. And she did, now expressing a special interest in feature writing and interviews.

"I got into it and I really liked it," said Miss Ronshausen, who hopes to enroll at the University of Southern California next year. "But I felt like quitting at one time because it got so hectic."

Miss Ronshausen is in charge of an all-female editorial staff, which, she said, at the risk of criticism, doesn't really suit her.

"They sit around and talk about their boyfriends," she said in a purposeful tone. "It kind of gets on my nerves."

Streets Of Petaluma Projects Are Rapped

Petaluma's Development Allotment Board last night found many proposed developments have serious street problems.

The 17-member board is reviewing building applications and must decide which can be approved under the limitation of development to 500 dwelling units per year.

With city staff members as resource aides, the board studied each proposal and found many questions must be answered directly by the developers.

The application of Arthur Condiotti for 100 homes on I Street at Sunnyslope Road created concern that the streets there are not good enough to accommodate his complete development of 300 units.

City Engineer David A. Young told the board that the streets must be improved before development is permitted. He said both streets must be widened to accommodate increased traffic, as well as pedestrian use, since children will be walking to nearby schools.

Planning Director William C. McGivern said the responsibility for seeing that street improvements are made rests with the city council, as does the decision on who pays for the work.

On Petaluma's Eastside, the board heard that North McDowell Boulevard is also in such condition that it must be improved before additional development is permitted. David A. Young and Caster Mobilehome Corp. have both applied for mobile home parks on the boulevard, but members agreed the street is already overloaded. Members also questioned whether Corona Road can handle traffic from the Young park as proposed.

The board also found that plans by J. W. Combs for 12 houses on Cherry Street would create serious traffic problems. Young and Fire Chief Joseph Ellwood said the street would be inadequate for emergency vehicles.

The application of Camille Enterprises for 51 townhouses on Keokuk Street near Magnolia Avenue also brought questions when Young pointed out that plans ignore plan lines for the extension of Liberty Street through the property.

ALL IN THE DAY'S WORK

Youngsters in Room 3 at Homestead Valley School are enthralled by the mask that turns Fire Inspector Brent Schacherc into a goggle-eyed monster. What was a break in the routine yesterday in teacher Sue Chow's classroom was very much in the day's work for Schacherc in the Tamalpais Fire Protection District. It's part of the district's effort to promote safety in the home. And the pupils don't just sit and watch. They draw floorplans of their homes, noting the escape routes from each bedroom.

Improvements On Bellam Boulevard Being Sought

The East San Rafael Task Force, an arm of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, yesterday agreed to press state and city officials for improvements to Bellam Boulevard as soon as possible.

The street, two lanes between the highway interchange and Jacoby Street, is heavily overcrowded and lacks curbs and gutters on one side, it was reported.

The state owns the street, a fact which state officials apparently forgot for a period of time, according to Ely Caillouette Jr., San Rafael city engineer.

After a hearing a report from Herman Dietch, chairman of a subcommittee studying traffic problems, the task force, composed of businessmen and property owners in the East San Rafael area, agreed to try to get the state to act.

The group wants to have the state first widen and make other improvements to the street and then deed it to the city.

Caillouette said city officials agreed that Bellam Boulevard improvement was the most necessary street project in East San Rafael and city council blessing to the project would be easiest to get.

But, he said, "the problem is getting the state to act — getting the funds."

Mario Ghilotti, chairman of the task force, pointed out that new highspeed off and on-ramps to Highway 17 would also ease traffic problems in East San Rafael but not much hope was given for such a project in the near future.

Two representatives of the Postal Service, Robert Kinser, and industrial engineer, and San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy, said the post office plans to stay in its present location on Bellam Boulevard.

They agreed that traffic problems on the street are due to it being the only connector between East and West San Rafael for a 3.2-mile strip.

"The street carries 18,000 cars a day — and most of them don't come to the post office," Cassidy said.

The task force agreed to make recommendations to the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce and then go to the city council if backing is received from the chamber.

Forest Smog Damage Found

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A state forestry advisory group says heavy smog damage to forests has been discovered for the first time in the lower San Joaquin valley.

The smog damage was disclosed by members of the California Forest Pest Control Action Council, the state Forestry Board's advisory group on such problems, during a council meeting this week.

The foresters reported heavy pollution damage was found for the first time this year in the lower San Joaquin Valley, particularly on the San Emigdio Mountain in Kern County.

Preparatory Talks Set On Cutting Back East-West Arms

BONN (UPI) —The Western allies have invited the Soviet Union and its allies to begin preparatory talks on East-West arms cuts in Europe Jan. 31, 1973, Foreign Minister Walter Scheel said today.

Scheel said the invitations were sent out Wednesday and today in a joint note by the United States, Britain, Canada, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

He said they were handed to the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary.

In addition, Scheel said, West Germany sent a separate invitation to Communist East Germany.

He said the site for the talks has not yet been decided but that it probably will be in Switzerland.

Scheel said France was not among the countries that sent out the invitation because she ceased several years ago taking part in the military side of the North Atlantic Treaty (NATO) alliance.

In a statement read out to a news conference, Scheel said, "Thus for the first time an attempt will be made through negotiations to block and reduce, step by step, the military confrontation on our continent. It is in the interest of all to achieve greater security at less cost."

Scheel explained that the proposed talks on mutual and balanced arms and troop cuts in central Europe would take place parallel with and at the same time as negotiations on European security opens in Helsinki Nov. 22.

Scheel said other NATO member countries will be kept continuously informed and consulted about progress of arms cuts talks.

He said this will involve particulary NATO member countries on the northern and southern flanks in Europe, such as Norway, Denmark, Greece and Turkey.

"These countries," he said, "are particularly interested because of the fear that thinning out of troops and arms in the center could lead to stronger pressure on the flanks. This is something that must be avoided at all costs."

In London, U.S. Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., leader of the U.S delegation to the North Atlantic Assembly, said he did not believe there would be any marked change in U.S. arms policy during President Nixon's second term.

Sparkman flew to London today leading a delegation of 13 senators to the Assembly, the parliament of NATO, which will be held in Bonn.

Newsmen at the airport asked if he could foresee any changes in U.S. arms policy.

"No, I don't think so," Sparkman replied. "There has been a strong tendency for several years among some members of the Senate for a reduction of U.S. armed forces in Europe. We have successfully resisted that so far."

Heroic Trucker Was Not Fired, Manager Says

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The manager of a Bay Area trucking firm says Phil L. Michael, who overturned his truck to avoid hitting pedestrians, was not fired and has a check waiting for him.

Michael said Wednesday he had been fired from the American Transport System for "lack of attention."

But Thursday manager Vic Suglil said Michael's reports of being fired were untrue. Suglil said he told Michael, 30, of Fremont he had "made a mistake."

Michael flipped his rig on its side during rush hour last Thursday rather than risk an accident. He and police said the truck's defective brakes caused the potentially disastrous accident.

Not so, said Suglil. He said the truck was in good mechanical condition and the accident was due to Michael's incompetence.

Concrete Pads Proposed To Halt Tower's Leaning

By DAVID F. SALISBURY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

BOSTON — Can the "lean" in the Leaning Tower of Pisa be stopped from going too far?

"Yes," says an aerospace engineer from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Yao Tzu Li, who considers the problem similar to designing an airplane or sending a spacecraft to the moon.

"It is a problem," Li said, "of instability, like an aircraft with one set of wings. You need the stabilizers on the tail to keep it under control."

Concern in Pisa for the fate of "Torre Pendente," as the Italians call the tower, has a sense of urgency these days. Italian public works officials recently carried out an emergency inspection and are reported to be drafting a request to parliament for measures to safeguard the increasingly leaning tower.

Aircraft are banned from Pisan skies; the seven-bell carillon has been silenced. Local authorities are afraid the slightest disturbance may send the 14,000 tons of ancient marble crashing to the ground.

After seven centuries, the Leaning Tower has tilted over 17 feet from the vertical. Recently reports have come from Pisa that it is now toppling at twice its previous rate, about two millimeters a year, instead of one.

Basically, what Li has proposed is placing a ring of concrete pads around the base of the tower, underground. These pads would be linked to the tower's original foundation by tensile steel and cable trusses.

The pads, Li claims, would redistribute the pressure so it more directly supports the weight of the building. This should drastically cut down the rate of tilting, he believes.

As it is now, the farther the tower leans, the greater the force that causes it to lean, and the more it leans every year.

Li's design adds more area to the foundation in the direction of the overhang. And the pads would be adjustable. Every 40 or 50 years the "Torre Pendente" could be cranked back to the desired angle in preparation for another half century of sedate decline, the professor says.

Christian Science Monitor sketch by Gene Langley

"It's like sending a capsule to the moon," Li explains. "No matter how perfect the launch, the capsule will eventually drift off course so we correct it maybe two, three times in the journey. Similarly you must correct the tower's position."

During the construction, a movable support, closely resembling the gantry that stands beside an Apollo moon rocket before launching at Cape Kennedy, would be placed under the tower to give additional support.

One more similarity to the space program in this whole affair is Russian-American competition.

David Malkov, Moscow engineer, proposes to bore three holes in the foundation and insert three steel boomerangs that would come together inside the building. These would attach to the walls through a metal ring. With its base sunk in underground concrete foundations some 50 feet away, this bent metal tripod is designed to keep the tower at its present inclination.

Li argues against this, citing a number of potential problems: boring large holes in the foundation might weaken the structure, because of their bent shape, the legs of the tripod would have to be extra thick to carry the load; it would be very difficult to assemble.

Some years ago the Italians set up a Committee for Vigilance for the Stability of the Bell Tower of Pisa. It has offered a $10,000 reward for the most practical idea to save the towr. It has received, considered and filed over 3,000 possible solutions.

Peking-Moscow Rift Continues; China Ties To U.S., Japan Better

By HENRY S. HAYWARD
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

HONG KONG — Sino-Soviet-relations continue to deteriorate in the wake of Peking's improved relations with the United States and Japan.

What has struck some expert observers is that the People's Republic of China has not taken advantage of its new relationship with Tokyo and Washington to moderate its stand vis-a-vis the Soviet Union — and arrange a settlement of their outstanding differences.

Some circles had expected that once Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai had removed or at least moderated what he rightly or wrongly regarded as threats to his country from Pacific Ocean nations, he would feel strong enough to turn a more conciliatory face toward Moscow on his Asian mainland side.

Such has not been the case, according to present indications. The Sino-Soviet rift has intensified instead of moderating in recent months.

The impression is that Chou has preferred to use his improved situation with respect to the two "western" powers to step up the shrillness of Peking's verbal blasts against the Russians.

On its part, the Soviet Union has returned the messages in kind.

The lengthy border talks between the two major Communist powers still are described as having gotten "absolutely nowhere." Both sides, meanwhile, are believed to get more touchy about the border situation in wintertime, when frozen rivers make raids across the frontiers easier to launch and harder to stop.

Peking, moreover, has recently emphasized its deep air-raid shelter program — for two reasons.

One is to show it has already taken precautionary measures against a possible Soviet attack, including steps to protect its teeming population.

Another is to demonstrate to the 800 million Chinese — and also the outside world — how seriously it regards the threat of such an attack.

The Russians are known to be beefing up their forces on the China border, and the Chinese are presumed to be responding in kind.

One reason for the publicized releasing of the People's Liberation Army from the management of so many Chinese factories and businesses (jobs the army had assumed in the wake of the "cultural revolution" turmoil) is to permit the military to concentrate more single-mindedly on its primary task of opposing potential Soviet thrusts.

The Sino-Soviet confrontation also helps explain why the Chinese are opposed to American military withdrawal from Europe — and have been quietly putting out word to this effect to their friends.

Peking's reasoning is that any American troop withdrawals ease the pressure on Soviet forces in Europe, and thereby indirectly release more Soviet divisions for confrontation with China in Asia.

Moreover, aside from Vietnam, the Chinese have not been particularly virulent lately in their demands for further American withdrawals from Asia.

"It's almost as if they regard such U.S. forces as a deterrent against sme future Russian attack on themselves," a local China watcher pointed out.

$5 Million Suit By Labor Group

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) —A Chinese-American labor relations group, charging that 25 full-armed narcotics agents burst into its recent convention, sued the federal government for more than $5 million Wednesday.

The Ying On Merchants Labor Association said the agents crashed into its triannual meeting Oct. 23 in Bakersfield and forced some conventioneers against the wall to search them.

"They found no illegal activities, no arrests were made and no apologies were given," the suit said. The association asked $15,000 damages for the disruption, $1,000 in property damages and $5 million interference with advantageous non-contractural business relations.

New Labor Law Aide Named

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has named state rehabilitation Director Robert E. Howard as chief of the state Division of Labor Law Enforcement.

Howard, 52, a Republican, succeeds former Assemblyman George Milias.

Howard, who lives in Carmichael, has headed the Rehabilitation Department since April 1967. Before entering state service he was budget director for Los Angeles County. His appointment is effective Dec. 1.

Eight-Day Suspension

Theodore C. Lindquist, a San Rafael policeman charged with having himself signed into a class he didn't attend, was suspended from duty for eight working days, and not 30 days as reported in Monday's Independent-Journal, according to Chief Joseph J. Brusatori.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Wires and words made today's birthday celebrants famous as they used the newspaper press or radio waves to achieve their popularity.

1. ARTHUR KROCK, longtime New York "Times" columnist, will be 85 today. Now recovering from surgery he hopes to be up soon. He began reporting from the nation's capital in 1910, won two Pulitzer prizes and declined a third. Is it true he published a new book as recently as last year?

2. FIBBER McGEE, network radio comedian, reaches 76 today. During the 1930s and 40s, he and his wife Molly amused NBC audiences with their antics every Tuesday night, chatting with Mayor La Trivia, Wallace Wimple, and Throckmorton P. Gildersleeve. Molly always said, "T'ain't funny, McGee." In real life they were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jordan. Remember their radio address: 79 Wistful Vista, 10 Downing Street, or 77 Sunset Strip?

3. MARY MARGARET McBRIDE, 73 today, delighted New York radio audiences in 1934 with her ability to attract and interview top celebrities. Soon she was heard coast-to-coast on CBS, next NBC, and finally ABC. Now retired in West Shokan, New York, would you believe Mary Margaret lives in a remodeled barn. Yes? No?

4. CHARLES DAVID HERROLD (1875-1948), inventor and teacher, was born Nov. 16, in Fulton, Ilinois. After his parents moved to San Jose, Calif., he attended Stanford University, where he was inspired by a physics professor to experiment with wireless. He began broadcasting voice and music in 1909 and established the world's first radio station. Is it today KCBS, KDKA, or WWJ?

ANSWERS: 1 - True; 2 - 79 Wistful Vista; 3 - Yes; 4 - KCBS.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

Sometimes The Problem Is Whether To Take The Finesse

When you have a suit headed by the K-J, your normal play is to lead the suit from the other hand and then choose whether to play the king or the jack. Sometimes, however, your problem is not which finesse to take but whether to take a finesse at all.

UNSAFE ACTION

After declarer had won the first trick with dummy's ace of spades, he saw that an immediate diamond finesse would be unsafe. West would take his two diamond tricks and lead a third diamond for East to ruff. East would eventually get the setting trick in clubs.

South prudently drew three rounds of trumps. Now he was tempted to lead a club to dummy in order to try the diamond finesse. This would let the enemy take two clubs and two diamonds.

South saw this danger. After drawing three rounds of trumps, he immediately led a low diamond from his hand.

West played low, and dummy won with the eight. Another diamond lost to West's queen.

CONTRACT SAFE

Now the contract was safe. If West returned a spade, South could ruff and knock out the ace of diamonds. He could then ruff another spade and discard a club from dummy on his own fourth diamond. This would leave only one club loser in the dummy.

Actually, West led a club through dummy, a better defense. South played low from the dummy, and East won with the queen. East returned a spade, and South ruffed.

A FORCE OUT

Now South forced out the ace of diamonds. He won the club return with dummy's ace, ruffed a spade and cashed a good diamond to get rid of dummy's last club.

It was perfectly safe to give up two diamond tricks, but no other line of play was safe.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one heart, and the next player bids one spade.

♠ - 8 7 5 3
♥ - 10 6 2
♦ - 6 3
♣ - K Q 9 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

You would prefer to have better heart support, but 10-x-x is adequate trump support in a pinch. You have five points in high cards and one point for the doubleton, just enough for a response to the opening bid.

THE OUTLOOK: RAIN, RAIN

During the next 30 days — through mid-December — residents of Marin can expect above normal rainfall with above average temperatures, according to information supplied by the National Weather Service. During the same period last year San Rafael had one of its wettest periods of the entire season. On Nov. 26, 1.33 inches of rain was measured and during the first 15 days of December, rain was recorded on nine of those days.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Prostate Gland Located At The Outlet Of The Urinary Bladder

The prostate gland is located at the outlet of the urinary bladder where it surrounds the tube leading to the outside (uretha). When it enlarges, the structure presses upon the urethra leading to difficult urination. The gland also is an accessory part of man's sexual apparatus in that it produces most of the lubricating fluid to transport spermatozoa during ejaculation.

In childhood, the prostate is not much larger than an eraser on a lead pencil. Itbegins to enlarge at puberty and attains the size and shape of a horse chestnut. During the early years of man's life, it seldom causes trouble except for becoming infected (prostatitis). This is understandable due to its proximity to the bladder and urethra. Under these circumstances, it may enlarge and become tender to the touch.

FEVER, LOW backache, and painful and difficult urination may ensue. Penicillin and the sulfa drugs usually bring the inflammation under control.

Benign enlargement is the most common problem associated with the prostate. The symptom develops in one of 10 men who reach age 40. By age 80, one of every two men is affected. In other words, after 50, men become more interested in the prostate because they are hearing more about it from their friends. Dr. Henry Weyrauch begins his book, "Life After Fifty, The Prostatic Age" (Ward Ritchie Press, Los Angeles) with an anonymous quotation: "A man spends the first 50 years of his life trying to make money — the rest of his life trying to make water."

THE BAD NEWS about enlargment of the gland is that there are no medicines, diets, hormones, or mechanical devices to reduce its size. There are several surgical procedures for the purpose, all of which are acceptable. Don't 'doctor' yourself and there is no advantage in procrastination. The good news is that only a small percentage with benign enlargement need treatment. The decision to operate depends upon the symptoms and the physician's findings during the examination.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

MASTOID INFECTION

A reader writes: What is done for chronic mastoiditis?

REPLY

If the antibiotics cannot eliminate the infection, surgery is advised. The success of the drug treatment depends upon pitting the right antibiotic against the causative bacteria. Microsurgery has greatly improved the outlook, especially when other parts of the inner ear are involved.

CAN'T EAT MEAT

REPLY

No. I assume you mean that meat causes indigestion, heartburn, or nausea. Victims of peptic ulcer complain occasionally that meat brings on distress, possibly because it increases the acid content. Acid usually is lacking in victims of cancer of the stomach.

ULTRASOUND FOR KIDNEYS

L. D. writes: Is ultrasound therapy effecitve in kidney stones?

REPLY

Ultrasound may be capable of breaking up a kidney stone. However, it is not practical, because the machine must be held close to the target and might damage other structures.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Thursday, Nov. 16, the 321st day of 1972 with 45 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

Famed American Negro composer W. C. Handy, known as the "Father of the Blues," was born Nov. 16, 1873.

On this day in history:

In 1907, Oklahoma became the 46th state to enter the Union.

In 1933, the United States and the Soviet Union established diplomatic relations.

In 1966, Dr. Sam Sheppard was acquitted of the 1954 slaying of his wife. He had served more than 10 years on the original conviction.

In 1968, the Soviet Union orbited a 17-ton scientific satellite.

A thought for the day: Scottish novelist Robert Louis Stevenson said, "Mankind was never so happily inspired as when it made a cathedral."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Two Bound Over To High Court On Pot Charge

Two Tiburon men arrested after police saw what they thought was marijuana growing in a yard have been bound over to Marin Superior Court.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Municipal Court ordered Dennis Earle Roberts, 31, and Randall N. Tower, 28, to appear Nov. 29 on felony counts of growing and possessing pot.

Acting on an anonymous tip about marijuana in a yard at 24 Reed Ranch Road, Tiburon police obtained a search warrant and arrested the two men at the house Sept. 14. About 20 plants were found, police said.

Mrs. Eisenhower's Birthday Observed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There was one candle inscribed "happy birthday" on the white cake at the delayed birthday party for Mamie Eisenhower at the White House.

The party, held Wednesday night in the White House's family suite, was described as an "intimate dinner," following the wishes of President Eisenhower's widow that there be no big celebration. Mrs. Eisenhower marked her 76th birthday Tuesday. Pat Nixon was the hostess and the only other guest was Julie Eisenhower.

Painter Presents Drawing To Pope

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Nicanor Pinole, a 95-year-old painter, came to Rome because he wanted to see the Pope before he died. During his general audience Wednesday, Pope Paul VI singled out the Spanish painter.

At first, Pinole looked stunned. But, quickly, he whipped out a sketchbook, signed one of the drawings and presented it to the Pope.

Food Firms Running Dirty Plants Named

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The names of 33 firms cited in a General Accounting Office (GAO) report on food plants operating under "insanitary conditions" were released Wednesday by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis.

On the list were such well-known firms as Coca Cola and Pepsi Cola bottling plants, Thomas J. Lipton, Inc., American Bakeries, the Levitt Corp. and Lilly Ice Cream.

The report said that GAO and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) jointly inspected 97 firms and that 39 were found to be operating "in insanitary conditions."

Of the 39 a total of 23 were "operating under serious insanitary conditions having potential for causing or already having caused product contamination," the GAO report said.

Aspin said the list he requested from the GAO included American, Levitt, Lilly and a Coca Cola Bottling plant at Chillicothe, Mo., as operating in the serious category.

Lipton, another Coca Cola plant and a Pepsi Cola manufacturing outlet were on the list of 16, Aspin said.

"These firms are guilty of consciously manufacturing food under insanitary conditions and consumers should beware of their products," Aspin said in a statement accompanying the list.

"Some of these firms are very small operations, but others, like Coca Cola and Lipton Tea are corporate giants who are peddling goods produced in filthy and sometimes dangerous conditions."

Aspin suggested the GAO "immediately reinspect" the plants to be certain they don't "continue to violate the law and manufacture goods in insanitary conditions."

He said, "It's high time the giants like Lipton Tea and Coca Cola cleaned up their plants and started selling products which the public can trust."

Included on the 23 firms on the "serious list" were Anchor Sea Food Corp. of Los Angeles; Reedsport Creamery and Cheese Co. of Reedsport, Ore.; RJR Food, Inc., of Fullerton, Calif.; Snowflake Bakery, Inc., of San Diego, Calif.; and U.S. Macaroni Manufacturing Co. of Spokane, Wash.

The remaining 16 included: Lapious Popcorn Co. of Los Angeles; Seaport Fish Co. Division of Whitney-Fidalgo of Seattle, Wash.; and Togiak Fisheries, Inc., of Togiak, Wash.

Drunken Driving Charge Brings No Contest Plea

An Air Force staff sergeant from Hamilton Air Force Base pleaded no contest yesterday to a felony drunken driving charge in connection with an auto accident near Novato Sept. 23.

After Andrew Leonard Sarabyn entered the plea in Marin Municipal Court, Judge Robert A. Smallman ordered him to appear in Superior Court Dec. 4 to arrange a sentencing date.

Sarabyn was arrested following a two-car collision in which the other driver suffered serious head injuries and broken bones.

Heart Transplant Patient Succumbs

MONTREAL (UPI) —John Parkinson, the world's second-longest surviving heart transplant patient, died in Royal Victoria Hospital Wednesday more than four years after he underwent the operation.

Hospital officials said death resulted from thrombosis, or a narrowing of the arteries, which cut-off the blood supply to the body.

AN ORDINANCE APPROVING AND ADOPTING THE CENTRAL SAN RAFAEL REDEVELOPMENT PLAN AND MAKING CERTAIN FINDINGS AND DETERMINATIONS PURSUANT TO THE COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT LAW OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

WHEREAS, the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency (hereinafter "the Agency") has made studies of the location, physical condition of structures, environmental influences, land use and social, cultural and economic conditions of that certain area within the City of San Rafael more particularly described on the attached Exhibit 1 and hereafter referred to as the "Project Area", and has determined that the Project Area is a blighted area and that it is detrimental to the safety, health and welfare of the inhabitants and users thereof and of the City of San Rafael at large because of:

1. Age, obsolescence, deterioration, dilapidation, mixed character or shifting of uses.

2. Economic dislocation, deterioration or disuse, resulting from faulty planning.

3. The existence of inadequate streets, open-spaces and utilities.

4. In some parts of the Project Area, a growing or total lack of utilization of areas, resulting in a stagnant and unproductive condition of land potentially useful and valuable for contributing to the public health, safety and welfare.

5. The perpetuation of obsolescence, deterioration and disuse because of the lack of incentive to the individual landowner and his ability to improve, modernize, or rehabilitate his property while the condition of the neighboring properties remains unchanged.

6. In some parts of the Project Area the private assembly of the land in blighted areas for redevelopment is so difficult and costly that it is uneconomic and as practical matter impossible for owners to undertake because of lack of the legal power and excessive costs.

7. In some parts of the Project Area, the ineffective, uneconomic and unproductive use of land due to the existence of lots of inappropriate size or placement or inappropriate access to vehicular traffic, pedestrian traffic or utilities necessary to allow private development.

8. In some parts of the Area, visual blight from billboards, commercial signs, and existing overhead utility systems and other misuses.

9. In some parts of the Area, traffic congestion and its attending noise and pollution due to inadequate street facilities, street layout and off-street parking.

10. In parts of the Project Area, a loss of commercial population.

11. The subdividing and sale of lots of irregular form and shape and inadequate size for proper usefulness and development.

12. In other parts of the Project Area, a loss of population and reduction of proper utilization of the Area, resulting in its further deterioration and added costs to the taxpayer for the creation of new public facilities and services elsewhere.

and the members of the City Council of the City of San Rafael have been fully apprised by the Agency and are aware of said facts and conditions; and

WHEREAS, there has been prepared and referred to the City Council of the City of San Rafael (herein called the "City Council") for review and approval the proposed Central San Rafael Redevelopment Project Plan; and

WHEREAS, the San Rafael Planning Commission which is the duly designated and acting official planning body for the City of San Rafael, has submitted to the Council its report and recommendations respecting the Plan and has certified that the Plan conforms to the aforesaid General Plan for the City of San Rafael as a whole, and the City Council has duly considered said report, recommendations and certifications of said Commission; and

WHEREAS, the City Council has incorporated the recommendations of the Planning Commission into the Central San Rafael Redevelopment Plan (hereinafter called "the Plan", which term is intended to include "Redevelopment Plan" within the meaning of the California Community Redevelopment Law as well as intended to mean the proposed Central San Rafael Redevelopment Plan including the changes recommended by the San Rafael Planning Commission) for the Project Area more particularly described in said Plan, and on the attached Exhibit A, dated November 6, 1972, and consisting of 31 pages and 2 exhibits which is incorporated herein by reference and on file with the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency; and

WHEREAS, a General Plan has been prepared and recognized and used as a guide for the general development of the City of San Rafael as a whole; and

WHEREAS, said Plan for the Area prescribes certain land uses for the Area and may require, among other things, changes in zoning, the vacating and removal of streets, alleys and other public rights of way, the establishment of new street patterns, the location and relocation of sewers, water mains, lighting and utility lines and other public facilities, the construction or addition of public buildings, parks and other public action; and

WHEREAS, the Agency has prepared and submitted to the Council a program for the relocation of individuals and families that may be displaced as a result of carrying out the Plan; and

WHEREAS, the members of the City Council have general knowledge of the conditions prevailing in the Project Area and of the availability of proper housing in the locality for the relocation of individuals and families that may be displaced by the Plan and in light of such knowledge of local housing conditions, have carefully considered and reviewed such proposals for relocation; and

WHEREAS, the City Council is cognizant of the conditions that are imposed in the undertaking and carrying out of Redevelopment Projects under State law, including those requiring suitable replacement housing for those people, if any, displaced by the implementation of the Plan, and the prohibiting of discrimination because of race, color, creed, or national origin; and

WHEREAS, the Agency has prepared and submitted to the City Council an environmental impact report on the Plan and said report has been reviewed and approved by the San Rafael Planning Commission.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SAN RAFAEL DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

DIVISION 1. That it is hereby found and determined that the Central San Rafael Redevelopment Project Area is a blighted area, the redevelopment of which is necessary to effectuate the public purposes declared in, and that it qualifies as an eligible area under the Community Redevelopment Law, California Health and Safety Code, Sections 33000 et seq.

DIVISION 2. That the Central San Rafael Redevelopment Project Plan for the Project Area, having been duly reviewed and considered is hereby approved and adopted, and the City Clerk be and is hereby directed to file a copy of said Plan with the minutes of this meeting; that said Plan is incorporated herein by reference; that said Plan is hereby designated as the official Redevelopment Plan for said Project Area; and that it is the purpose and intent of this Council that said Redevelopment Plan be carried out in the Project Area.

DIVISION 3. That it is hereby found and determined that said Redevelopment Plan for the Project Area conforms to said General Plan of the City of San Rafael.

DIVISION 4. That it is hereby found and determined that the Redevelopment Plan would redevelop the Project Area in conformity with the California Community Redevelopment Law, California Health and Safety Code, Sections 33000 et seq., and would be in the interest of the public peace, health, safety and welfare and that the carrying out of the Redevelopment Plan would promote public peace, health, safety and welfare of the City of San Rafael and would effectuate the purposes and policy of the California Community Redevelopment Law.

DIVISION 5. That it is hereby found and determined that the adoption and carrying out of the Redevelopment Plan is economically sound and feasible.

DIVISION 6. That it is hereby found and determined that said Redevelopment Plan for the Project Area will afford maximum opportunity, consistent with the sound needs of the City of San Rafael as a whole, for the redevelopment of said Area by private enterprise.

DIVISION 7. That it is hereby found and determined that the Plan and the program for the proper relocation of individuals and families displaced in carrying out the Redevelopment Plan in decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings in comformity with acceptable standards are feasible and can be reasonably and timely effected to permit the proper prosecution and completion of the Plan; and that such dwellings or dwelling units available or to be made available to such displaced individuals and families are at least equal in number to the number of displaced individuals and families, are not generally less desirable in regard to public utilities and public and commercial facilities than the dwellings of the displaced individuals and families in the Redevelopment Area within the program, are available at rents or prices within the financial means of the displaced individuals and families, and are reasonably accessible to their places of employment.

DIVISION 8. That it is hereby found and determined that permanent housing facilities will be made available for those individuals and families permanently displaced from said Project Area within three years from the time such occupants are displaced and that pending the development of such facilities there will be available to such displaced occupants adequate temporary housing facilities at rents comparable to those in the community at the time of their displacement.

DIVISION 9. That in order to implement and facilitate the effectuation of the Redevelopment Plan hereby approved and adopted, it is found and determined that certain official action must be taken by this Council with reference,

Superior Court To Hear Stolen Property Case

An 18-year-old Mill Valley resident has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of concealing stolen property: namely, guns police found hidden in woods near a burglarized home.

Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas ordered Kevin Patrick Quinn to appear Nov. 29.

Quinn and Thomas Kevin Lester, 19, also of Mill Valley, were arrested June 19 by Mill Valley police after they staked out a collection of weapons taken earlier in the day from the Andrew Goddard home on Del Casa Drive.

Lester and Quinn were arrested when they arrived at the cache, police said.

Lester pleaded guilty to concealing stolen property and received 30 days in jail last week.

Eternal City Is A Noisy One

By HILMI TOROS

ROME (AP) — Rome is becoming a city of eternal noise — even on Sunday, supposedly the day of peace.

Last Sunday hordes of sports fans swept through the streets in a horn-honking, trumpet-blaring outing to the Olympic Stadium for a soccer match. Once there, about 90,000 of them shrieked. Firecrackers exploded every minute.

Outside, in expresso bars and even in serene parks, radios were at full blast for details of the game, delighting fans and annoying others.

Noise in Rome is not an affliction only of soccer fans and on Sundays. Every Roman seems to contribute to it inone way or another.

"Noise pollution is ruining us," Momento Sera, a Rome daily, wrote recently.

Romans are not in the habit of keeping the volume of their radios and television set an iota less than the maximum, at home, on the beach or in the car, the paper complained.

Their conversations in most neighborhood "trattoria" — small restaurants — seem like horrendous quarrels. At home and in public, many a mamma screams at children for no reason, so it seems.

Speakers at political and labor rallies — they are endless in Italy — shout as if the louder they are the moreconvincing they will be.

Youngsters who scoot around town on their motorcycles usually have the machine stripped of its muffler and rigged with special gadget to make more noise.

The biggest modern-day noise pollutants in Rome are the motorists, suffering from what Roman writer Giorgio Capuano calls "claxon mania," horn-honking.

Horn-honking is illegal in cities but the law goes unenforced in view of the mass violation.

A Roman jurist, Paolo Emilio Quaranta, has formed a citizens' group to fight horn-honking and other noise in the capital.

He admits the fight is uphill but his volunteer organization has started a noisy publicity campaign for some peace in Rome.

The group hopes to get the point across to legislators for a law that would impose criminal penalties for noise pollution as Italina law now does for air and water pollution.

Until then the only oasis of peace for Romans is still the countryside, but they have to honk their way to get there and back.

San Rafael Goldenaires Elect New Officers

Newly elected officers are Adele Liebert, president; Emma Koepke, first vice-president; Elsie Mazzini, second vice-president; Zelda Dolan, recording secretary; Stanley Shaeffer, corresponding secretary; and Jack Roberts, treasurer.

Contrary to previous erroneous reports in the Independent-Journal, the Goldenaires will not be mergine with the county senior citizens group. They will use the county group's meeting place, The Whistle Stop in San Rafael, until a permanent location can be found.

Their current meeting place, the San Rafael Recreation Center, will no longer be available because of development at Courthouse Square.

During the course of the meeting, James Koerlin and Bill Gillmore from "Pioneers," an organization within the Bell Telephone System, described what the public service organization does for senior citizens, young people and others.

Two Teams With Just One Thing In Common—A Title

By LEW CODDINGTON

Redwood High School spent the season reaping the fruits planted two years ago, while Terra Linda was still hoeing and watering at midyear, but ultimately each harvested the same crop — the co-championship of Marin County Athletic League football.

Each team won its final game Saturday to finish the MCAL season at 5-1. There are absolutely no other similarities — in fact, it would be hard to imagine two teams being any more different.

Terra Linda is a good working model of a dynasty, with six titles in seven years. Redwood, on the other hand, had not won since 1962, and two seasons ago had an abysmal 1-8 record.

This year, however, Redwood reversed that record to 8-1, while Terra Linda's overall log was 5-4. Ironically, however, it was Terra Linda which won the berth in Saturday's Top of the Bay Bowl.

"We had only five seniors on that 1-8 team," recalled Redwood coach Phil Roark. It was his first season, and it was a nightmare. "We played a lot of sophomores that year," he added.

Those sophomores are seniors now, and they learned a lot during the trying times. The Giants improved to 5-4 last year and 8-1 this season, and among their victories this year were lopsided triumphs like 48-6, 41-0, 35-12 and 33-13.

"Those guys have matured — that's the whole thing," said Roark. Fourteen of the Giants' 31 players started as sophomores; 12 of them are starters now, and many are outright stars, like Mike Connor, Daryl Edralin, Bob Fulton, Scott Cochrane, Katsumi Johnson, Ken Massucco and Matt Gondak.

Last year, Roark installed a Wishbone-T offense. "It's not an easy one to teach," he said, "but having it two years is an advantage." Last year, the Giants had a fine ball-handling quarterback, Bob Brown; this season, their ball-handler, John Troppmann, cal also throw.

The backfield has been Roark's pride and joy all year — Troppmann, Connor, Edralin, and either Edralin's brother Bill or Ron Small have started. The depth is so outstanding that Frank Giorgi, who rushed for 117 yards in one game, ended up on defense after suffering an injury.

The balanced offense and a tough defense enabled Redwood to defeat every foe but one. Unfortunately for the Giants, that one was Terra Linda, which won a 19-6 game in the mud Oct. 14.

The Trojans had 22 lettermen back from a 6-3 team and were among the pre-season favorites, but disaster struck. By Oct. 1 they had an 0-3 record, a loss to contender Novato, and undefeated foes San Marin and Redwood next on the schedule.

"At that point, all we were worried about was stopping the skid," said coach Don Lucas. "No, I didn't think we would win the championship."

Terra Linda had installed a Wishbone, too, but it was struggling. "I tell you, we were having second thoughts about it, but we were committed to it," Lucas said. "The only time we considered changing was for the Monta Vista game (Oct. 28), but even then, we stuck with it.

Lucas did change quarterbacks, giving the job to Kevin Kirby midway through the San Marin game because of his passing ability. Kirby then faced rain or mud in three of his four league starts, so the Trojans ended up getting most of their yardage on the ground anyway.

The running attack didn't begin to function at anything near the desired effectiveness until the last two games, when Lucas

Big Ben's Polite Side Shows At Novato Event

Contrary to belief, Ben Davidson is a gentle, polite very funny man . . . at least when he is dressed in a business suit standing in front of an audience of men, women and children. When he is wearing silver pants, a black shirt with the number 83 plastered on front and back, and a helmet, he might not be so polite.

Some 300 persons saw him in his gentle role last night when the members of Novato High School's varsity and junior varsity football teams were honored by the Hornets Booster Club with a dinner in the school's cafeteria.

Davidson, a starting defensive end for the Oakland Raiders before an achilles tendon injury during the exhibition season put him on the shelf, was last night's guest speaker and kept them laughing. After watching all the trophies being passed out to players and coaches he cracked, "I remember when we played high school ball all we got were little old block letters. We had to help some of the players read them."

But that would have been in basketball, because Davidson, no midget at 6-foot-8 and 280 pounds, played no football in high school while he was growing (and I mean growing) up in the Los Angeles area. A league rule said a boy could play only one major sport a semester and he chose basketball "because I knew I was big enough to play football any time I wanted."

He played junior college football before winning himself a scholarship to University of Washington where he hardly distinguished himself. Heck, he never got past second string status.

He was drafted fourth by the New York Giants in 1961 and stayed there three weeks, "just long enough to pose for a team picture," before being traded to the Green Bay Packers. The next year he was traded to the Washington Redskins and in 1964 was released. The Raiders' Al Davis, general manager, gave him a chance after the 'Skins dropped him and he was a starter ever since.

"Up until then, in seven years of football I was a starter just one year," said Davidson. I think he was telling all the kids who didn't win trophies to stick with it and not give up.

Big Ben said "the vacation's been nice" since his injury but he's not fooling anyone. He's itching to get back to the field and said if the Raiders make the playoffs there is a chance he would be activated and used at defensive tackle rather than defensive end where he has been playing since his arrival in Oakland as a free agent in 1964.

After telling a few jokes about the world of pro football, Ben answered a few questions from the prep footballers, including one on how it was to play football with George Blanda, the grizzled 45-year-old. "He's just like your father," said Davidson. "They have to get him out of the house every Saturday night and get him ready for Sunday."

QUICK SHOTS: Congratulations to Marin Catholic High School's girls for winning their second straight Marin County Athletic League swimming title. Without a pool of their own, they do their practicing at College of Marin so it took a little extra effort to earn that title . . . Warriors' New Guard Mahdi Added

OAKLAND (AP) — The Golden State Warriors, victors in 11 of their last 15 games, have added Mahdi Abdul-Rahman to their roster for tonight's game here against the Philadelphia 76ers.

Abdul-Rahman, 30, released on waivers by the Buffalo Braves one week ago, was signed as a free agent, the Warriors announced Wednesday. A guard, Abdul-Rahman is in his ninth National Basketball Association season. He was known as Walter Hazzard until he embraced the Islamic faith and changed his name July 30, 1971.

FIRST CHOICE

Abdul-Rahman was a first draft choice of the Los Angeles Lakers after starring for the UCLA team that beat Duke 98-83 for the 1964 national collegiate basketball championship.

After three seasons with the Lakers, Abdul-Rahman went to Seattle in the 1967 expansion draft and there had his best season, averaging 23.9 points and being named to the NBA All-Star team.

TO ATLANTA

After one season at Seattle he was traded to Atlanta where he played three seasons before being dealt to Buffalo. He averaged 15.8 points for the Braves last season and for nine games this fall was averaging 5.9. His NBA career average is 13.9 points a game.

Abdul-Rahman chose to sign with the Warriors, he said, "Because I feel I can make a good contribution to a team that has a chance to win the championship. And I have wanted to get back to California for a long time."

A HELPER

General Manager Bob Feerick of the Warriors said, "Abdul-Rahman will give us help in the back court."

AT TESTIMONIAL

Finley Gains His Big Moment

LA PORTE, Ind. (UPI)—It was Charlie Finley's biggest moment, like winning the World Series all over again, and not even Vida Blue wanted to ruin that for him.

So when someone asked Blue the inevitable question about his 1973 contract and the inevitable problems he probably will have before he signs it, he was ready with the quick answer.

"Why," he said, "should we spoil the evening by talking contract?"

Blue, Oakland teammates Reggie Jakcson, Joe Rudi and Gene Tenace, the World Series Most Valuable Player, Manager Dick Williams, the Indiana Governor Edward Whitcomb, and 1,500 of Finley's hometown neighbors turned out on a freezing night for a buffet testimonial dinner in a dank gymnasium to honor the colorful, maverick owner of the A's.

Most of the guests waved green-and-gold A's pennants.

But much of the attention also went to Blue, the 1971 American League MVP and Cy Young Award winner who dropped from 24 victories to six this year after a long and stormy holdout.

Just last month, Blue skipped the Series celebration party Finley threw for the team, so it ranked as something of a surprise that he showed up at this party, which was strictly Finley's night.

"We get along and respect each other," Blue said. "I think he respects me as a man, at least I hope he does, and I respect him. I don't anticipate any hassle being signed next year."

Blue, who said he was "killing two birds with one stone" because he also had to be in nearby Chicago this week on business, even had some complimentary things to say about Finley.

"Mr. Finley doesn't know my feelings about this, but he gets my vote as the executive of the year," Blue said.

Jackson, who could not play in the Series because of an injury he sustained scoring a key run in the final playoff game, said the cast was removed from his leg 10 days ago and doctors told him he would be ready to resume full activity by the start of spring training.

It was a night for the common folk, tickets priced at $2 to encourage kids to come out, and Roland Hemond, personnel director of the second-place Chicago White Sox, was the only non-Oakland baseball official in the house.

Seals Seek End To Jinx Vs. Buffalo

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — Will tomorrow night be No. 9 — or can the California Golden Seals break the jinx which saw them lose their eighth straight National Hockey League match to Detroit, 4-0?

Big Game: Getting Up Emotions

"It's a matter of pride," says the cardboard sign above the Stanford dressing room.

"It's the first team I've ever played on that has missed a championship," said Cardinals flanker Eric Cross. "We were unbeaten in two years I played at Alameda High and then the two Rose Bowls.

"Somehow we don't fire up against teams that aren't Rose Bowl contenders, but there won't be any difficulty with Cal," he added.

"This is my 20th Big Game,"

IN SUGAR BOWL

Oklahoma Returns To Face Penn State?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Oklahoma will return to defend its Sugar Bowl title New Year's Eve night against Penn State, an Eastern power making its first appearance in the Sugar Bowl classic.

The Associated Press learned of the matchup Wednesday, although it cannot be announced officially until Saturday afternoon because of National Collegiate Athletic Association rules.

Fourth-ranked Oklahoma is 7-1 for the season — the loss was to Colorado — with Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma State still ahead.

Sixth-ranked Penn State is 8-1, having won eight straight since a 28-21 loss to Tennessee in the Nittany Lions' season opener.

Oklahoma's wishbone ran wild in a 40-22 romp over Auburn in last season's Sugar Bowl while Penn State was whipping Texas 30-6 in the Cotton Bowl.

Confirmation of the Sugar Bowl match, a source close to behind-the-scene bowl negotiations told The Associated Press, makes it a virtual certainty that Nebraska will play Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl with Alabama meeting Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

SECTION TITLE

Harrier 1st By Redwood

Redwood High School's cross country team became the first Marin County entry ever to win the North Coast Section championship, outdistancing second place San Ramon High yesterday in Lafayette, 55-92.

"It was a fantastic team effort", said coach Doug Basham. "I'm very proud of them."

The Redwood harriers, considered to be contenders for the title but not favorites, surprised many, particularly by the size of the victory. The Giants beat their closest opponent by 43 points. Redwood's total of 55 points was one of the lowest scores in the history of the meet, according to Basham.

The Redwood girls also triumphed in their exhibition, 19-48, over runner-up Presentation of Oakland. Kate Keyes of Tamalpais won the girls race with a time of 9:36. Wendy Severinghaus of Redwood came in second with a time of 9:42.

In varsity action, Ned Overend came in sixth place to lead the Giants with a time of 14:47. Pete Sweeney came in eighth at 14:54, while Mike Killeen ran 14:59 for 10th, and Brian Tracy placed 18th at 15:08.

Rick Kimball of Concord's De LaSalle High won the varsity race at 14:12, a new North Coast record.

Giant Pete DeMairis, a favorite to win the frosh-soph race came up to varsity, replacing Redwood's fifth man, injured Dave Brainerd. DeMairis scored a crucial win over San Ramon's fourth man to clinch the victory.

Redwood's position in the frosh-soph meet was weakened without DeMairis, as the Giants finished in eighth place. Tamalpais came in seventh.

San Rafael High rounded out a fine day for Marin County Athletic League harriers, placing second in the freshman meet, losing to first place Portola of El Cerrito by only six points. Bulldog Brook Chestnut placed second with a time of 11:10, losing to Portola's Albert King by one second.

Petaluma High placed fourth in the varsity meet with 151 points. Trojan Dan Aldridge finished ninth.

Basham carried home a huge trophy last night. It was the third impressive championship meet win by the Giants this year, after sweeping the MCAL meet and winning the NCS Division III meet by 43 points, exactly the margin they won by yesterday.

Ralston Talks To Troubled Parish

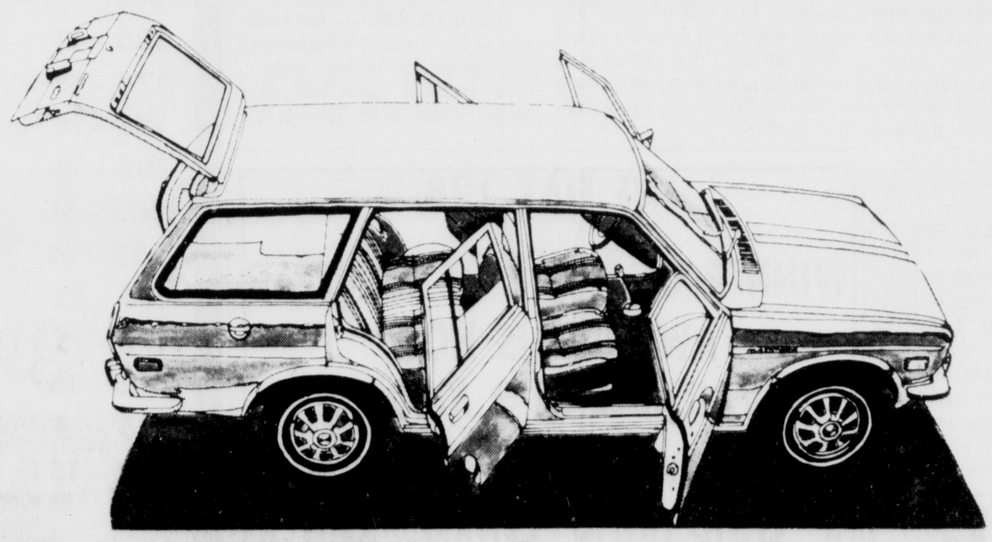

DENVER (UPI)—Linebacker Don Parish met privately Wednesday with Denver Broncos Coach John Ralston, but there was no immediate decision on whether the athlete — arrested on drug charges in Los Angeles this week—would continue to play with the team.

Ralston and Parish met twice behind closed doors, but neither would comment on what was said. A spokesman said a report on the situation would be filed with the commissioner of the National Football League.

Parish, who made his first start for the Broncos Sunday in their 16-10 upset win over the Los Angeles Rams, was arrested Monday when he tried to board a plane in California to Denver.

Officials said the former Stanford star had a small vial containing $1,170 worth of cocaine. He was charged and later freed on $1,000 bail pending a Dec. 21 hearing in Los Angeles.

Parish did not work out with the rest of the team Wednesday as it prepared for its upcoming game with the Oakland .

Less Violence At Grid Games

By LEW CODDINGTON

Violence decreased, but so did attendance, under the new crowd control procedures and scheduling policies for high school football games at San Rafael High School.

Moving games from night to day did not provide the only possible reason for an attendance drop, however. Rainy weather and struggling seasons by San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools may also have been factors.

"PUT IT THIS WAY — I was there at every game and I didn't see any violence," said Mike Diaz, athletic director at San Rafael High.

"There was absolutely no violence," said Don Lucas, head football coach and athletic director at Terra Linda. "Of course, there was no violence the year before that couldn't have been prevented, I feel."

"There was nothing major," said Dr. John F. Plank, superintendent of the San Rafael City Schools. "There were more little hassles at night, though — breaking up minor altercations, possession of alcoholic beverages, chasing students trying to get in, things like that."

OFFICIALS IN the San Rafael City Schools implemented a series of crowd control measures at the beginning of the year. They segregated the fans of the participating schools by assigning separate entrances, they erected wire fencing in certain areas of the stadium, they put up more lighting and they assigned a force of green-coated personnel to keep order.

This appears to have solved the problem, if there was one. "We're well pleased," said Plank.

The number of night games was sharply reduced as a further deterrent to violence. No Saturday night games were played during October, and no Friday night games on Oct. 6 and Oct. 20. The Terra Linda-San Rafael game, traditionally a night affair, was played Saturday afternoon, Oct. 21.

"That killed us," said Lucas. "We lost $2,000 in revenue. There were only 1,200, maybe 1,500 people in the stands. It's the worst crowd we've had at a San Rafael-Terra Linda game in 11 years. Every other time was a sellout.

"They can say all they want about San Rafael being out of the race, but they got a bigger crowd the next week when they played Novato," Lucas claimed.

Diaz said that San Rafael's season record was indeed a factor. The Bulldogs were 4-5. Terra Linda won the MCAL co-championship, but only after getting off to an 0-3 start, which would tend to dampen fan interest.

"ATTENDANCE WAS generally good on those days when we had good football weather," Diaz asserted. Rain or threat of rain prevailed from mid-October, unlike last year.

Switching the San Rafael-Terra Linda game to afternoon was done on an experimental basis, and the administrators who work out next year's schedule will have to balance the improvement of crowd control against the loss of revenue.

IT'S A FACT — The team that scored first won 18 of the 21 Marin County Athletic League football games this year.

RARE FEAT — Aided by the wind and by his teammates' habit of scoring touchdowns, Redwood kickoff man Don Nelson kicked three consecutive touchbacks in a single quarter (the first) last Saturday against Drake.

MIDDLEMAN — Caught in the middle at that game was Dan Abballo, who coached water polo and swimming last year at Redwood before being transferred to Drake, and who admitted it was hard for him to root against his allegedly fierce interdistrict rivals, many of whom he had coached.

COMPLAINT DEPT. — Coaches have been unhappy with all-league selections since the dawn of time, and it's no different this year. Among the angry is San Marin's Bob Martin, unhappy that Fred Doar was neglected at fullback and linebacker.

"It's just a series of ego trips and retributions on the part of the coaches," he charged. "It's a personality thing, having to do with what coach doesn't like what coach, and the kids are suffering. The guys on the team who made all-league feel it makes their own selection shallow."

FOOT IN MOUTH — My Top of the Bay Bowl prediction (to be filed with such immortal prognostications as Novato winning the MCAL title), is Terra Linda 20, Petaluma 7.

GIRLS WIN SWIM TITLE

Marin Catholic High School's girls swimming team completed their second straight undefeated season yesterday when they whipped San Rafael, 76-37, in the San Rafael pool.

Marin Catholic's championship Marin County Athletic League mark duplicated last year's record and extended the winning streak to 14. The previous year, before starting the streak, the taam's record was 0-7.

WHA PLAY

Raiders Seek New Owner

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Raiders set a World Hockey Association first Wednesday night when they lost their owner as well as a game.

The financially-plagued Raiders were placed in trusteeship by the WHA while prospective buyers of the club are to be screened. Dick Wood, the former owner, said expenses in New York were about three times as much as he had anticipated. He reportedly was looking for buyers for several weeks.

"We are seeking investors who offer more than money," said WHA President Gary Davidson. "We also want owners to have a strong partnership with others in the league and a business knowledge that will help make the club solvent."

The Raiders made it a gloomy night all around as they blew a 4-3 lead at Quebec City to drop a 7-4 decision to the Nordiques. Alain Caron scored the first hat trick in Nordique history, touching off a third period rally when Quebec scored four goals. Robert Guindon, Andre Gaudette and Jean Guy Gendron also scored for the Nordiques in the final period as Quebec moved into a first place tie with idle Cleveland in the East Division.

The Alberta Oilers climbed into a first place tie with Winnipeg in the West by downing the Jets 3-1 and in the only other action of the night the Los Angeles Sharks beat the Houston Aeros 6-4.

Rancho Cotate Gridders Surprised The 'Experts'

By PAUL DWORIN

After losing the likes of Steve Wlodarczyk, Bob Murray, Mike Cooper, Mark Clarey and Frank Mattern to graduation, most of the football "experts" predicted that Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park would have a hard time defending its Sonoma County League title.

Claude Brock's Cougars fooled them, though. Not only did they win their second consecutive SCL championship with an unblemished record, they ran their unbeaten victory string to 18.

"We felt that we were better defensively," Brock said comparing last year's team to this one. "We weren't as explosive offensively, but we controlled the ball more than last year. Of course, we didn't score as much, so we had to control it."

The Cougars may not have been as explosive as last year, but they still managed to lead the SCL in scoring with a 23.6 point per game average. Defensively, they were also tops, allowing an average of 5.1 points. The Rancho Cotate defense shut out four league opponents, and gave up two touchdowns in two games on almost identical punt returns.

The big scorer for the Cougars was Ray Jnes, a junior flanker and former Pop-Warner All-American, who accounted for 96 points on 15 touchdowns to lead the large school scorers in the Redwood Empire.

The Cougars also surprised their head coach. "They more than fulfilled our expectations," Brock commented. "We go into every season thinking we're going to win them all, but we didn't have a single three-year varsity player."

Another surprise for Brock was the play of Frank Garrett, who was the team's leading receiver with 16 receptions and also played defensive back. "Garrett really surprised us offensively and defensively. He caught a lot of clutch passes and blocked well.

"He never played defense before, and his play was superb (he grabbed four interceptions)," Brock said. "He was probably one of our leading performers."

Offensively, the biggest difference between this and last year's team was the passing game. This year's running crew of Wayne Hill, Dan Dettling, Kent Holman and Ray Jones gained more than 1,800 yards on the ground, but the Cougar quarterbacks threw for just 685 yards as compared to 1,591 yards in 1971.

"The statistics are really no reflection on our quarterbacks (junior Bob Haas and sophomore Eric Mogel)," Brock said. "It's just that our situation was unstable when Bob got injured and Eric had to take over. The talent's there."

Haas broke his finger after the first game of the season and was expected to be lost for the year. He made an unexpectedly fast recovery and came back to take over the quarterback duties, completing 52 per cent of his passes and throwing for seven touchdowns.

Although Brock was quite pleased by this season's performance, one aspect of it rankles him — the fact that his Cougars aren't in the "Top of the Bay Bowl," instead of Petaluma which they beat 22-18.

"We would have liked that distinction," Brock replied concerning the bowl. "We don't think the entry from the NBL is bad, it's just that it's representative of a league, and not Sonoma County.

"It shouldn't be called the "Top of the Bay Bowl," but the NBL-Marin County Athletic League playoff bowl. If it's really the "Top of the Bay," we challenge the winner."

Ranger Vickers 3rd On Tkaczuk's Line

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The third man theme has finally struck a resonant chord for the New York Rangers.

For two years, Coach Emile Francis has been looking for a man to play left wing on the line with center Walt Tkaczuk and right wing Bill Fairbairn. There is little doubt among New York fans today that the search has come to a fruitful end with the unveiling of Steve Vickers, the 15th man to be tried at that position.

Vickers, only a second-year pro, scored three goals Wednesday night to become the first rookie in National Hockey League history and the first Ranger player ever to notch the hat trick in successive games. In the process, he lifted the Rangers to their kifth consecutive victory with a 7-3 decision over the Philadelphia Flyers.

"I hope they don't expect three goals from me every night," said Vickers, who got his first NHL hat trick against Los Angeles on Sunday and now has seven goals since being elevated to the No. 2 line last Wednesday.

The victory stretched the Rangers unbeaten string on home ice to 10 games, including nine victories and a tie, and enabled them to close within five points of first place Montreal, which was idle, in the East Division race.

The Los Angeles Kings moved into a tie with Philadelphia for first place in the West by skating to a 3-3 deadlock with the Buffalo Sabres, and in other NHL action the Pittsburgh Penguins routed the Minnesota North Stars, 7-1, the Toronto Maple Leafs edged the Atlanta Flames, 2-1, and the Detroit Red Wings beat the California Golden Seals, 4-0.

Despite Vickers' historic hat trick, it was actually a pair of goals by Rod Gilbert and Fairbairn coming 47 seconds apart early in the third period that enabled to the Rangers to snap a 3-3 tie and take a commanding lead.

THE REAL STORY ON RADIAL PLY TIRES!
—FOR DOMESTIC CARS—

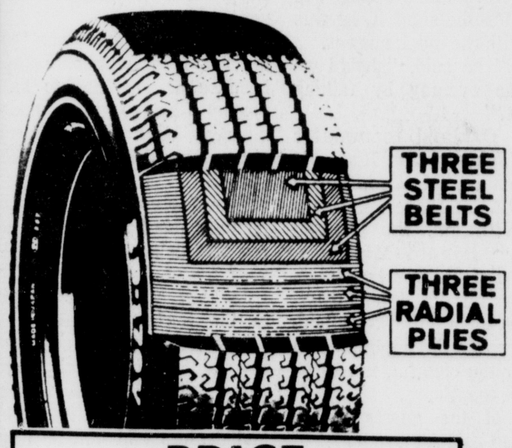

Why Radial Tires?

Because its the best tire in the world if its made right. Michelin invented the radial ply tire 25 years ago, and built a reputation from the tires pertormance that is the envy of the industry. Michelin introduced the 1st radial tire built for American cars about 8 years ago. They introduced the 40,000 mile tread wear guarantee with it, and controlled this market with their unbelievable success with this tire.

What do Radials do?

A good radial tire will lock your car to the road like nothing you've every experienced. A steel belted radial, is like riding on rails, when the rail turns, your car turns right now. Your car has about 700 times better cornering power, and about 500 times better stopping power, than with conventional tires.

Types of Radials!

Steel belted, and fabric belted. The difference, is between night and day, the steel wears and performs so much superior there's little room for comparison. That's why the whole tire industry is fighting to get on the market with a steel belted tire.

My Recommendation

If you're going to buy radial. buy a steel radial. If you don't want a steel radial, then don't buy radial.

Lots & Lots of Radials On the Market

The reason for this - The fantastic success of the Michein X Steel Belted radial tire. Now some of these tires are very good and some of them are plain terrible. The buyers problem is knowing what's what.

All Steel Belted Tires Aren't Radial Tires, All Radial Tires Aren't Steel Belted

Don't be mislead by this play on words. The reason everyone is coming out with a steel tire of one type or another is that some of Michelin's patent rights expired in 1971. But it's one thing to be allowed to make a steel tire, and entirely another in knowing how.

Bridgestone RD170V Steel belted Radial

The tire has one more body belt than Michelin and most other radials, plus one more steel tread belt. The tire is built heavy and very strong and to date is wearing, better than anything we've ever sold. Bridgestone is one of the only companies besides Michelin who produces their own steel belting, this assures consistant quality.

Of the lines we handle besides Michelin . . . Semperit-Dunlop-Pirelli-Goodrich-Toyo-Goodyear I sincerely feel the BRIDGESTONE STEEL RADIAL IS THE BEST PRODUCT regardless of price, for any American made car.

PRICE:

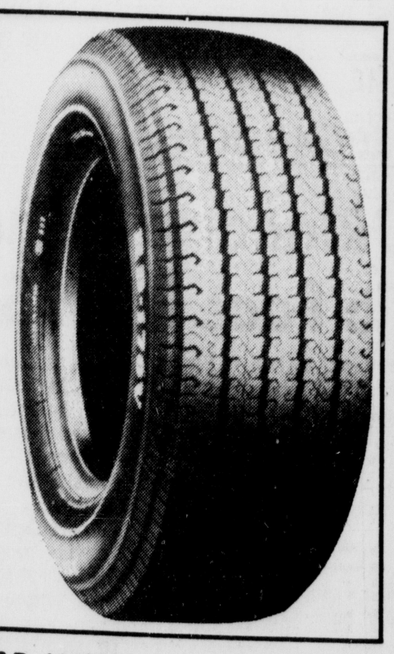

Our prices on Bridgestone is much lower than our steel Radial competition because: Bridgestone can produce and is producing so much more quantity . . . And Cain's Tire is buying so much more quantity, that we are just naturally, badly underselling our competition. But then, whats new!!!

THE SKI SCENE

It's First Year For Northstar

By Charlie Coane

It has been quite some time since a new major ski resort has reared its head in California's Sierra Mountains. But this season coming out of the chute for the first time is the Fibreboard Corporation backed Northstar — being developed by Trimont Land Company.

Northstar, located on the road between Truckee and Kings Beach, will open with five double chair lifts. The lifts are designed to handle 3,000 skiers per day, and according to Trimont President, Ronald C. Anderson, the planned maximum average lift-line waiting time at peak times will be 15 minutes. That will be good news during traditionally crowded periods such as the Christmas and New Year holidays, Washington's birthday and Easter week. If the master plan at Northstar is achieved in an estimated 8-10 years, there will be 16 lifts, or nine miles worth, to serve 10,000 skiers per day — right up there with the largest resorts in the country.

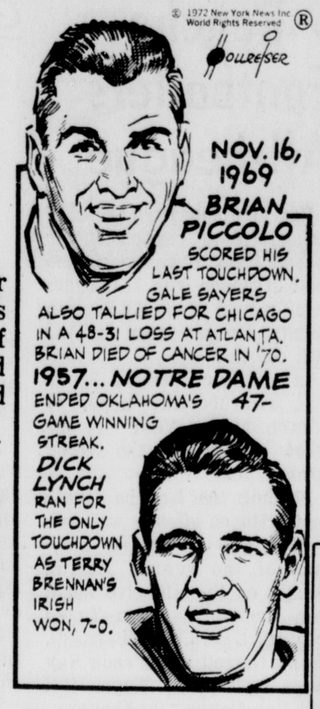

Lifts go to the top of the north-facing slope of the 8,600 foot Mt. Pluto, and the maximum vertical drop will be 2,200 feet. When completed, the resort will have runs up to three miles in length with a total of 20 miles of ski trails. The developers eventually plan to limit access to the slopes to property owners and residents, with day skiers being discouraged. But that's no problem this season.

The area is planned as a "destination resort", like Sun Valley and Vail. Year-round activities will include fishing, riding, hiking, swimming, golf, tennis and a village with shops and services.

The ski school will be under the guiding hand of Bruno Beinder, who traveled north from a similar position at June Mountain. He raced in his native country, Austria, and holds degrees from famed Austrian ski teaching schools. The GLM (Graduated Length Method) teaching system will prevail.

Northstar is to be applauded for the great lengths to which it went in preserving the environment. Trimont didn't just plow under the earth and cut down trees. On the contrary, their concern for environmental and ecological values was evident from the beginning. They even checked out the migrant deer herds in the land planning process. One of the best in the business, Luggi Foeger, provided ideas for slope grooming. It should be an interesting addition to the ring of resorts around Lake Tahoe.

Denver's Johnson Key To Raiders

OAKLAND (AP) — Charles Johnson could be the key to whether the Oakland Raiders stay on top in the American Football Conference West Sunday in Denver.

Johnson is the quarterback who was responsible for the Denver Broncos' 30-23 upset over the Raiders four weeks ago.

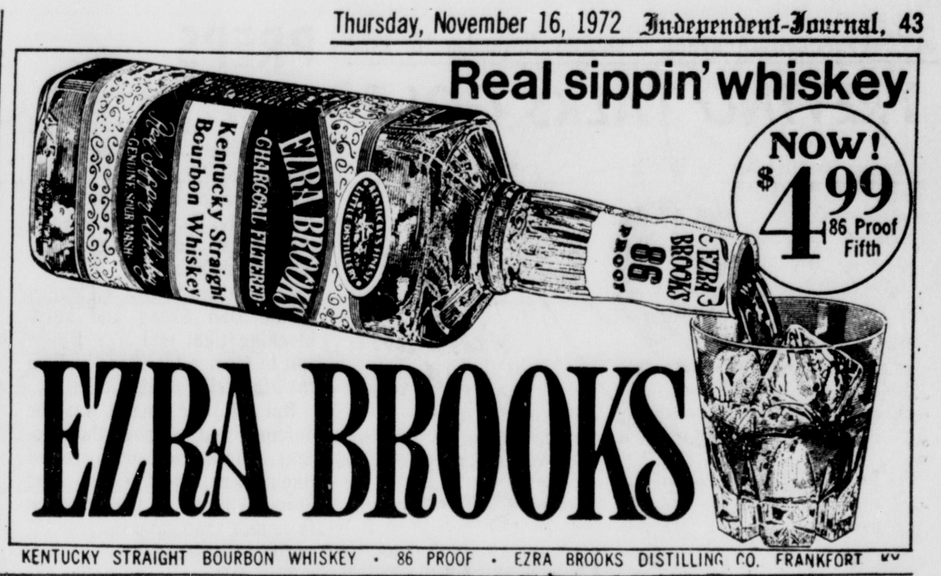

Denver Coach John Ralston said Wednesday he expects it to happen again.

Johnson threw for 361 yards with 20 completions in 28 attempts at Oakland. Of the eight incompletions, Ralston said, "I certainly expect him to improve on that."

But Ralston said the Broncos have to play a "lot more of what I call team football."

Breeder Leslie Combs has sold at public auction 35 horses which have won $100,000 or more.

Stadium Decision Held Back

The Petaluma Board of Education hesitated to endorse a new football stadium for Rohnert Park Tuesday night, saying developers may have strings attached to donations.

The board heard Robert Daggett, principal of Rancho Cotate High School, report that efforts are underway for joint use of the football field at Sonoma State College.

Both board president Arthur L. Lafranchi and member Robert A. Stimson refused to endorse the plan until more is known about pledges made by land developers.

The fund raising committee has received $170,000 in pledges toward the stadium, mostly from developers who agreed to donate money for each acre developed in Rohnert Park.

Lafranchi agreed, saying that board endorsement would be a tacit agreement to exchange development control for money. "It would grease the skids for developers," he said. "I wonder what strings are attached and wonder if they'll be receiving more than they're giving."

Other board members questioned how much the operation of the field would cost the district for the high school football games and said a priority list on how funds should be spent must be prepared first. Daggett said he would prepare a report on the donations by developers along with estimated operations costs so the board can consider the matter again at the Nov. 28 meeting at Rancho Cotate High School.

49ers Face Unique Bear Quarterback

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers face a unique quarterback Sunday, which is why 250-pound Paul Wiggin was sloshing through the rain in Wednesday's drill.

They'll face Bobby Douglas of Chicago, who has carried the ball 90 times fgr 624 yards in a dazzling 6.92 per carry performance but hit a lackluster 49-for-116 and 770 yards in the passing department.

Wiggin, a former Cleveland defensive end and now a 49ers assistant coach, ran the option against the 49er defenders in rainy drills Wednesday.

The Bears occasionally run out of the shotgun or punt formation and Coach Dick Nolan tried to get his defenders to expect the unexpected in Chicago Sunday.

Defense coach Dick Stanfel said the Bears are also unpredictable on defense although most of their shenanigans are aimed at funneling the action toward awesome middle linebacker Dick Butkus.

FIELDERS

Brooks, Clemente Head Team

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)— Baltimore's Brooks Robinson and Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente headed their respective leagues in balloting by the players and managers for the Gold Glove awards, the Sporting News announced Wednesday in naming its All-Star fielding team.

The poll conducted by the national sports weekly gave the most votes to Robinson, who was picked as the American League's top defensive third baseman for the 13th time.

Clemente was picked to the fielding team for the 12th time.

The Sporting News' All-Star fielding lineups were:

American League: first base, George Scott, Brewers; second base, Doug Griffin, Red Sox; third base, Robinson, Orioles; shortstop, Ed Brinkman, Tigers; outfield, Paul Blair, Orioles, Bobby Murcer, Yankees, and Ken Berry, Angels; catcher, Carlton Fisk, Red Sox; pitcher, Jim Kaat, Twins.

Regatta Scheduled Saturday Morning

The second annual Marin Rowing Association Thanksgiving Regatta, involving students from Redwood High School and the Katharine Branson School, will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. on Corte Madera Creek, with the finish line at the Greenbrae Sailing Club directly behind the Larkspur Firehouse.

There will be nine races. Featured will be a 1000-meter varsity single sculls race between Eric Gray and Jim Phelps, a 1000-meter four-oared race between Redwood's varsity lightweight and heavyweight crews, and a race of mixed four-oared crews with girl coxswains.

Cougar Harriers Seek NCAA Title

PULLMAN (UPI)—Washington State's cross country team, which last Saturday won its second straight Pacific Eight title, set sights on the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships at Houston this Monday.

Coach Jack Mooberry said Wednesday his chief competition will be Manhattan University, Arizona and Eastern Tennessee. Manhattan won the IC4A title with Mike Keogh and Tony Colon placing first and second and is undefeated in 31 stright dual meets.

This is where shoplifting stops being "fun."

Think how it must feel to get caught.

Think how you'd answer the question that's on every job application, "Have you ever been arrested? If so, explain."

Think how—to the people you know, and the people you love, and yes, even to yourself—you can never be the same person again.

Think about it.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

Like Arnie Does It

By LEE TREVINO

Sometimes you want to smack a drive in the screws, give it an extra ride. Like Arnie does it.

It changes a high handicapper's swing and tempo when he tries for a bigger shoulder turn. If he hits the ball with the middle of the clubface, he's lucky.

Sam Snead takes his club extra slow when he really wants to bust one. Some guys get anxious. Concentrate on a half-second pause at the top, then bring it all down together.

Some players rush the backswing, then start down too quick. The result is a whiplash. A whiplash causes snap hooks, and snap hooks cause ulcers.

When you're going for the long ball, tee your ball so half of it is above the top of your driver. Then hit it hard.

Remember that you can't get the clubhead to the ball before you take it away from the ball. Bring the club back in one motion and bring it back the same way.

Firm grip, slow backswing (pause) and then nail it. Like Lee does it.

Celtic After-Taste Is Like Good Wine

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Like good, vintage wine, the Boston Celtics are leaving a pleasant after-taste in the National Basketball Association.

Watching the Celtics in action induces some to recall the championship seasons that belonged to Boston year after year during the late 1950s and 60s. Dave Cowens is far from a polished Bill Russell, but the young, red-haired giant is picking up the experience in the pivot.

Cowens scored 25 points and grabbed 15 rebounds Wednesday night as Boston plastered the Phoenix Suns, 113-94, and posted its 14th win in 15 starts this season. Don Nelson, with the Celtics since 1965, contributed 21 points to the Boston attack as the team opened a game lead over New York in the Atlantic Division.

Charlie Scott led Phoenix with 33 points and Dick Van Arsdale went over the 10,000-point career mark with his 14 tallies.

Los Angeles opened a two-game lead over Golden State in the Pacific Division by beating Detroit, 110-99, and Kansas City-Omaha drubbed Seattle, 106-97, in other league action.

Gail Goodrich netted a Los Angeles high of 24 points as the Lakers won their eighth consecutive game. Wilt Chamberlain helped with 21 points, including 3-for-3 from the foul line. His nine for 10 from the floor raised his league-leading field goal percentage to .796 on 109 of 137. Dave Bing, Bob Lanier and Fred Foster paced the Pistons with 20 points each.

Nate Archibald scored a personal high of 47 points as KC-Omaha went over the .500 mark at 9-8. This is the first time Bob Cousy has been able to attain that plateau since taking over as coach four years ago. Spencer Haywood paced Seattle with 27 points.

ABA ROUNDUP

There Is No Place Like Home For Nets

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

There's no place like home as far as the New York Nets are concerned.

The Nets, who lost six straight games on the road, snapped their losing streak Wednesday night as George Carter poured in 34 points to spark a 112-107 victory over the Carolina Cougars.

Carter scored 24 points in the first half as the Nets built a 63-47 lead and then hit eight of the team's last 11 points to put down a Carolina rally.

Billy Paultz added 20 points for the Nets while Billy Cunningham and Joe Caldwell had 24 each for the Cougars.

In the only other American Basketall Association action, the Memphis Tams rolled over the San Diego Conquistadors 126-101 and the Dallas Chaps turned back the Kentucky Colonels 104-99.

George Thompson and surprise starter Lee Davis scored 32 points each to lead the Tams over San Diego. Davis, usually the No.2 center, started at forward and also pulled down 21 rebounds. Chuck Williams led the Q's with 19 points.

Rich Jones' basket with 1:15 to play broke a 97-97 tie and boosted the Chaps over Kentucky. Bob Netolicky led Dallas with 31 points and Jones had 25.

Terry London: MVP

Terry London of Redwood High School was named the Marin County Athletic League's Class B basketball Most Valuable Player and his name was inadvertently left off the list of all leaguers in yesterday's I-J. He joins teammates Mike Ohranschell and Brad Thompson on the all-league team.

decided to take injury-plagued linemen Jon Loberg and Larry Madden and put them at center and right guard, respectively. Previously, they had been shuttling back and forth from offense to defense.

They teamed with all-league tackle Dan Skeen and hard-blocking tight end Wes Emerson to form a fearsome wall on the right side of the line.

But all year long it was the defense that carried the Trojans. Lucas constantly praised linebackers Scott Logan and Steve Withers as the key men in a unit that gave up just 107 yards a game.

The defense is probably the reason Terra Linda is a superior foul-weather team, going 5-0 on muddy fields. Offenses need all the help they can get, but are instead hampered by the muck.

On the other hand, Terra Linda lost its four games on dry fields for a 5-4 overall record, compared to Redwood's 8-1. As the man said, it's hard to find two co-champions with as little in common.

GAME

White said, "And I'd have to say from where I sit now it may be the most important."

White, a Cal graduate and assistant Stanford coach for eight years, said "We looked at the Big Game differently the past two years at Stanford.

"For us, the Big Game was the Rose Bowl. But we didn't want to lose to Cal."

Meanwhile, the Bears were forced by rain to work out for the second straight day Tuesday on artificial turf at Contra Costa Community College. White said it was "a great practice. We got a lot done despite the fact that it rained like heck."

Stanford Coach Jack Christiansen took his players to an indoor basketball court to work on their running and short passing games, as well as "mental work."

Tennis Leader Moffet Dies In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Tennis has lost one of its best friends.

Jim Moffet, 80, died yesterday from the arthritis that had finally forced him off the courts only a few years before.

While Moffet was an outstanding tennis player, it is as an administrator and teacher that he will be remembered in a career that spanned 67 years.

He was vice president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, president emeritus of the Northern California Association, honorary member of dozens of major clubs and recipient of the Samuel Hardy Award for outstanding contributions to tennis in 1965.

After retirement as a San Francisco auto dealer many years ago, he was a co-founder of the Youth Tennis Foundation.

His best time yesterday was caught by the electric timer, but it's still unofficial since records are kept only for time trials and the race itself.

Sweeney, Merlo Win NorCal Grid Honors

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— California wide receiver Steve Sweeney and Stanford linebacker Jim Merlo are Northern California's outstanding players of the year.

They were named to that honor Wednesday after a count of ballots by the Northern California football writers.

Sweeney has caught 48 catches, 12 for touchdowns this season.

Merlo has recorded 126 tackles in nine games. That's more than All America Jeff Siemon made last season.

Sweeney and Merlo will play against each other in the 75th Big game Saturday at Berkeley.

The writers also named UC Davis quarterback Bob Biggs and Santa Clara safety Mark Morais as college division players of the year.

Chester Caddas of University of Pacific was earlier announced as winner of coach of the year honors.

GAMES FOR DENVER

Attorney Arkin Fights To Save

DENVER (UPI) — Clifford Buck, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, doesn't think there is much chance for Denver to host the 1976 Winter Olympics now, but attorney Harry L. Arkin is not giving up.

Denver was awarded the Winter Games more than two years ago, but the invitation to serve as host was withdrawn this week because Colorado voters have refused to spend any more tax money on the 10-day sports event.

The Denver Olympic Organizaing Committee (DOOC) announced it was withdrawing as host for the games Tuesday. The International Olympics Committee (IOC) said it would accept new bids to host the Olympics until Jan. 15.

Arkin, attorney for Colorado Citizens to Retain the Winter Games, flew to Switzerland earlier this week to ask for more time to raise private funds and still stage the games in Colorado.

He said the IOC assured him if the games were not held in Denver, they would not be held anywhere in North America. Some officials have mentioned Lake Pacid, N.Y., and Squaw Valley, Calif., as alternate sites.

Although the DOOC has voted to disband and refused to formally support Arkin's effort, the Denver lawyer said seven "key staff members" from the DOOC were behind his effort to raise funds.

Arkin said IOC President Lord McHael Killanin also told him only the U.S. Olympic Committee, and not the DOOC, can give up the games.

But Buck said Arkin was "nitpicking" on the question of which group has the power to give up the games. He said he personally felt there was little likelihood the 1976 games would be held in Denver now.

The IOC issued a statement in Lausanne Wednesday acknowledging it had received word of Denver's withdrawal.

"In view of this, it will be therefore necessary to seek fresh invitations to the games, and circulars have been prepared for replies by Jan. 15, 1973," the IOC said.

Novato's Top Gridder: Lash

Novato High School's All-Marin County Athletic League lineman Paul Kessler was named most valuable varsity football player at a Hornets Booster Club dinner last night in the school's cafeteria.

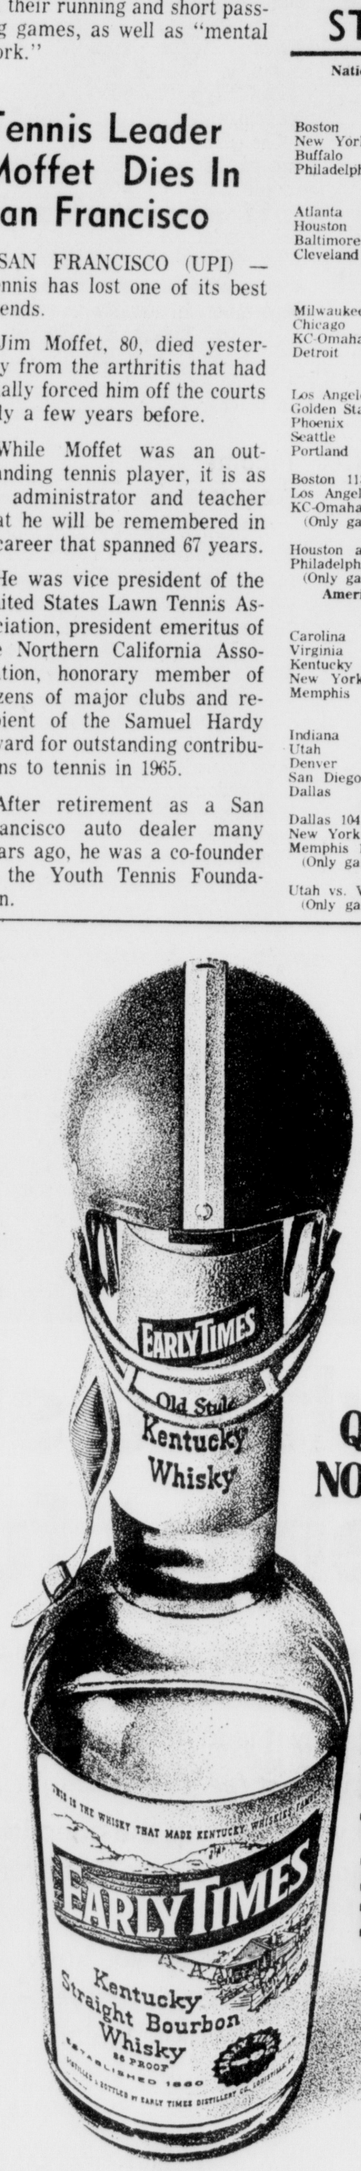

Kessler had been chosen on the all-league first team at defensive tackle and won honorable mention as a center on the offensive team.

Mike Heilman was named most valuable player on Novato's junior varsity team which ran through its nine-game season undefeated.

Investors Sit Back After Market Rise

Declines edged advances, 659 to 590, among the 1,622 issues on the tape. Two-hour turnover came to 8,280,000 shares compared with 11,830,000 shares traded in the same period Wednesday.

The DJIA has risen more than 80 points since Oct. 16 and finally crested over the 1,000 closing mark on Tuesday. Brokers said it was only natural the market experienced some profit taking and consolidation.

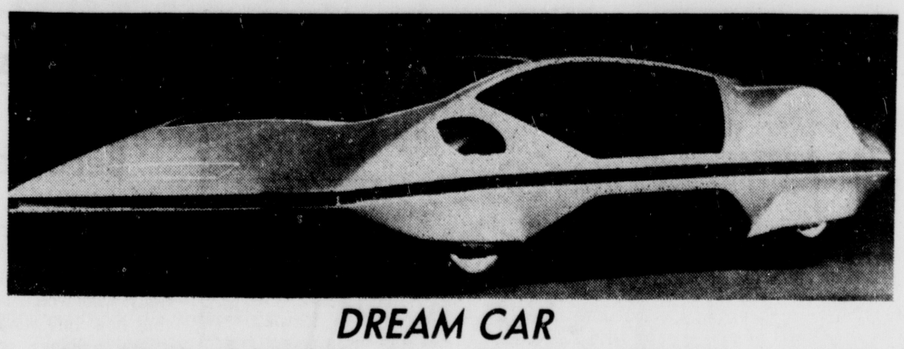

American Telephone & Telegraph was the most active issue, up 1-4 at 50 1-2 on 245,200 shares, including a block trade of 100,000 shares at 50 1-2. The issue has been trading at or near its high for the year recently.

Prices moved lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. RSC Industries was the most active Amex issue, off 1-2 at 1 7-8 on 46,500 shares.

DREAM CAR

An example of futuristic automotive design, the Modulo will make its Northern California debut at the Nov. 21-26 Import Car Show scheduled for the Civic Auditorium and Brooks Hall in San Francisco. Designed in the Turin, Italy, studios of Pininfarina, the Modulo is actually two body shells, one atop the other. It is a blend of curves, arches, glass and metal sculptured into a vehicle whose basic form can be changed from coupe to convertible by eliminating one or more parts.

Japanese Auto Companies Making Strong Comeback

LOS ANGELES, Cal. — A year ago last August the U.S. threw a curve ball at the automotive imports which, at that time, threatened to sew up 20 per cent or more of the new-car business in the country.

A major target of the curve ball was the Japanese, led by Toyota and Nissan, maker of the Datsun.

The Japanese ducked but the curve struck them nonetheless. That, together with a two-coast dock strike in the United States and the minicar onslaught by Ford and Chevrolet, sent the Japanese scurrying for cover.

But, like the West German Volkswagen, they weren't to be done in.

Now, hardly more than a year later, the Japanese again are in a strong position in the U.S. new-car market. And now there are even more of them making a mark in the marketplace.

Toyota and Nissan are joined by Toyo Kogyo, maker of the radically different Mazda, the first Wankel or rotary engine in the world to be sold in volume. The distributor of Mazda in the U.S. now is putting its expansion plans into high gear in its effort to cover the nation before Chevrolet can get its own rotary-engined Vega into the showrooms, expected by the fall of 1974.

Beside the Mazda, the Fuji company has its Subaru; and Honda, which long ago took over a major share of the U.S. motorcycle business, is making tracks with its car line.

"It was a tough year," sighs Yutaka Katayama, president of the Nissan Motor Corporation in U.S.A., official importer of the Datsun, "but it has come out well." He might have added that it was an amazing turnaround.

The importers, both European and Japanese, have managed to retain about 15 per cent of the total U.S. car market.

Some years ago James M. Roche, then chairman of General Motors, remarked: "If the importers ever get 10 per cent of the U.S. market, we'll be concerned."

But before President Nixon's Phase I surtax struck them on Aug. 15, 1971, the importers had reached a one-month high-sales mark of some 22 per cent and the writing was on the highway.

Now, despite a generally higher price structure than before the surtax and subsequent currency reshuffling, the Japanese again are in a solid position in the U.S. new-car marketplace.

Nissan, through its 920 dealers in the U.S., sold some 25,000 cars in September and expected that October would be as good or better.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Conservative Stock Pays Good Return

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought 300 Southern Company (NYSE) at 20½ and 200 at 19¼. Since then the shares have dropped to 18½. Should I buy more? — W.B.

A. Assuming your investment goals are income and long-term appreciation and that your portfolio is adequately diversified, additional shares may be purchased. Relative action in the electric utilities has been strong in recent weeks and Southern has recovered to your highest cost price. The group largely neglected by the market has attracted renewed buying by professionals, lured by visible earnings growth and low-price/earnings ratios.

Southern Company serves the Gulf states area, where industrialization and per-capita income growth has outpaced the national average. Electric sales should increase on average about 10 per cent annually and earnings at a slightly slower pace reflecting anticipated common stock offerings. Despite a 9.4 per cent increase in the number of common shares outstanding, Southern managed to up earnings 6 per cent in the 12 months ending September 1972. Recovery to the 1970 level of $1.94 a share is probable for the full year.

In 1971 profits were reduced by unfavorable weather conditions, delays in receiving rate relief and the overdue start-up of two new facilities. Shares, currently trading at 10.5 times projected earnings and yielding a generous 6.3 per cent are a buy for conservative portfolios.

Company Loses Sign But Gains In Stature

The decision to remove the grotesque "Allied" signs from the Golden Gate Bridge scaffolding was a welcome one for the motoring public and no doubt a wise one for the construction company involved.

The huge signs posted by Allied Structural Steel Corp. may have been perfectly legal under the contract approved by the bridge district. But that did not make them any less offensive in the eyes of Marin commuters who were subjected to the signs at least twice daily.

We suspect that the bridge directors who negotiated the contract, allowing the steel corporation to advertise its name, had in mind something less obtrusive, perhaps small letters stenciled across a piece of girder in much the same manner that a contractor posts signs announcing that this is his project.

We do not suggest that Allied Structural Steel did anything wrong in winning this concession in the construction contract. Any other contractor with the same opportunity would have pressed for similar concessions. The posting of signs by the contractor or even subcontractors at building sites is common practice in the construction industry.

In the case of Allied's sign on the Golden Gate Bridge, the advertisement was just too large and in too prominent a location. A public outcry was followed by a lawsuit filed by an attorney representing the Public Interest Law Center in Berkeley, charging that the contract did not give the company the right to "assault the sensibilities of the public."

Allied Structural Steel made a wise move in voluntarily agreeing to withdraw the signs from the bridge.

In an era when indignation is mounting against pollution of the environment by man-made noise, smoke, structures and billboards, the company would have lost more in public goodwill than it would have gained from flaunting its name across an otherwise beautiful and scenic bridge.

The company gained in stature and improved its public image by bowing gracefully in the face of public pressure instead of dragging the issue through the courts and forcing a bitter confrontation.

'Where Is Our Food?'

We feed our small retinue of raccoons more than a hundred pounds of dog food a month and seldom miss a night. But on stormy nights, they often stay in, and their food gets wet and goes sour, so when we have a bad forecast we don't put food on the table in our garden.

Just recently on such a stormy evening, we looked out and saw five raccoons peering through the pouring rain into our back window. In silent eloquence they stared. We got the message and took them their food.

They could not have expressed themselves better if they had been able to talk.

Brooding Clouds

Dark, brooding clouds lurk over Mount Tamalpais this winter like the angry thought of discontented giants. And the mighty forces of the storms they herald are truly gigantic. Get caught out in a windlashed lashed downpour and one cannot help feeling awe at the tremendous power. No wonder primitive peoples connected weather and their gods.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

State Employees Guilty Of Dishonest Campaign

By EARL G. WATERS

In efforts to combat the campaigning indulged in by the State Employees Association in connection with Proposition 15, their salary measure, San Francico attorneys Farrand, Malti, Spillane, and Walsh used a novel method.

They sought an injuction alleging the campaign advertising violated Section 17500 of the Business and Professions Code. This is a section of the law making it illegal to induce the public to enter into obligations through false or misleading statements.

IT HAS HERETOFORE been liberally used in halting deceptive advertising by merchants and those offering services to the public.

In their pleadings the lawyers listed numerous statements, used by the state employees to induce voters to support Proposition 15, which they charged were both false and misleading.

The court found the new theory for the law's application to political campaigns intriguing but denied injunctive relief on the grounds no damage could be shown. Obviously, until the election results came in it could not be shown.

And, while this section of the law may yet be applied to political campaigns at some future date, the issue of deceptive campaigning remains.

THE EXTENT TO which the hucksters went in their campaigns to deceive voters in the 1972 elections exceeded anything which has occured in recent years.

While the truth was stretched in connection witp many of the propositions, some of the statements alleged to be misleading were understandable.

For example, proponents of Proposition 20, the coastline measure, accused the heavily financed opposition camp of misstatements. The main controversy centered around the area said to be included in the language of the proposal. The opponents claimed the wording was such as to affect the tidelands of the San Francisco Bay and Sacramento-San Joaquin deltas. Since attorneys involved were in disagreement, the claims on both sides could not be justifiably condemned as false or misleading. The balance of the sloganized claims made by the opponents probably were no worse than those of the proponents.

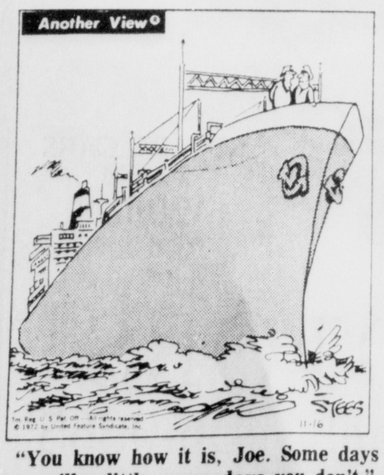

BUT THE CLAIMS of the state employees were not in that category. They were particularly reprehensible since state employees should retain an image of integrity. In authorizing the type of campaign conducted in behalf of Proposition 15 the employees association did the state workers a great injustice.

For their whole campaign was geared to mislead the public. Their slogans of "keep state pay in line" and "vote yes on state pay control" were clearly intended to make the public believe the measure would limit state pay. The fact is the entire design of the proposal was to make salary increases easier.

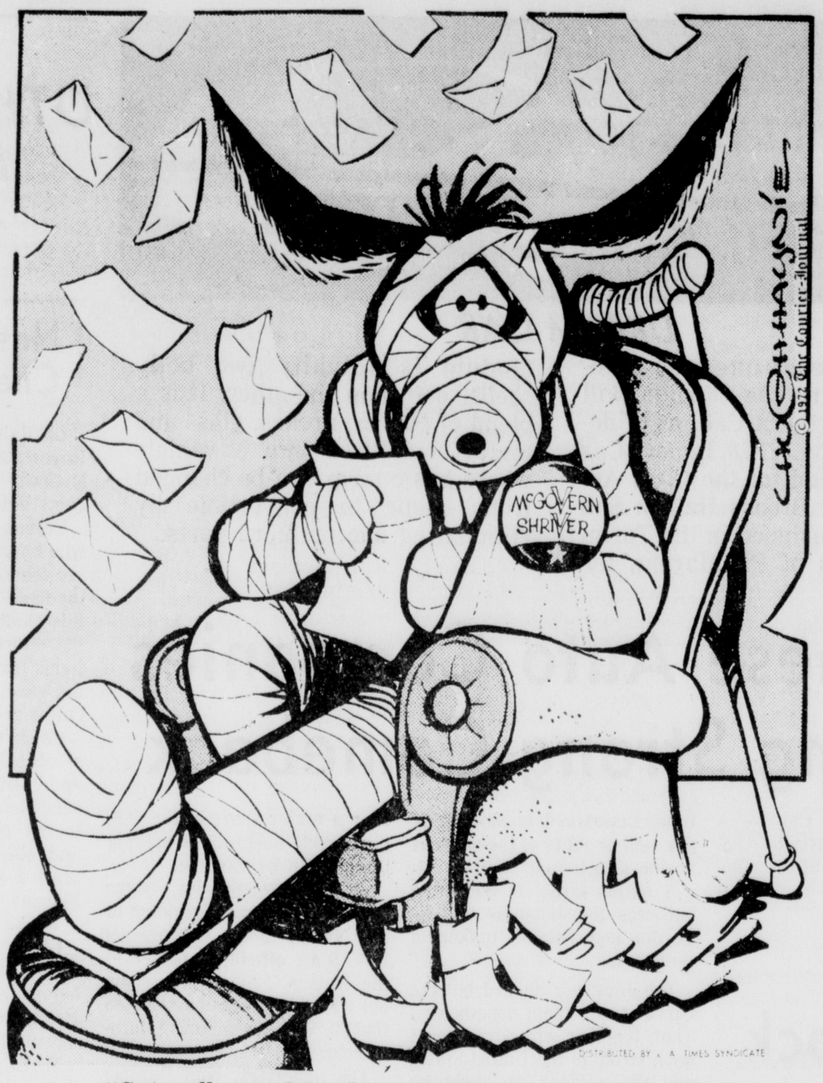

TO REPRESENT to the public that the proposal would not increase taxes was a patent falsehood. When public salaries go up taxes, must necessarily rise.

Perhaps the San Francisco lawyers might take a look at Section 29132 of the Election Code which reads in part: "Every person . . . is guilty of a misdemeanor who, by . . . any . . . fraudulent device or contrivance whatever . . . prevails upon any voter to either give or refrain from giving his vote at any election . . ."

Whether any legal action is taken or not, the state employees should take steps to see that they are not again put in the position of being responsible for a campaign which Governor Reagan termed "the most blatantly dishonest campaign I have ever witnessed."

"You know how it is, Joe. Some days you spill a little, some days you don't."

"Get-well notes? I only wish! They're campaign bills."

Mill Valley Has Lost Its Charm

I moved to our beautiful Marin about 18 years ago, purchased a little house in "quaint little" Mill Valley.

The house was modest, so was the price and so were the taxes, one hundred and nine dollars per year.

My wife and I enjoyed the environment and natives and (erroneously) assumed our future was here in Mill Valley and we would be financially able to meet our future obligations.

Our taxes have increased about 800 per cent to $960 per year. Quaint little Mill Valley has lost its quaintness and much of its charm and has acquired other characteristics which are hardly worth the tax increase, as a matter of fact, absolutely not worth the increase!

Driving home this evening, a brilliant thought entered my mind which could enable our taxes to be lowered or at least remain at the present peak.

I'm sure the conditions in our little quaint city are not going to change in the foreseeable future, or my lifetime, so why not use these conditions (one of the conditions) for an income. . .

Lately I have been exposed to a number of TV commercials for steel belted tires, and have seen demonstrations of these tires being abused over many types of tortuous terrain.

I have been traveling a certain route home and suddenly saw a potential for this income. This route would undoubtedly attract all makers of steel belt tires, advertising media and insurance companies as a testing course, and I'm sure the afore mentioned would gladly pay fees. The fees could be established by: The chuck hole, hump, crack, debris, dog, cat, raccoon, deer, etc. or by the mile.

The course would be from Tam Valley over Miller Avenue to Lovell, over Lovell and finally to Cornelia Avenue.

Steel belt tires completing just to Cornelia would deserve almost any adjectives of advertising. If they completed Cornelia Avenue also, they should be removed and enshrined in a museum.

I trust someone in a great place will see, understand and profit from my contribution.

More Light Is Shed On Raid Against Panthers

(Reprinted from Wall Street Journal)

By now nearly everyone understands that it's not true that 28 Black Panthers were killed by police in 1968 and 1969, as Panther lawyer Charles R. Garry charged and the news media uncritically reported in the wake of a Chicago police raid. Now a trial growing out of the raid suggests that there may have been still less to the incident than even the discounted conventional wisdom holds.

Two Black Panthers were in fact killed in the Chicago raid. Newsmen visiting the apartment and looking at the bullet holes said it looked to them as if there had been an orgy of gunfire from the police and none, or maybe only one shot, from the Panthers inside the raided apartment. A federal grand jury investigating the incident found that the planning of the raid was highly deficient, and that the Panthers had fired only one shot compared with at least 82 fired by the police.

That stood as the best available assessment of the raid that triggered the "genocide" charges, until State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan and 13 codefendants were tried for conspiring to obstruct justica by allegedly concealing or altering evidence relating to the raid. After 15 weeks of trial all 14 were acquitted. However, Mr. Hanrahan was defeated for reelection last week.

The most salient disclosure of the new trial was four statements by Black Panthers that special prosecutor Barnabas Sears turned up in the files of their lawyers. Though Mr. Sears was building the case against Mr. Hanrahan, he felt these statements needed to be aired in the interests of fairness. They said that the Panthers admitted to their lawyers that they were holding guns and had either fired or were attempting to fire when the police entered.

The Panthers involved repudiated these statements during the trial. Some parts of the truth, such as which side fired first, can never be definitely known. The planning of the raid still looks bad, as the grand jury suggested. But the police gunfire certainly must be seen in a far different light if those inside the apartment were armed and firing. Since disclosure of the statements raises this strong possibility, they strike us as a rather dramatic footnote to the original highly publicized episode.

Accuracy in Media, a private "watchdog" of the press that emphasizes complaints of liberal bias, has been asking some rather pointed questions about the press coverage disparity between Mr. Garry's 1969 charges and Mr. Hanrahan's 1972 exoneration. Why have so few people heard of the disclosed statements? it asks.

We're not quite sure whether the press can adequately respond to the questions about the Hanrahan case. It's true of course, that regardless of the political stand of reporters or editors, police brutality will make bigger news than no police brutality. Still, that defense doesn't apply in quite the same way when the initial charges have received such wide publicity.

Somehow as the full record develops it ought to be allowed to catch up with initial impressions, and when that does not happen the press has something to ponder.

Middle East Tensions Eased Because Of Nixon Diplomacy

WASHINGTON — Preparing for the months ahead Secretary of State William P. Rogers met after the election with his principal assistants. He canvassed not only who would stay and who would go but how 1973 would shape up.

His primary concern as in the past three years was the Middle East. The Secretary had thrown out a public hint that the time had come for another try at an interim agreement between Israel and Egypt which would ratify the ceasefire and perhaps prepare the way for the opening of the Suez Canal. This drew a doubting response from Tel Aviv in a broadcast suggesting that when Moshe Dayan, the Israeli defense minister, comes here he will have something to say on this subject.

THE SECRETARY IS projecting nothing as ambitious as the so-called Rogers plan. Contained in a speech he made in 1969, it called for a broad settlement of territorial issues including an Israeli pullback from the canal and the final disposition of the Sinai. Israel's reaction was immediately hostile, and the plan won few friends elsewhere.

The Rogers goal today is more modest. He would give an initial impetus to an interim agreement and then hope that private talks between the two countries would follow. This last has long been the Israeli aim.

THE PROSPECTS for a lasting peace are better today than at any time since the end of the six day war in 1967. This can be traced back to president Nixon's dramatic breakthrough win Peking and Moscow. In his discussions in the Kremlin with Leonid Brezhnev the Middle East was far down on the agenda. But with the opening of new avenues of cooperation and trade the Russians were anxious to avoid a confrontation with the United States in a conflict over a part of the world where the Soviet interest was secondary.

With repeated insistence Egypt as Moscow's client state had demanded military material in advance of anything provided up to that point. President Anwar El Sadat and several of his top military and civilian personnel had gone to Moscow to make the case for "a year of decision" with military power that would force Israel to capitulate.

ONE OF THE demands was for medium range missiles. Installation of such missiles — even the threat — would have brought an instant war. Israel could not tolerate weapons capable of wiping out cities and military centers. As late as April of this year Sadat in Moscow called on the Kremlin for the ultimate weapons.

But the prospect of the Nixon-Brezhnev summit only a month away counted for far more in Soviet calculations. Not even the President's action in mining Haiphong Harbor and starting intensive bombing of the north could cancel the Nixon mission as some had feared it would.

THEN CAME the break as Sadat called on Moscow to take out Soviet personnel. With a little restraint from both sides this might have been limited to the 6000 advisers with the Egyptian army. They had stirred the greatest animosity from top to bottom, and since the army is Sadat's principal support they had to go.

Instead it was a clean sweep. The Russians took away the advanced MIG-25 and 26 that they had been maintaining and flying with no Egyptian allowed even a look. They took out the SAM-IVS and VS that Russian technicians had operated. They removed most of the personnel from the naval base near Alexandria and the top secret advanced flying unit at Asway that had been used for reconnaissance of the American Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

WITH THESE principal props of the "year of decision" gone -- there has been some restoration at the naval base — Sadat can consider the prospects for an agreed settlement. Despite a recent minor upheaval he is said to have the broad backing of the army. Egypt has 800,000 men under arms. Mohammed Hassanein Heikel commenting recently on the size of this force in his widely read column in Al Ahram called it the equivalent in cost of building an Asway high dam every year and then destroying it.

Against this background Rogers is hopeful of progress. Both Israel and the United States are opposed to a role for the United Nations in any settlement. If as a beginning the canal can be opened, then the ruined cities along the canal can be rebuilt. Here is one more evidence of the reach of the Nixon breakthrough.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Nixon Expects Europe To Ease Trade Policies

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

European governments are bracing for pressures from President Nixon during his expected Europe visit for more liberal trade policies of the enlarged European community toward the United States. Failure to compromise could lead to a trade war between Europe and America with unpredictable consequences. While Nixon is expected to renew his pledge for continued American defense of Europe, Europeans also are anticipating demands for a greater effort on their part.

SPRUCING UP: a Soviet-American agreement on construction of new embassies in Moscow and Washington may be announced within a month. Diplomats say the only outstanding issue, which nationalities will do what proportion of the construction, should be resolved soon. A new U.S. Embassy in Moscow would not be ready for occupancy before 1978. Construction is expected to take about four years after some 18 months of architectural planning.

GETTING ON with it: Look for a Soviet push to get through this month's Helsinki preparatory meeting for a European security conference as quickly as possible. Soviet reasoning is that since all participants are agreed there should be a conference in the near future, the preparatory session need not be lengthy. If the United States decides to press for a detailed agenda of what is to be discussed, Moscow could renew its charge that the West is footdragging on the issue.

LIFTING the curtain: French ministry of culture sources say that China has decided at last to allow some of its fabled art treasures to leave its borders to be displayed in special exhibitions in Paris and London next spring. The suggestion first was made by former French culture minister Andre Malraux to Mao Tse-tung in 1965. Since China has elected to form better relations with western countries, Peking will follow up Malraux's suggestion, the ministry officials say.

NEW U.N. members: If Willy Brandt wins the Nov. 19 elections both German states may be in the United Nations by next spring. A new Brandt coalition would hope to sign the East-West German treaty (initialled last Thursday) before the end of the year, get it ratified by the new Parliament in early spring and apply for United Nations membership at the U.N. spring assembly. If Rainer Barzel's Christian Democrats win the election, the treaty almost certainly would go on the shelf indefinitely and along with it, probably, the U.N. membership.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

When today's young people reach middle-age you can look for them to criticize the younger generation for "ridiculous short haircuts."

"The trouble with those crazy kids," parents will chorus, "is you can tell the boys from the girls."

To find out what the world's coming to, look where it's been.

In 20 years critics of the establishment will be embarrassed to find they're the establishment.

Police May Be Unpopular But We Couldn't Do Without Them

Police and police work has become more and more unpopular during recent years. We do not know why they should get such an unsavory reputation because without them, our society would soon sink to unliveable depths where it was every man carrying his own gun for his own protection.

Having worked closely with police departments for many years, we have felt that the name "pigs" was unjustified, except for perhaps those on the outside of the law.

To the average citizen, they are often the most understanding and helpful.

THE OTHER night, the Fairfax City Council ended abruptly, and the Womens' Clubhouse was closed as they left. Outside, I realized that I had left my raincoat inside. None of the councilmen, nor the city manager had a key to the building.

However, they called the police who got a key, opened the building and got my raincoat for me. Although it wasn't raining then, it came in handy in the showers the next morning. The incident just shows that the police are more than willing to help people when the occasion arises.

ANOTHER ASPCET of police protection of people comes from Officer Albert Mendoza of the Novato Police Department. For years he has been the school children's best friend in trying to protect them from traffic accidents.

He has watched tha rate of bicycle accidents soar in recent months. He says that no doubt it is due to an increase in the number of bicycles and the increase in speed of bicycles.

"Besides that, parents buy bicycles for their kids without giving them any instructions on riding them," he said.

Mendoza said he thought that every bike rider ought to be given instructions, not only on how to ride the bicycles, but on the traffic regulations on bicycles.

"THEY OUGHT to be tested and licensed the same as automobile drivers," he said. He added that all bicycles ought to be licensed state-wide to cut down on bicycle stealing.

He said that he doubted if adults, as well as children, knew the rules for riding bicycles.

"They cannot be ridden on sidewalks, against traffic or anywhere that the rider wants to go in the street," he said. The bicycles are required to obey the same traffic laws as automobiles in California, he pointed out.

Parent-Teacher Associations and other groups interested in the safety of bicycle riders, both children and adults, should do something to educate them, he said.

Novato Resident Is Bound Over On Bomb Threat

Judge Gary W. Thomas of Marin Superior Court ordered Luther Elmer Jackson to appear Nov. 29.

Jackson was arrested Oct. 22 at his home after an anonymous caller told a telephone operator a bomb would go off at the Oakland Coliseum when the A's baseball team returned from the final baseball World Series game in Cincinnati, according to Novato police.

Officers said the call was traced.

Election Got Poor TV Rating Because Of Second-Rate Cast

WASHINGTON — The television network executives met in the 40th floor conference room three days after the election. The ratings on the election night coverage had just come in and everyone looked very grim.

"Well, gentlemen," said the network president, "what do you have to say for yourselves?"

No one wanted to speak. Finally one of the vice presidents said, "I told you we should have gone with Medical Center insetead."

ANOTHER VICE president said, "I wanted to show Truth or Consequences, but you shouted me down."

The network president said, "The sponsor is very disappointed in us, gentlemen, very disappointed. We sold him on the idea that our election night coverage would sell more Blitzkrieg Dog Food than any program we had to offer this year. Not one can of Blitzkrieg has moved off the shelves since Tuesday night."

"What do we do?" A programming executive asked.

"WE CAN'T do anything about it this year," the president said, "but we have to think about the future. Gentlemen, I propose we cancel the presidential elections!"

"Cancel the presidential elections?" a vice president gasped.

"Yes," said the network president. "Not only the elections but the primaries and the conventions and the campaigns."

"But, chief," the programming head said, "we can't cancel the presidential elections just like that. They're an American tradition — like The Bell Telephone Hour."

"LET'S NOT GET sentimental about this, Stingblatt," the president said. "Our job is to please the public. These ratings indicate they are turned off on presidential elections. It's true that there is a certain group in this country who are still interested, but we have to think in numbers. There isn't a football game in the nation that wouldn't outrate the Tuesday night election results."

"Begging your pardon, sir," said the vice president in charge of news, "But even if the numbers aren't high, we should consider the presidential election now as a public service. I think it would be a mistake to cancel it because of its low rating."

"TELL THAT to the Blitzkrieg Dog Food Company," the network president said testily. "Look, gentlemen, I'd be the last one to go against the American tradition, but I owe my first allegiance to the stockholders. If nobody watches our shows then no one wants to advertise on them, and that means no dividends at the end of the year. Am I supposed to get up in front of a stockholders' meeting and tell them the reason we made no profit this-year is because the country wasn't interested in electing a president?"

"Wait a minute," the programming chief said. "Maybe we could work out a compromise. Why don't we put the presidential elections on Sunday morning from 8 until 12 o'clock before the golf tournament? That could satisfy the people who want to watch them, and we would still have prime time on Tuesday night for a movie."

One of the vice presidents said, "That could work, but before we make a decision, my department has done a survey of why the people turned off on election night.

"THE MAIN COMPLAINT was the casting. The majority of people interviewed believed that neither Richard Nixon nor George McGovern really looked like a presidential candidate. Now that was our mistake. We had no control over the package. It was delivered to us and we had to put it on as it was. I say next time we demand veto over whom the Democrats and Republicans put up. If we don't think they'll bring in an audience, then we cancel the show and put on What's My Line?"

"That's not bad," the programming chief agreed. "We have four years to find two candidates whom the public will watch on election night. What do you think, boss?"

"It's not my decision," the network president said. "I'll have to take it up with the people at the Blitzkrieg Dog Food Company."

Four In Family New Citizens—One Waits

Four members of a San Rafael family recently became United States citizens — and the fifth member is waiting impatiently for her naturalization.

Receiving their citizenship in federal district court in San Francisco were Sven Olof Johansson, hi wife Andrea Britt-Mari Johansson, son Svan Bertil, 19, and son Lars, 15, all of 460 Nova Albion Way.

Daughter Eva, 16, is awaiting her citizenship on a technicality. "She, poor thing, is sitting between" the ages of 16 and 18, Mrs. Johansen said. "I don't understand it."

Teen-agers between 16 and 18 years have dual nationality, and must wait until they are 18 to declare their choice of citizenship.

The Johanssons arrived in Marin County six years ago from Sweden by way of a four-year pause in Canada. The father is employed in Chevron Oil Co. shipping operations.

Their European homeplace was on the rocky western coast of Sweden, "an area much like the coast of Maine or Nova Scotia," Mrs. Johansson said. All but the oldest son have received all their schooling in Canadian and Marin County schools. All are "more or less all-American" youngsters, the mother reported, with a trace of Scandinavian accent lingering in her speech.

Others who received their citizenship papers from the U.S. District Court in San Francisco last month were:

SAN RAFAEL — Antonio Casas of 80 Margarita Road, Alexander Zambeli of 104 Greenwood Avenue, Eric William Jansen of 23 Minor Court, and Emil Abdel Sayed and Mona Fawzy Tanagho, both of 43 San Marino Drive.

SAUSALITO — Paul Kevin Curran of 61-A Sunshine Avenue.

Marinview Trails To Be Inspected

Acting on complaints from residents that rains have washed away the trail system in Marinview, directors of the Tamalpais Community Services District have decided to walk the trails themselves.

Board member Glenn Lambacher said directors decided Tuesday night to meet with Kenneth Frost, engineer for Allen-Marin, developers of Marinview, at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the district office and then walk over the trails.

Lambacher said the trail system is currently "a bone of contention" in the Tamalpais district, with some residents charging that rains have ruined the linking trails. leaving huge gullies.

The Tamalpais Community Services District Board Also:

PAVING — Approved going to bid in December for paving the corporation yard at 305 Bell Lane with asphalt.

TREES — Authorized spending $200 on 400 seedling trees to be planted throughout the district this fiscal year.

POLICY — Formally adopted the district table of organization and policy; it's taken a year to draft and includes job descriptions, vacations, benefits, prices and wage scales.

Argentina

The second largest country in South America, Argentina, was given its name, which means silver, by the Spanish. The Spaniards had heard of huge collections of silver and gold in South America. When explorers to the Argentine region sent home crude Indian ornaments made of silver, the Spanish believed that the area was the source of the continent's wealth. Today, Argentina's riches lie in its abundant and fertile farmlands. Agricultural and livestock products are its main exports. Gauchos, the Argentina cowboys, are a national symbol.
